Primary Day Next Tuesday First for State in 47 Years

By LYNN MULVANEY

Registered Democrats and Republicans will be treated to a new experience when they go to the polls next Tuesday for it is the first state primary in 47 years. Voting will take place from noon to 9 p. m.

Democrats in the 28th Congressional District will play a significantly larger role in the local balloting than the GOP due to the fact that they will not only be selecting an assembly and a state senatorial candidate but will be indirectly making a personal choice for a presidential candidate by voting for delegates to the national convention.

They will be asked to choose one of three senatorial candidates to oppose Republican incumbent Sen. Jacob K. Javits in November: Paul O'Dwyer, Eugene Nickerson and Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick.

In the Assembly race the choice will be between George Majestic and Dr. Gerald P. Gorman.

Because the New York primary is not a direct one, there will not be a vote for Vice President Hubert Humphrey or Sen. Eugene McCarthy. Nor will the voter be able to cast one ballot to choose a slate of persons supporting his presidential candidate.

Actually there are 18 levers from which to choose when it comes to selecting three delegates and three alternates to the national convention. The Democratic voter must select three of each but may mix or match them up regardless to whom each candidate is committed. The delegates and alternates are listed in states of three each committed to Humphrey, McCarthy and Kennedy but now uncommitted.

Delegate candidates to the national convention are: Joseph Y. Resnick, Thomas Quinn and Roy Guarino, committed to Humphrey; Robert Mabie, Hilary Masters and George Whalen, formerly committed to Kennedy, uncommitted; Marshall Effron, Tobie Geertsema and George Skau, committed to McCarthy.

The Republicans, whose candidates are listed at the top of the ballot, will choose a congressional candidate from among Gordon Liddy and Hamilton Fish Jr. and an assembly candidate from contenders, Peter J. Savago and H. Clark Bell Jr.

Registered Republican residents of the City of Kingston's fifth and sixth wards will have to make additional choices of aldermanic candidates. In the fifth ward, Burton Davis opposes Louis Smith and in the sixth ward, Brendon Alexander faces the old Second Ward incumbent, Robert Schantz.

Conservatives will have a county-wide write-in for member of assembly. No name will appear on the ballot.

Liberals, too, are in the contest with Sen. Jacob Javits opposed for the U.S. Senate nomination by Murray Baron.

Most of Ulster County voters will be using machines to cast votes but in all 14 districts of the Town of Saugerties and two out of three districts in Shandaken, paper ballots will be used.

To be eligible to vote in the primary one must be an enrolled member of a political party.

Enrollment figures for last year indicate Ulster County has 30,003 Republicans; 14,006 Democrats; 291 Liberals and 862 Conservatives. There are 16,834 not enrolled. The total number of voters last year was 61,996. These figures include Kingston.

The city breakdown shows 4,029 Republicans; 2,165 Democrats; 90 Liberals and 93 Conservatives. There are 6,332 not enrolled and 170 blanks.

Polling places throughout the county are as follows: Denning - District 1, Town Hall, Claryville; District 2, Ter Bush Hall, Sundown.

Town of Esopus - District 1, Town Hall, Port Ewen; District 3, Esopus Firehouse, Esopus; District 4, Rifton Firehouse, Rifton; District 5, Connelly,

Mishaps Take 2 Lives, County Toll Reaches 18

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

Within the span of 24 hours, Ulster County's state highways and village streets were the scene of four traffic accidents which resulted in two area residents being killed and 10 being sent to hospitals in Ellenville and Kingston.

Two of the injured remain in critical condition.

This brings the county's traffic toll to 18 for the year.

The injured range from ages nine through 61.

Killed were Richard G. Eckert, 25, of RD 3, Box 260, Kingston, and Gregory Philip Thomas, 19, of Kerhonkson.

According to Kingston State Police, Eckert was traveling south on Route 375, four-tenths of a mile south of Route 212 in the Town of Woodstock at 2:15 a. m. this morning.

near the Woodstock Country Club golf course, Eckert apparently lost control of his vehicle, ran off the right side of the road, hit a mailbox, then swerved back across the highway to the left side where he smashed into a tree.

Police speculate that he was traveling too fast for conditions.

Dead on Arrival

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Kingston Hospital by Coroner Henry S. Hartley.

At 10:45 p. m., Thomas was killed on Route 209 in the Wawarsing hamlet of Napanoch one-fifth of a mile north of Institution Road.

According to reports furnished by Ferndale State Police, the 19-year-old Kerhonkson youth was traveling south on 209 when he entered the northbound lane and crashed into a car carrying four Ellenville youths.

Roger Gorman, 17, of Ellenville, a passenger in the second car, suffered a fractured skull and severe lacerations of the forehead.

He was taken to Ellenville Community Hospital where his condition is reported as critical.

Also injured in the northbound vehicle were Wendy Tennenbaum, 16, lacerations of the face and left leg; Kristin Hornbeck, 16, lacerations of the chin and left leg, and 20-year-old Alan Barthel, abrasions and lacerations of both legs.

Both Miss Tennenbaum and Miss Hornbeck are listed in fair condition. Barthel's condition is good.

According to authorities, Thomas was dead on arrival at Ellenville Community.

Accord Girl Hurt

Critically injured in a two car accident in Town of Rochester yesterday, was a 17-year-old Accord girl who was trapped for 45 minutes in her damaged vehicle after it smashed into the rear of a car driven by a Long Island City man.

Suffering from internal injuries, numerous lacerations, and two broken legs, is Barbara Brush. After she was freed from the wreck, Miss Brush was taken to Kingston's Benedictine Hospital by the Kerhonkson First Aid Squad.

State Police reports declare that Miss Brush was driving north on Route 209 at about 4 p. m. when she struck the rear of a car driven by 61-year-old David Berger.

The Berger vehicle, also northbound, had stopped on the highway, reportedly to make a left turn.

Berger was treated for contusions to the body and released.

Four children ranging from nine through 13 are listed in fair condition at Benedictine Hospital after they were struck by a careening car while waiting to cross a street in the Village of Saugerties yesterday.

Village Police Chief Gordon Keeley stated that the injured were Sandra Daley, 9, of Saugerties, who suffered a fractured right leg, a concussion, and a laceration of the head; nine-year-old John Martin of Malden-on-Hudson who had a concussion and abrasions of the right leg; Marylou Washburn, 12, of Saugerties, who received a concussion and facial injuries, and 13-year-old Margaret Deek of Blue Mountain who also suffered a concussion along with abrasions of the arms and legs.

Chief Keeley said that the accident took place at 3:40 p. m. when a small car driven by Laurel Leloup, 21, of Latham, while driving east on Washington Avenue, reportedly passed a red light at the intersection of Washington and Main Street, and struck a West Coxsack School Transit bus.

Force of the collision hurled Miss Leloup's vehicle across the intersection and into the school children who were waiting at the curb.

Miss Leloup was issued a summons for passing a red light and fined $25.

B52's Hit Hard, Drop 150 Tons

By ROBERT D. OHMAN

SAIGON (AP) — American B52 bombers pounded Viet Cong infiltration routes with 150 tons of bombs today while ground forces searched for rocket firing sites around the perimeters of Saigon.

The rolling thunder of 500-pound bombs was clearly heard in the capital as the bombers made two strikes about 20 miles northwest of the city. The ground forces fanned out within the enemy's seven-mile rocket range of Saigon.

U.S. officials said the allied sweeps around Saigon have turned up more Russian-made 122 mm rockets than have been fired at the city. Since Jan. 29, they said, about 267 rockets have hit in or near Saigon, and in the same period allied soldiers found 304 of the six-foot rockets in enemy ammunition caches.

Twenty enemy mortar rounds fell along the Kinh Doi Canal on the southern fringe of Saigon, wounding two policemen and six South Vietnamese civilians.

About 60 Chinese-made 107mm rockets struck the big Bien Hoa airbase 15 miles north of Saigon, but U.S. spokesmen said they inflicted no casualties or damage.

In the northern provinces, a Viet Cong raiding party entered the Vinh, the refugee camp 15 miles south of Da Nang and abducted 60 persons after setting fire to 20 tents. A U.S. Marine spokesman said the civilians presumably would be used as a labor force.

Peace talks between the United States and North Vietnam are at a stalemate and neither side has showed any sign of making a concession. Story on page 3.

Enemy gunners also zeroed in on supply points and an airport.

The U.S. Marine command reported that twenty-two 122mm rockets hit the sprawling supply base northwest of Da Nang, inflicting light to moderate damage. Fifty artillery rounds inflicted light damage on the Cua Viet supply point six miles below the demilitarized zone.

One civilian was killed and 20 others were wounded when 32 mortar rounds slammed into the Quang Ngai City airport, 20 miles south of Da Nang.

After five weeks of bombardment, the center of Saigon has not been hit by rockets since Tuesday despite threats broadcast by North Vietnam's official news agency that the Viet Cong will continue rocket attacks on the capital and the northern suburb of Gia Dinh.

Because of the shelling, the Australian and Japanese embassies advised their nonessential civilian residents to leave Saigon. But the United States and France, which have the largest number of civilians in South Vietnam, did not issue evacuation notices.

The U.S. Command has termed the Viet Cong shelling of Saigon "random and indiscriminate," designed to terrorize the population.

In the air war, U.S. planes flew 82 missions over North Vietnam's panhandle Friday, compared to the 135 and 156 strikes flown the previous two days. Navy spokesmen said one of the carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin was on a routine one day "stand-down" and did not launch any strikes.

Pilots said they damaged two large oil storage areas near the city of Vinh and Mu Gia Pass, and hit trucks, highways and bridges which supply enemy troops in South Vietnam.

Dr. Spock to Appeal, Faces Five Years in Jail

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON

BOSTON (AP) — Baby doctor Benjamin Spock, Yale University Chaplain William Sloane Coffin Jr., and two others have been convicted of conspiracy to counsel young men to evade the draft. A fifth defendant was acquitted.

"My main defense," Spock said, "was that I believed a citizen must work against a war he feels is contrary to international law. The court has decided to feel differently."

After the conviction Friday night by an all-male federal jury, Spock's counsel, Leonard Boudin, and defense attorneys for the other three said there would be an appeal to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The four men were expected to carry their appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court, if necessary, as part of their opposition to the Vietnam war.

Convicted with Coffin and the 65-year-old pediatrician were Michael Ferber, 23, a Harvard graduate student, and Mitchell Goodman, 44, a writer and teacher from Temple, Maine.

Marcus Raskin, 34, a Wash-

ington research director, was found innocent by the jury after seven hours and 20 minutes of deliberation. The trial began May 20 and lasted four weeks.

Raskin walked from the 12th floor courtroom in federal courthouse, his head down and tears in his eyes.

"I feel very good for myself," he said in a choked voice, "and badly for the others."

Raskin's lawyer, Calvin Bartlett, maintained during the trial that Raskin was not part of any conspiracy and barely knew his co-defendants.

U.S. District Judge Francis J. W. Ford ordered Spock and the other three freed in personal recognizance until sentencing on July 10. They face maximum sentences of five-year prison terms and $10,000 fines.

The jury, in a list of findings on specific charges made in the indictment, found that Spock and the other three conspired to counsel, aid and abet Selective Service registrants to refuse or evade duties under the Selective Service Act.

"My belief has always been," Coffin said, "that the issues we wanted to bring before the court were never argued. That's the legality and constitutionality of the war and the draft. Perhaps the appeals level is the place to do it."

Later, at a news conference on the first floor of the courthouse Coffin added, "I speak for all. If this is a conspiracy, we have the lightning bug confused with the lightning."

Coffin added he was "absolutely delighted" that Raskin was acquitted and described the acquittal as "an important victory for the First Amendment."

"If the jury had found all five of us guilty there would have been the danger of an epidemic of indictments against people who are protesting the draft and the war."

Ferber also said it was "important that one of us was found innocent."

"Marc got off and he certainly should have," Ferber said. "He felt worse than the rest of us, because of the solidarity that has grown up between us since our indictment. We all thought it would have been good to stand or fall together."

Goodman, his arm around his wife Denise, told newsmen: "The Vietnam war is an overwhelming atrocity which is dishonoring our country. My feeling remains that a man has to live by his conscience."

Judge Ford had ruled that the legality of the Vietnam war and of Selective Service laws were not issues in the case.

After they left the courthouse, Spock and his wife Jane, the Goodmans, Ferber and a number of defense lawyers went to a cocktail lounge. When Spock danced with his wife there was applause and cheering.

Archbishop Returns

Archbishop Terence J. Cooke returns to Ulster County this weekend to participate in two most happy events.

This afternoon the Archbishop will bless the new convent and school addition at St. Mary of the Snow in Saugerties. Tomorrow he will dedicate the Cardinal Spellman Pavilion at Benedictine Hospital.

Today's festivities in the northern Ulster village will start at 3:30 p. m. with a procession into the church for a brief ceremony prior to the blessing of the eight-room school addition and the new convent which will accommodate 12 sisters.

A civic reception will be held at St. Mary's Hall after the blessing. A dinner for 100 clergy, religious and special guests will be held in the evening at the school. Civic, educational and religious leaders of the area are expected to attend.

Taking part in the procession will be the Most Rev. James E. McManus, episcopal vicar of Sullivan and Ulster Counties, bishop. Main speaker will be the Rev. Michael V. Bell of St. Margaret's Church, Pearl River and the Rev. John E. Ward, pastor of St. Colman's Church, East Kingston; Archbishop Cooke, with deacons of honor the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Louis A. Stryker, formerly of Veteran, now of St. John's, Kingsbridge, Bronx; the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. Reardon, pastor of St. John's, Veteran; the Rt. Rev. James J. McNally, pastor of St. Catherine Laboure, Lake Katrine and the Rev. Charles Kaufman, pastor of St. Mary of the Snow.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. James Rigney, secretary to the Archbishop and the Rev. Joseph Hamilton, assistant at St. Mary's will act as masters of ceremonies.

At the reception, Charles H. Granwehr, trustee of the parish and chairman of the building fund will present the greetings of the church. School children Patrick Crane and Melissa McCahan will present a spiritual and floral bouquet to the Archbishop. Main speaker will be the Rev. Michael V. Bell of St. Margaret's Church, Pearl River and the Rev. John E. The POWER of FAITH

By WOOD ISHMAEL

The Statue of Christ on Mount Corcovado has stretched out its arms over Rio de Janeiro for a quarter of a century. Glistening in the sun by day and bathed in electric lights by night, it is symbolic of the faith of Brazil, the world's largest Roman Catholic nation. From earliest history Corcovado has been endowed with religious significance. The first explorers called Corcovado the "Pinnacle of Temptation," in reference to the Biblical description of the temptation of Christ. It seemed almost inevitable that a statue of Christ would some day be erected on the mountain.

Early in the history of Rio, a Catholic father wrote, "O Corcovado, there rises the giant of precipitous stone, tall and sad, as if interrogating the immense horizon. . . . When will you come? So many centuries I have waited. Yes, here is the only pedestal in the world, where the colossal statue comes, image of the one who made me."

The symbolism extends beyond the exterior of the statue, for inside the chest of the hollow interior a heart is carved in the reinforced grey concrete.

Peace Prayer Day Slated by General Synod

The General Synod of the Reformed Church in America meeting in Ann Arbor, Mich., voted to set aside Sunday, June 30 as a Day of Prayer for Peace in Vietnam.

All member of the denomination are being urged to fast on that Sunday and contribute sacrificial offerings for the civilian victims of the war, offering prayers for all people caught up in the tragic struggle.

The General Synod also adopted a resolution on the death by violence of Senator Robert F. Kennedy and observed a period of silent prayer for "contrition and redemption."

The General Synod of the Reformed Church in America voted to approve a comprehensive reorganization, unifying its Boards of World Missions, North American Missions, Christian Education, and Pensions, and its Stewardship Council into one Program Council. The total program of this Council will be administered by a board of 60 members, 45 persons elected by the lower judicatories of the church and five persons elected by the General Synod.

The Synod approved a budget of $5,043,000 to carry on its World missions, national missions, church extension, Christian education and ministerial pensions, for the year 1969.

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, chairman of the Development Fund Campaign of $5,000,000 for special capital needs facing the church's colleges and seminaries, and its church extension and overseas missions, reported that over $5,000,000 has already been committed. This giving represents a per member commitment of $21.75, a new national average for campaigns of this type.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISMAEL

The Statue of Christ on Mount Corcovado has stretched out its arms over Rio de Janeiro for a quarter of a century. Glistening in the sun by day and bathed in electric lights by night, it is symbolic of the faith of Brazil, the world's largest Roman Catholic nation. From earliest history Corcovado has been endowed with religious significance. The first explorers called Corcovado the "Pinnacle of Temptation," in reference to the Biblical description of the temptation of Christ. It seemed almost inevitable that a statue of Christ would some day be erected on the mountain.

Early in the history of Rio, a Catholic father wrote, "O Corcovado, there rises the giant of precipitous stone, tall and sad, as if interrogating the immense horizon. . . . When will you come? So many centuries I have waited. Yes, here is the only pedestal in the world, where the colossal statue comes, image of the one who made me."

The symbolism extends beyond the exterior of the statue, for inside the chest of the hollow interior a heart is carved in the reinforced grey concrete.

Peace Prayer Day Slated by General Synod

The General Synod of the Reformed Church in America meeting in Ann Arbor, Mich., voted to set aside Sunday, June 30 as a Day of Prayer for Peace in Vietnam.

All member of the denomination are being urged to fast on that Sunday and contribute sacrificial offerings for the civilian victims of the war, offering prayers for all people caught up in the tragic struggle.

The General Synod also adopted a resolution on the death by violence of Senator Robert F. Kennedy and observed a period of silent prayer for "contrition and redemption."

The General Synod of the Reformed Church in America voted to approve a comprehensive reorganization, unifying its Boards of World Missions, North American Missions, Christian Education, and Pensions, and its Stewardship Council into one Program Council. The total program of this Council will be administered by a board of 60 members, 45 persons elected by the lower jurisdictions of the church and five persons elected by the General Synod.

The Synod approved a budget of $5,043,000 to carry on its World missions, national missions, church extension, Christian education and ministerial pensions, for the year 1969.

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, chairman of the Development Fund Campaign of $6,000,000 for special capital needs facing the church's colleges and seminaries, and its church extension and overseas missions, reported that over $5,000,000 has already been committed. This giving represents a per member commitment of $21.75, a new national average for campaigns of this type.

Holy Land Tour Program Slated Uptown Sunday

Color slides of the Holy Land will be shown Sunday, 7 p. m., in the Kingston Alliance Church, 90 Millers Lane, according to the pastor, the Rev. George B. Osborne.

HOWEVER: H. Clark Bell was elected to the State Constitutional Convention. BUT! What was his record there? All the Resolutions he offered were not allowed out of committee. One would have taken away your right to vote on school budgets!

Another idea of Bell's would have placed all Welfare under Federal control. Thus eliminating our home rule! And H. Clark Bell was the only delegate to vote against the Constitution's Bill of Rights!!

Talk Stalemate, No Hopeful Signs

PARIS (AP) — At the end of five weeks, the peace talks between the United States and North Vietnam rested on dead center today. Neither side showed any sign of making a concession that could break the stalemate.

The next meeting between Ambassadors W. Averell Harriman of the United States and Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam is scheduled for Wednesday following a week-long recess. During the recess Harriman will consult with his advisers here and keep in touch with policy-makers in Washington. Since last Wednesday's meeting, which produced another round of argument over how to de-escalate the war, Thuy and his delegation have been silent, but claims of military victory and eventual triumph for the United States stop all attacks on

North Vietnamese cause continue to be heard from Hanoi. The latest came Friday from Defense Minister Vo Nguyen Giap in an interview with the Algerian newspaper El Moudjahid. Giap was quoted as saying the battles now going on in South Vietnam are comparable to the battle of Dien Bien Phu in 1954 in which his forces defeated the French. U.S. officials believe the stream of victory claims coming out of Hanoi in recent weeks may be designed in part to boost the fighting spirit of the Communist forces in the South. They also believe the verbal barrage is aimed at convincing world opinion that the United States and its allies are losing the war and should therefore negotiate a surrender in Paris. The issue on which Harriman and Thuy have been deadlocked from the beginning is North Vietnam's demand that the its territory and the U.S. count have been introduced, virtually all the arguments made by Harriman and Thuy in the past five weeks have revolved repetitiously around this initial issue.

Official Opening Of Kingston Beach

Kingston Point Beach was officially opened today, according to Andrew J. Murphy III, Superintendent of the Recreation Commission. The beach will open daily at 10:30 a. m. until late August, with lifeguard supervision provided at all times. Beginning on Saturday, June 22, the closing hours of the beach will be extended from 6:00 to 7:30 in the evening. The beach is maintained and staffed by the Kingston Recreation Commission. All lifeguards are certified by the Red Cross. Swimming lessons will be given to all local residents by the guard force as soon as the instructional pool scheduled for the beach is completed. This pool will be strictly for teaching purposes, and will have a constant depth of three and one half feet of water. The Commission would like to remind all persons that the waters at Kingston Point Beach are constantly checked by the Ulster County Health Department, and are reported to be free of bacteria. As in the past, the only charge at Kingston Point Beach will be for parking.

Talk Stalemate, No Hopeful Signs

PARIS (AP) — At the end of five weeks, the peace talks between the United States and North Vietnam rested on dead center today. Neither side showed any sign of making a concession that could break the stalemate.

The next meeting between Ambassadors W. Averell Harriman of the United States and Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam is scheduled for Wednesday following a week-long recess.

During the recess Harriman will consult with his advisers here and keep in touch with policy-makers in Washington. Since last Wednesday's meeting, which produced another round of argument over how to de-escalate the war, Thuy and his delegation have been silent, but claims of military victory and eventual triumph for the United States stop all attacks on

North Vietnamese cause continue to be heard from Hanoi. The latest came Friday from Defense Minister Vo Nguyen Giap in an interview with the Algerian newspaper El Moudjahid. Giap was quoted as saying the battles now going on in South Vietnam are comparable to the battle of Dien Bien Phu in 1954 in which his forces defeated the French.

U.S. officials believe the stream of victory claims coming out of Hanoi in recent weeks may be designed in part to boost the fighting spirit of the Communist forces in the South. They also believe the verbal barrage is aimed at convincing world opinion that the United States and its allies are losing the war and should therefore negotiate a surrender in Paris.

The issue on which Harriman and Thuy have been deadlocked from the beginning is North Vietnam's demand that the its territory and the U.S. command have been introduced, virtually all the arguments made by Harriman and Thuy in the past five weeks have revolved repetitiously around this initial issue.

Official Opening Of Kingston Beach

Kingston Point Beach was officially opened today, according to Andrew J. Murphy III, Superintendent of the Recreation Commission.

The beach will open daily at 10:30 a. m. until late August, with lifeguard supervision provided at all times. Beginning on Saturday, June 22, the closing hours of the beach will be extended from 6:00 to 7:30 in the evening.

The beach is maintained and staffed by the Kingston Recreation Commission. All lifeguards are certified by the Red Cross. Swimming lessons will be given to all local residents by the guard force as soon as the instructional pool scheduled for the beach is completed. This pool will be strictly for teaching purposes, and will have a constant depth of three and one half feet of water.

The Commission would like to remind all persons that the waters at Kingston Point Beach are constantly checked by the Ulster County Health Department, and are reported to be free of bacteria.

As in the past, the only charge at Kingston Point Beach will be for parking.

Rabbi Eichhorn At Conference

Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn, spiritual leader of Temple Emanuel, will attend the 79th annual convention of the Central Conference of American Rabbis at the Statler Hilton Hotel in Boston, from June 16 through June 20.

The theme for this year's rabbinical convention is, "Where Are We Now?" The 700 rabbis who will attend the conference will examine the problems that are plaguing contemporary man.

The conference will begin with a special program of study dealing with the dissatisfaction of modern man.

Temple Emanuel Plans Picnic

The Brotherhood of Temple Emanuel will hold a congregational picnic for all members and their families on Sunday afternoon, June 16, beginning at 12 noon, at the Jewish Community Center campsite.

Families are asked to bring bag lunches. Beverages will be provided by the Brotherhood. There will be swimming, games and amusement provided for all who attend.

Arrangements are being made by Albert Spiegel, Edward Levine, Dr. Allan Segal, Ray Rifenburg and Nat Cass.

Woman Arrested

A 25-year-old city woman was arrested and charged with harassment early this morning after being found ringing doorbells and knocking on doors in a downtown residential section.

Joan B. Swart of 246 W. Chestnut Street was arrested by city police at 4:45 a. m. and paroled in the custody of her mother.

Primary Election

Primary Day, June 18, enrolled voters of Ulster County will go to the polls and express their choice for nominees for elective office. In order to be able to vote in a primary, a voter must be enrolled in the party in which the contest is being held.

The number of important primary elections scheduled next Tuesday point to the significance of enrolling in a political party.

For the office of U.S. Senator, enrolled Democrats will have the opportunity of seconding the nomination of Paul O'Dwyer, Eugene H. Nickerson or Joseph Y. Resnick. Republican incumbent Senator Jacob K. Javits is opposed only by Murray Baron on the Liberal ticket.

This contest features a major first-direct selection by enrolled Democrats of their party's nominees for U. S. Senator. It will be the first application of a 1966 state law that replaced the old convention system of choosing candidates for statewide office.

For the House of Representatives of the 28th Congressional District, which comprises the counties of Ulster, Columbia, Dutchess, Greene and Schoharie, enrolled Republicans will choose either G. Gordon Liddy or Hamilton Fish Jr. The Democratic nominee, John S. Dyson, is unopposed.

In the Democratic primary for national convention delegates, there are three slates of candidates: Humphrey supporters, Joseph Y. Resnick, Roy Guarino and Thomas Quinn; McCarthy supporters, Marshall R. Efron, Tobie A. Geertsema and George H. Skau; Kennedy supporters, now uncommitted, George E. Whalen, Hilary Masters and Roger W. Mabie.

In the 99th Assembly District for the office of assemblyman, there are contests in both Republican and Democratic primaries.

In the Republican primary, Peter J. Savago is opposing H. Clark Bell. In the Democratic primary, George Majestic opposes Dr. Gerald P. Gorman.

There are other contests including several in the Republican primary for the office of alderman in the City of Kingston.

Many voters who enroll regularly when registering have failed to vote in past primaries giving as their reason the lack of contests. They can't say that this year.

Others just don't bother. It is this indifference, rather than flagrant corruption, that is the heart of much of our government today.

Some voters don't register because they are suspicious of telling anyone of their party preference. But many others disdain enrollment because of a misguided notion that they are too good for it—that they are "independents."

Independence in voting is a fine thing. But this country's government is built on a party system and no one can participate fully in the electoral process without being an enrolled party member. Enrollment does not curtail "independence." How one votes is a personal matter completely unaffected by whether one happens to belong to one party or another.

But it doesn't do any good to be enrolled and then not exercise this right of citizenship. Polls will be open from 12 noon to 9 p. m., which should be long enough for everybody.

Veto Crime-Control Bill

The President should veto the so-called "crime-control" bill.

And those persons who are suggesting the bill be a memorial to Robert F. Kennedy are insulting his memory.

Just because this bill bans mail-order sale of pistols and revolvers does not make it a tribute to Senator Kennedy.

He favored far more effective gun control than that. Certainly he would not have condoned a bill that permits the mail-order purchase of shotguns and rifles—like the one that killed his brother.

Senator Kennedy was on record opposed to the bill's Title II, an attempt to overrule decisions by the Supreme Court.

And Senator Kennedy would have narrowed the indiscriminate use of wiretapping and eavesdropping devices for comparatively minor suspected crimes.

Except for financial assistance to local police, nothing in this bill will combat crime in the streets.

Rep. Emanuel Celler of New York correctly called it "an illusory bill which was a cruel hoax on people whose fear of crime is a fact of life."

Don't accept the pretense that this bill meets any of the principles for which Robert Kennedy fought—and died.

The President should veto it and demand that Congress enact the type of legislation he originally requested.

The last of the 1,000 lowest income counties in the country that did not provide food for the poor are being stocked with surplus food by the Department of Agriculture this week. There were 42 holdouts, where local authority refused to distribute the food. There still will be 571 other than low-income counties that do not have surplus food plans or food stamps.

"Meanwhile, Anybody Got an Aspirin?"

Henry J. Taylor Says De Gaulle Deserves Our Pity

I think President Charles de Gaulle, partly great, partly defeated, and all French, deserves our pity. Holy cats, the French!

When "The King is dead" was announced in Paris in 1774 the young Louis XVI, barely 20, and his beautiful child wife, Marie Antoinette, fell on their knees and prayed, "Oh, God, protect us, direct us, we are too young."

Nineteen years later they were beheaded. There were to be no more sovereigns in France. Yet within 11 years Napoleon was crowned Emperor in Notre Dame.

The limping Talleyrand raised France like a phoenix from the hot ashes of Napoleon's senseless conquests, only to have the Bonapartists call him in 1814 a coward, a traitor, a thief.

Lafayette returned to France wearing his uniform as an American major general. A hero's welcome? Civil disorders forced him to flee to Austria. He was caught by dissidents and imprisoned at the Moravian fortress of Olmutz.

"Concessions were the downfall of Louis XVI," said Charles X, the successor of Louis XVIII. "I must either ride on horseback or in a cart." He did neither. The three 'glorious days' of internal revolt drove him out of France.

In 1845 Victor Hugo transformed an interest in politics into an obsession. Patient, adoring Juliette Drouet rescued him during a particularly aggressive political foray and smuggled him off to Brussels disguised as a lorryman.

They moved to the Isle of Guernsey where he wrote "Les Misérables" and Hugo stayed there in a sort of martyrdom for 17 years.

When Hugo re-entered France's political jungle he was a great hero, far greater than De Gaulle, second only to Bonaparte. But he was bitterly disappointed when Louis Napoleon—an outlaw a year earlier, ailing, starved and alone—was chosen President of France instead of himself. The French people's selection of this contriving relative was all but imbecilic.

"My name," said this Napoleon, "is a complete program in itself."

That man," said British Queen Victoria's Prince Consort about him, "is a walking lie."

Eventually events caught up with his walking. Napoleon III lasted only one year and was to announce at the end, when taken prisoner by the Prussians in the defeat which came within six weeks, "I seem to have abdicated." The Parisian street crowds said of the Prussian Army when it walked in: "Formidable—but not chic." Royal chic, however, had not done much for the French Army or people.

Nevertheless, the people chose as President of the successive Third Republic the most ardent royalist in France, Marshal MacMahon, as utterly unlikely a choice as his own name.

The French are a people who expect more logic in other countries than they display in their own.

Heroic Brig. Gen. Charles de Gaulle made his resistance appeal from London on June 18, 1940. He said an external France was indispensable. But millions of French somehow condemned him. He had left France. He was not suffering with them their terrible occupation hardships and humiliations. Instead, they grumbled, he is a ventriloquist's dummy on Winston Churchill's knee. "No matter what happens," said Marshal Henri Petain, "I shall not leave my country."

For years de Gaulle's hardest difficulties with the French were rooted in this illogical complaint. But from the 17th Century on, these remarkable people in their lovely land were the world's true civilizers. And through all the inconsistency, the French nation became the trunk of democracy in Europe. In fact, over a period of time, never has there been any other large democracy on the Continent except France.

The viewpoints and shades of temperament that so disturb us—these are not peculiar to the French; they are human differences and all of us in our different ways are liable to them. Lunacy, too, is universal. All countries have their share. Don't we—and in a very big way?

In our many proper angers about de Gaulle perhaps there should be enough room left in our hearts for pity. One day we may even miss him. For there is a touch of greatness in this man, mixed with the great troubles he has caused us, and if he loses the election later this month we and the French alike some day may wish we had him back.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The smiling, cautiously friendly confrontation between two political roosters in the television pit pointed up, by omission, man's greatest failure. He has a nostrum for every problem; he seldom tries to anticipate one. He builds expensive dams to control flood waters that didn't exist until he went up into the headlands to cut the timber that held the water.

Man doesn't act; he reacts. The architect of civil rights, John F. Kennedy, saw no long hot summers ahead. Herbert Hoover was promising two chickens in every pot and a highway, four aimed in each direction. I cannot applaud the man who invented the umbrella; I'm on the side of the man who dreams of satellite photos of weather. Almost everything we devise is obsolete the day the ribbon is cut.

We are in an age of intellectual pygmies. What we need is someone who can see at least 15 years ahead. Most of the trends are already obvious. In a comparatively short time, two out of every three people in the world will be Oriental. They are hungry and deprived. Is it not reasonable to assume that they must come here someday to take what they need to live? America is both fat and edible.

Around the North Atlantic basin, 10 per cent of the people of the world own 90 per cent of the riches. They do not pump oil personally, but they own the land that does. This group, economically intelligent and philosophically dull, do not appreciate the convulsion of hunger that will afflict most of the remainder of the world, beginning in 1972 in India. Less than one generation is the amount of time left to convert the two billion have-nots into potential customers of the haves.

We spend our time enjoying a political soccer game called the primaries. Does it matter, really, who is elected? We have a choice of faces, not of realities. Can you define the policy differences between, say, Nixon and Humphrey?

I am but one voter, like you. My voice squeaks in the tempest. I cannot trust a system that builds eight-lane highways, four aimed in each direction. I cannot applaud the man who invented the umbrella; I'm on the side of the man who dreams of satellite photos of weather. Almost everything we devise is obsolete the day the ribbon is cut.

The law says the Negro is equal. The white man says he isn't. There are 20,000,000 Negroes; 180,000,000 whites. The Negro is the best propagandist for the white supremacist; he riots; he burns; he loots. No one can make our dark brothers look worse than his own lunatics. To placate him, we put one on the Supreme Court, but keep his family men out of the unions. No matter what the law says, he is still wiping his feet at the back door.

We cannot plan the past; the present is gone as you draw the next breath; only the future stands still. The United Nations should employ the finest engineering brains from each of its countries to draw together in a permanent committee to look ahead to 1983 and to solve the problems of the world now. The President of the United States would profit immeasurably if he was permitted to employ a full-time planning team.

Did anyone call our attention to the plight of the ghettos 15 years ago? No, Nelson Rockefeller saw them clearly in 1968 and submitted a plan to eliminate them by spending scores of billions of dollars, thus taxing the rest of us into our own ghettos. My quarrel is not with politics, a game Americans play between the end of baseball season and the opening of football. It is with political philosophy and planning.

For example, no one will ever eliminate poverty so long as some people are less prosperous than others. If the lowest common denominator per family was raised to $10,000 per annum, that would be the poverty level, and it would purchase less of the goodness of life than could be afforded by those of better means. Economics is an elastic garter; whether it is comfortable or not depends upon whose leg it adorns.

I listened to the debate on television and, at the conclusion, I was depressed. These men—and their competitors for power—were cure cancer with oral saline. I wish I had been there as the Devil's Advocate. There are times when I can admire a man who says: "I don't know."

This is not the era of the custom-tailored palliative. It is the time when the machine comes up with a better solution. If a computer learns to grow a beard and wear beads, it could be elected President.

Drew Pearson Says Resurrection City Should Fold Up; Some Goals Accomplished

WASHINGTON — For their own good and the good of the country, the Poor People's March should now fold up Resurrection City and go home.

In the first place, they have achieved some of their goals. A $5 billion housing bill has been passed; more than $200 million in surplus food has been earmarked.

In the second place, the Poor People have reached the point of diminishing returns. If they stay any longer, they may hurt what they have accomplished.

No group in years has been treated so generously by the federal government, which allowed them to camp on a public park, and by the churches of the city and by most of the residents of Washington. The churches opened up their doors, women made thousands of sandwiches, people contributed blankets, the Hechinger hardware stores contributed lumber at cost, many grocery chains contributed food.

The public park adjacent to the Lincoln Memorial has been churned up by bulldozers and the daily wear of several thousand feet to a point where it will take at least a year to restore the grass. Poor People's marshals, acting with the officiousness which they objected to on the part of Birmingham police, have even barred picture taking, saying, "These are private homes," though of course they are located on land belonging to all the taxpayers.

Negro newsmen have been beaten and pushed around. The Supreme Court, which has done more for racial equality than any institution in history, had its windows broken. The Negro population of Washington has suffered economically because summer business is down, tourism is off. Greyhound bus alone cancelled $200,000 worth of bus trips to Washington. This hurts the Negro population of Washington first.

All this has been taken with considerable forbearance by the citizens of Washington.

Negro newsmen have been the most critical. "The Washington press," wrote William Raspberry, widely read Negro columnist of the Washington Post, has, if anything, been too kind. If more of the internal strife, lack of control and poor discipline had been reported, there might have been more pressure . . . to set things right."

Louis Lomax, national Negro columnist, has reported on "absentee leadership" of "a city of chaos" and told of a "night of violence, disruption and non-leadership that easily could have spilled over into Washington itself."

He reported how "several carloads of middle-class women, Negro and white, who arrived with food and clothing were brusquely turned away by marshals whose lack of knowledge manifested itself in surliness and incredible rudeness."

Lomax described Resurrection City as "completely unsafe, a jungle at night." And as early as May 25 he called it a "city falling apart, dangerously so."

It is now June 15 and Resurrection City, abandoned by a majority of the Poor People, should fold up and go home.

Closed Door Vote
Despite the assassination of three national leaders in four and a half years, and despite the current clamor by the American people for gun control, an overwhelming majority of Republicans on the House Judiciary Committee voted against a strict gun control law this week.

The vote was behind closed doors so the public could not know how the vote went. However, we can report the roll call.

William M. McCulloch, Ohio; Richard H. Poff, Va.; Clark MacGregor, Minn.; Edward Hutchinson, Mich.; Robert McClory, Ill.; Henry P. Smith, III, N. Y.; William V. Roth, Jr., Del.; Thomas J. Meskill, Conn.; Charles W. Sandman, Jr., N. J.; Thomas F. Railsback, Ill.; Edward G. Blester, Jr., Pa.; Charles E. Wiggins, Calif.

Four Democrats voted with the Republicans against gun control as follows: William M. Tuck, Va.; Robert T. Ashmore, S. C.; John Dowdy, Tex.; Basil L. Whitener, N. C.

Two Republicans who voted for gun control were Charles Mathias, who is running for the Senate in Maryland, and Arch Moore, who is running for governor of West Virginia. Two Democrats were absent: Edwin Willis, La., and Jack Brooks, Tex.

The bill was relatively weak and did not call for the registration of guns. It merely added long guns to the sale of hand guns which are already regulated in the anti-crime bill.

When the vote was announced 16 to 16, which meant defeat, Rep. McCulloch, the ranking Republican, explained that he was voting "no" because of the too rapid procedure. He wanted more time to debate the bill.

Politely, Chairman Celler reminded McCulloch that the Senate amendments to the crime bill had been rammed down the committee's throat without any debate at all.

"I asked that these amendments be sent back to conference for careful consideration," said the chairman. "The amendments include not only a gun control bill but vitally important amendments affecting rulings of the Supreme Court. You Republicans voted overwhelmingly against proper debate."

Note: The Democrats who voted inside the Judiciary Committee for gun control were: Emanuel Celler; Michael Feighan, Ohio; Peter Rodino, N. View From Kennedy Train: Democrats Are in Gloom

By BRUCE BISSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) —

A mood of pessimism over prospects of holding the presidency is seeping into some Democratic leadership quarters.

Even before the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, more than a few party leaders held a fairly gloomy view of Democratic chances in November. These and others feel now that the party's political peril has been gravely magnified by the tragedy of Los Angeles.

It is not only that the Democrats have lost their most charismatic leader, who had a good fighting chance for the 1968 nomination despite rival claims and some punditry to the contrary.

It is that some leaders feel that, as the incumbent party, the Democrats inevitably will bear a major share of blame for the national chaos against which the tragedy occurred. The fear is of the usual revulsion against the "ins" when matters are not going well.

Talks with key figures who traveled the Kennedy funeral train underscored this concern heavily. Their conviction was that Richard Nixon or Nelson Rockefeller could surely defeat the likely Democratic winner. Vice President Hubert Humphrey. Nor did they think the party outlook would be improved by having Sen. Eugene McCarthy as their standard-bearer.

In the emotional atmosphere of that eight-hour train trip from New York to Washington, it was not surprising to learn that the name of Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, the only surviving brother of the two slain Kennedys, was heard many times in the presidential context. But there was no evidence that this talk was grounded in the stern political realities of the moment.

One idea remarkably absent from the train conversations was that of a possible "sympathy vote" which might rebound to the Democrats' advantage in November.

Four-and-a-half years ago, politicians assessing the effect of John Kennedy's assassination immediately and correctly forecast a big sympathy vote for his successor, President Johnson.

The feeling today seems to be that sympathy is unlikely to be extended to a party during whose rule such frightening status has been gained by hate, killing, unrest and widespread defiance of authority.

But if pessimism is growing in Democratic circles, so is a feeling of dismay that the political cupboard in both parties is so bare of heroic leadership potential.

The times being badly out of joint, they appear to call for extraordinary men with an extraordinary capacity to move millions to great tasks of rebuilding and reconciliation. The very real abilities of Richard Nixon and Hubert Humphrey are not seen by most politicians as reaching this level.

Nor is it regarded as sufficient to suggest that the earlier example of a seemingly quite ordinary man, Harry Truman, offers hope that either Humphrey or Nixon may rise to the desperate occasion we suffer today.

For all the fact that Truman dealt bravely with the climactic phase of World War II, with the need to help a shattered Europe recover and raise defenses against an encroaching Soviet Union, with the sudden Red aggression against Korea, these issues appear relatively simplistic as set beside the complexities of war and peace and domestic turmoil which plague us now.

Moreover, any fair appraisal of Truman's domestic record produces the inescapable conclusion that his "Fair Deal" was almost wholly a thing of paper promises, never translated into law and reality.

The emotional turn toward Ted Kennedy, visible on the funeral train, was in good part an expression of the helplessness felt at the glaring leadership gap.

Across the line in the Republican arena, Nelson Rockefeller strives with rising fervor and energy to recapture the leadership magic he once appeared to have in abundance but saw sharply diminished in the political wars of 1964-68.

Whether he can rests heavily with him, but also with a Republican party which, by some curious perversity, continuously and doggedly puts down its most hopefully charismatic figures. Men like John Lindsay and Charles Percy, hailed in their moment of victory, climb up party way—only to be pulled back into the smothering company of the familiar, the usual, the unmovable and the unheroic.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 15, 1968

Primary Election

Primary Day, June 18, enrolled voters of Ulster County will go to the polls and express their choice for nominees for elective office. In order to be able to vote in a primary, a voter must be enrolled in the party in which the contest is being held.

The number of important primary elections scheduled next Tuesday point to the significance of enrolling in a political party.

For the office of U.S. Senator, enrolled Democrats will have the opportunity of seconding the nomination of Paul O'Dwyer, Eugene H. Nickerson or Joseph Y. Resnick. Republican incumbent Senator Jacob K. Javits is opposed only by Murray Baron on the Liberal ticket.

This contest features a major first-direct selection by enrolled Democrats of their party's nominees for U. S. Senator. It will be the first application of a 1966 state law that replaced the old convention system of choosing candidates for statewide office.

For the House of Representatives of the 28th Congressional District, which comprises the counties of Ulster, Columbia, Dutchess, Greene and Schoharie, enrolled Republicans will choose either G. Gordon Liddy or Hamilton Fish Jr. The Democratic nominee, John S. Dyson, is unopposed.

In the Democratic primary for national convention delegates, there are three slates of candidates: Humphrey supporters, Joseph Y. Resnick, Roy Guarino and Thomas Quinn; McCarthy supporters, Marshall R. Efron, Tobie A. Geertsema and George H. Skau; Kennedy supporters, now uncommitted, George E. Whalen, Hilary Masters and Roger W. Mabie.

In the 99th Assembly District for the office of assemblyman, there are contests in both Republican and Democratic primaries.

In the Republican primary, Peter J. Savago is opposing H. Clark Bell. In the Democratic primary, George Majestic opposes Dr. Gerald P. Gorman.

There are other contests including several in the Republican primary for the office of alderman in the City of Kingston.

Many voters who enroll regularly when registering have failed to vote in past primaries giving as their reason the lack of contests. They can't say that this year.

Others just don't bother. It is this indifference, rather than flagrant corruption, that is the heart of much of our government today.

Some voters don't register because they are suspicious of telling anyone of their party preference. But many others disdain enrollment because of a misguided notion that they are too good for it—that they are "independents."

Independence in voting is a fine thing. But this country's government is built on a party system and no one can participate fully in the electoral process without being an enrolled party member. Enrollment does not curtail "independence." How one votes is a personal matter completely unaffected by whether one happens to belong to one party or another.

But it doesn't do any good to be enrolled and then not exercise this right of citizenship. Polls will be open from 12 noon to 9 p. m., which should be long enough for everybody.

Veto Crime-Control Bill

The President should veto the so-called "crime-control" bill.

And those persons who are suggesting the bill be a memorial to Robert F. Kennedy are insulting his memory.

Just because this bill bans mail-order sale of pistols and revolvers does not make it a tribute to Senator Kennedy.

He favored far more effective gun control than that. Certainly he would not have condoned a bill that permits the mail-order purchase of shotguns and rifles—like the one that killed his brother.

Senator Kennedy was on record opposed to the bill's Title II, an attempt to overrule decisions by the Supreme Court.

And Senator Kennedy would have narrowed the indiscriminate use of wiretapping and eavesdropping devices for comparatively minor suspected crimes.

Except for financial assistance to local police, nothing in this bill will combat crime in the streets.

Rep. Emanuel Celler of New York correctly called it "an illusory bill which was a cruel hoax on people whose fear of crime is a fact of life."

Don't accept the pretense that this bill meets any of the principles for which Robert Kennedy fought—and died.

The President should veto it and demand that Congress enact the type of legislation he originally requested.

The last of the 1,000 lowest income counties in the country that did not provide food for the poor are being stocked with surplus food by the Department of Agriculture this week. There were 42 holdouts, where local authority refused to distribute the food. There still will be 571 other than low-income counties that do not have surplus food plans or food stamps.

"Meanwhile, Anybody Got an Aspirin?"

Henry J. Taylor Says De Gaulle Deserves Our Pity

I think President Charles de Gaulle, partly great, partly defeated, and all French, deserves our pity. Holy cats, the French!

When "The King is dead" was announced in Paris in 1774 the young Louis XVI, barely 20, and his beautiful child wife, Marie Antoinette, fell on their knees and prayed, "Oh, God, protect us, direct us, we are too young."

Nineteen years later they were beheaded. There were to be no more sovereigns in France. Yet within 11 years Napoleon was crowned Emperor in Notre Dame.

The limping Talleyrand raised France like a phoenix from the hot ashes of Napoleon's senseless conquests, only to have the Bonapartists call him in 1814 a coward, a traitor, a thief.

Lafayette returned to France wearing his uniform as an American major general. A hero's welcome? Civil disorders forced him to flee to Austria. He was caught by dissidents and imprisoned at the Moravian fortress of Olmutz.

"Concessions were the downfall of Louis XVI," said Charles X, the successor of Louis XVIII. "I must either ride on horseback or in a cart." He did neither. The three 'glorious days' of internal revolt drove him out of France.

In 1845 Victor Hugo transformed an interest in politics into an obsession. Patient, adoring Juliette Drouet rescued him during a particularly aggressive political foray and smuggled him off to Brussels disguised as a lorryman.

They moved to the Isle of Guernsey (where he wrote "Les Misérables") and Hugo stayed there in a sort of martyrdom for 17 years.

When Hugo re-entered France's political jungle he was a great hero, far greater than de Gaulle, second only to Bonaparte. But he was bitterly disappointed when Louis Napoleon—an outlaw a year earlier, ailing, starved and alone—was chosen President of France instead of himself. The French people's selection of this contriving relative was all but imbecilic.

"My name," said this Napoleon, "is a complete program in itself."

That man," said British Queen Victoria's Prince Consort about him, "is a walking lie."

Eventually events caught up with his walking. Napoleon III lasted only one year and was to announce at the end, when taken prisoner by the Prussians in the defeat which came within six weeks, "I seem to have abdicated."

The Parisian street crowds said of the Prussian Army when it walked in: "Formidable—but not chic." Royal chic, however, had not done much for the French Army or people.

Nevertheless, the people chose as President of the successive Third Republic the most ardent royalist in France, Marshal MacMahon, as utterly unlikely a choice as his own name.

The French are a people who expect more logic in other countries than they display in their own.

Heroic Brig. Gen. Charles de Gaulle made his resistance appeal from London on June 18, 1940. He said an external Free France was indispensable. But millions of French somehow condemned him. He had left France. He was not suffering with them their terrible occupation hardships and humiliations. Instead, they grumbled, he is a ventriloquist's dummy on Winston Churchill's knee. "No matter what happens," said Marshal Henri Petain, "I shall not leave my country."

For years de Gaulle's hardest difficulties with the French were rooted in this illogical complaint.

But from the 17th Century on, these remarkable people in their lovely land were the world's true civilizers. And through all the inconsistency, the French nation became the trunk of democracy in Europe. In fact, over a period of time, never has there been any other large democracy on the Continent except France.

The viewpoints and shades of temperament that so disturb us—these are not peculiar to the French; they are human differences and all of us in our different ways are liable to them. Lunacy, too, is universal. All countries have their share. Don't we—and in a very big way?

In our many proper angers about de Gaulle perhaps there should be enough room left in our hearts for pity. One day we may even miss him. For there is a touch of greatness in this man, mixed with the great troubles he has caused us, and if he loses the election later this month we and the French alike some day may wish we had him back.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The smiling, cautiously friendly confrontation between two political roosters in the television pit pointed up, by omission, man's greatest failure. He has a nostrum for every problem; he seldom tries to anticipate one. He builds expensive dams to control flood waters that didn't exist until he went up into the headlands to cut the timber that held the water.

Man doesn't act; he reacts. The architect of civil rights, John F. Kennedy, saw no long hot summers ahead. Herbert Hoover was promising two chickens in every pot and a car in every garage when the depression wiped him, and us, out. Franklin D. Roosevelt was horrified at the thought of ever again sending American boys to fight on foreign shores, but he drafted 14,000,000 of them.

We are in an age of intellectual pygmies. What we need is someone who can see at least 15 years ahead. Most of the trends are already obvious. In a comparatively short time, two out of every three people in the world will be Oriental. They are hungry and deprived. Is it not reasonable to assume that they must come here someday to take what they need to live? America is both fat and edible.

Around the North Atlantic basin, 10 per cent of the people of the world own 90 per cent of the riches. They do not pump oil personally, but they own the land that does. This group, economically intelligent and philosophically dull, do not appreciate the convulsion of hunger that will afflict most of the remainder of the world, beginning in 1972 in India. Less than one generation is the amount of time left to convert the two billion have-nots into potential customers of the haves.

We spend our time enjoying a political soccer game called the primaries. Does it matter, really, who is elected? We have a choice of faces, not of realities. Can you define the policy differences between, say, Nixon and Humphrey?

I am but one voter, like you. My voice squeaks in the tempest. I cannot trust a system that builds eight-lane highways, four aimed in each direction. I cannot applaud the man who invented the umbrella; I'm on the side of the man who dreams of satellite photos of weather. Almost everything we devise is obsolete the day the ribbon is cut.

The law says the Negro is equal. The white man says he isn't. There are 20,000,000 Negroes; 180,000,000 whites. The Negro is the best propagandist for the white supremacist; he riots; he burns; he loots. No one can make our dark brothers look worse than his own lunatics. To placate him, we put one on the Supreme Court, but keep his family men out of the unions. No matter what the law says, he is still wiping his feet at the back door.

We cannot plan the past; the present is gone as you draw the next breath; only the future stands still. The United Nations should employ the finest engineering brains from each of its countries to draw together in a permanent committee to look ahead to 1983 and to solve the problems of the world now. The President of the United States would profit immeasurably if he was permitted to employ a full-time planning team.

Did anyone call our attention to the plight of the ghettos 15 years ago? No. Nelson Rockefeller saw them clearly in 1968 and submitted a plan to eliminate them by spending scores of billions of dollars, thus taxing the rest of us into our own ghettos. My quarrel is not with politics, a game Americans play between the end of baseball season and the opening of football. It is with political philosophy and planning.

For example, no one will ever eliminate poverty so long as some people are less prosperous than others. If the lowest common denominator per family was raised to $10,000 per annum, that would be the poverty level, and it would purchase less of the goodness of life than could be afforded by those of better means. Economics is an elastic garter; whether it is comfortable or not depends upon whose leg it adorns.

I listened to the debate on television and, at the conclusion, I was depressed. These men—and their competitors for power—were cure cancer with oral saline. I wish I had been there as the Devil's Advocate. There are times when I can admire a man who says: "I don't know."

This is not the era of the custom-tailored palliative. It is the time when the machine comes up with a better solution. If a computer learns to grow a beard and wear beads, it could be elected President.

Drew Pearson Says Resurrection City Should Fold Up; Some Goals Accomplished

WASHINGTON — For their own good and the good of the country, the Poor People's March should now fold up Resurrection City and go home.

In the first place, they have achieved some of their goals. A $5 billion housing bill has been passed; more than $200 million in surplus food has been earmarked.

In the second place, the Poor People have reached the point of diminishing returns. If they stay any longer, they may hurt what they have accomplished.

No group in years has been treated so generously by the federal government, which allowed them to camp on a public park, and by the churches of the city and by most of the residents of Washington. The churches opened up their doors, women made thousands of sandwiches, people contributed blankets, the Hechinger hardware stores contributed lumber at cost, many grocery chains contributed food.

The public park adjacent to the Lincoln Memorial has been churned up by bulldozers and the daily wear of several thousand feet to a point where it will take at least a year to restore the grass. Poor People's marshals, acting with the officiousness which they objected to on the part of Birmingham police, have even barred picture taking, saying, "These are private homes," though of course they are located on land belonging to all the taxpayers.

Negro newsmen have been beaten and pushed around. The Supreme Court, which has done more for racial equality than any institution in history, had its windows broken. The Negro population of Washington has suffered economically because summer business is down, tourism is off. Greyhound bus alone cancelled $200,000 worth of bus trips to Washington. This hurts the Negro population of Washington first.

All this has been taken with considerable forbearance by the citizens of Washington.

Negro newsmen have been the most critical. "The Washington press," wrote William Raspberry, widely read Negro columnist of the Washington Post, has, if anything, been too kind. If more of the internal strife, lack of control and poor discipline had been reported, there might have been more pressure . . . to set things right."

Louis Lomax, national Negro columnist, has reported on "absentee leadership" of "a city of chaos" and told of a "night of violence, disruption and non-leadership that easily could have spilled over into Washington itself."

He reported how "several carloads of middle-class women, Negro and white, who arrived with food and clothing were brusquely turned away by marshals whose lack of knowledge manifested itself in surliness and incredible rudeness."

Lomax described Resurrection City as "completely unsafe, a jungle at night." And as early as May 25 he called it a "city falling apart, dangerously so."

It is now June 15 and Resurrection City, abandoned by a majority of the Poor People, should fold up and go home.

Closed Door Vote

Despite the assassination of three national leaders in four and a half years, and despite the current clamor by the American people for gun control, an overwhelming majority of Republicans on the House Judiciary Committee voted against a strict gun control law this week.

The vote was behind closed doors so the public could not know how the vote went. However, we can report the roll call.

William M. McCulloch, Ohio; Richard H. Poff, Va.; Clark MacGregor, Minn.; Edward Hutchinson, Mich.; Robert McClory, Ill.; Henry P. Smith, III, N. Y.; William V. Roth, Jr., Del.; Thomas J. Meskill, Conn.; Charles W. Sandman, Jr., N. J.; Thomas F. Railsback, Ill.; Edward G. Biester, Jr., Pa.; Charles E. Wiggins, Calif.

Four Democrats voted with the Republicans against gun control as follows:

William M. Tuck, Va.; Robert T. Ashmore, S. C.; John Dowdy, Tex.; Basil L. Whitener, N. C.

Two Republicans who voted for gun control were Charles Mathias, who is running for the Senate in Maryland, and Arch Moore, who is running for governor of West Virginia. Two Democrats were absent: Edwin Willis, La., and Jack Brooks, Tex.

Kingstonians Bound for Overseas

By JEAN F. DOLAN

High adventures and international experience are in store for four Kingston youths this summer under the famed Experiment in International Living program and all of their trips are a direct or indirect result of the Ulster County Community Ambassador project.

This year's Ulster County Community Ambassador is aptly an Ulster County Community College student—Miss Beatrice Zebree, a first year student at the Stone Ridge campus and a 1967 graduate of Kingston High School. Mexico-bound, the Kingston lass is sponsored jointly by the UCCC Association and Ulster County Committee of the Experiment in International Living, in what is termed a "town-gown" project.

Others going under the Experiment program which has sent a number of local residents abroad in recent years are the Linda Krause and Anna Portz of Kingston High School under the sponsorship of Prisma, girls' service club at the high school, and Michael P. Shienvoid, a student at State University College, Albany, who is following in his brother, Arnold's footsteps to foreign lands.

Last year, Michael's brother was the Ulster County Ambassador, sponsored by the county committee. Then a student at Kingston High School Arnold went to Turkey under the Experiment program and evidently the tales of his experience in a foreign land inspired his brother to follow the wanderlust this year.

The girls sponsored by Prisma also owe a part of their participation to the county committee which last year sponsored a KHS student and when a school organizer picked up the ball, sought new areas to tap for potential ambassadors. Long range plans are for an extended program throughout all county schools and colleges.

Destinations for the four Kingstonians this summer are varied and exciting.

South of Border

Beatrice as has been noted is headed for Mexico. She will spend the summer in Monterey and San Francisco. Soyaquilpan, Mexico, where she will live with Mexican families and will work on a landscaping and beautification project at the latter community. She will help organize a summer recreation program for village children also. She will be the guest of two families for most of her stay in Mexico and will have an informal tour of the south of the border nation terminating in Mexico City in late August. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David T. Zebree of 274 West Chestnut Street, Kingston, Miss Zebree will share her

Mexican experiences with the local community on her return as guest lecturer at civic and service club meetings.

She was chosen by a joint selection committee from the college and the community group. Chairman of the college sponsor was John America, director of instructional media, assisted by Jack Van Newkirk, occupational programs counselor; Miss Carolyn Scott, language instructor; Miss Cheryl Matthews, editor-in-chief of the college newspaper and Miss Nina Murano, coordinator of the student television production, Look In.

Heading the community committee is Mrs. Othman Abugheida of Stone Ridge assisted by Mrs. Robert Diamond and William Davenport.

The county program is financed by businesses and organizations interested in furthering international understanding through person-to-person contact. Chairman of the fund raising committee is Herbert L. Shultz, president of Kingston Coal and Oil Company.

Previous ambassadors from Ulster County have visited Japan, India and last year, Turkey.

KHS Trippers

Miss Krause, daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. Harvey W. Krause of communications problem as the Lakeview Avenue, is Brazil main reason for applying for the bound while Miss Portz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Portz, of 27 Orchard Street, Hurley, is destined to visit through German and French speaking areas of Europe during the summer. Her departure date is July 9 with scheduled return on Aug. 29.

Both active 4 Hers, the girls were selected for their academic achievement, leadership qualities and on personal recommendations. Funds for the trip were obtained through the annual Prisma magazine drive which in addition to the Experiment experiences provides seven $500 scholarships to senior girls. Recipients of the foreign travel grants must have completed their junior year and be members of Prisma.

A girl with an eye on home economics as a career, Linda lists sewing as a favorite thing and plans to go to either Cornell or SUNY at the Orient. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shienvoid of 105 Lounsbury Place, Kingston.

Since 1932, the Experiment in International Living has been engaged in world-wide educational exchange. The very special feature of the program is the really inside view of foreign countries offered by "home stays" and active participation in the life of the country visited. The results most often are glowing and lasting friendships spanning oceans and cultures.

Open House for Parents Planned by Coffee House

A parents night at the Hobbits Whole is being planned by Kingston Coffee House personnel. With the grand opening slated for June 21, the last day of school, schedule now calls for a parents night after that date. Tentatively set for July 2 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. the open house will give interested adults an opportunity to inspect the transformation at 73 Crown Street.

Young people have been working diligently to convert the former factory into a bonafide coffee house. At a recent meeting of the steering committee it was noted that an off duty policeman will be hired to be in attendance when the coffee house is in operation. Committee members will be on hand as well. It was again stressed that there will be no alcoholic beverages permitted on the premises. Equipment has been donated by a number of firms including Sears, Montgomery Ward, Miron Lumber, Kingston Lumber, Kingston Linoleum and others. The initial response from the community has been encouraging. Contributions may be sent to the Kingston Coffee House, CPO 655, Kingston. Triple S. Blue Stamps may be contributed as well.

Flag Day Ceremonies

Flag Day was observed Friday by special programs at the Reginald R. Bennett Elementary School (Onteora district), Boiceville. Gunner Sergeant Clifford Clappool, of the United States Marines office in Kingston, spoke to each grade group on the history of our flag. He also discussed the proper way to display the flag and appropriate ways for showing respect for our flag. A color-sound movie was shown to each group. In addition, children in grades 4 to 6 received a booklet, How to Display and Respect Our Flag. Primary children in grades kindergarten through third, could complete a flyer by coloring in the appropriate colors on an outline of our flag. In addition the symbolism used in the flag was explained. "The red stands for courage, valor and strength; the white conveys purity, light and peace; the blue represents truth, loyalty and fidelity. The stripes signify unity of purpose as exemplified by the thirteen original colonies. The stars represent our fifty states dedicated to freedom and democracy." A question and answer period was conducted with each grade group and the children had the opportunity to discuss with Sgt. Clappool what they had seen, heard or read during the program.

Arrangements for this special Flag Day observance were made through the cooperation of Olive Memorial Post 1627 of the American Legion.

BE PREPARED — In anticipation of regents week, Kingston High School juniors Robert Martin, Joan Federman and Sharon Solomon log in some study time on the high school steps. It promises to be a week of deep concentration as students in schools throughout the county take final exams. But after June 21st, when schools will close for the semester. For some it will be summer school while others look forward to summer jobs and summer fun. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

UCCC Math Prep Course

Ulster County Community College will offer a course in College Preparatory Mathematics, in the summer session starting June 25, Dr. John F. Park, the director, said today.

The non-credit course will be offered during the six-week day term and is designed to assist students in developing mathematical skills appropriate to college level study.

College preparatory mathematics is a course for students who are deficient in techniques of algebra or who wish to review algebra in preparation for college-level mathematics courses. It will meet from 11:10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

"We feel this course will be especially valuable for high school graduates who plan to start college in the fall," said Dr. Park, "and will help to prepare them in an area where they may be deficient or need review."

Further information is in the summer session bulletin, which is available at the college.

Registration Set June 21 For KHS Class

Summer school is upon us almost. While students are going through the throes of Regents Week, June 17 through 21, preparations are being completed for summer school at Kingston High.

Registration will begin Monday, June 24 at 8:30 a.m. in the Kate Walton Field House. No registrations will be accepted beyond opening day which is July 1. Classes will continue through August 13.

Advanced, repeat, school level and regents level courses are being offered. Report cards will be issued during the summer session Fridays at the end of the second, fourth, and sixth week.

Complete information as to courses and registration particulars may be obtained by contacting William A. Scalfidi, principal of Kingston Summer High School.

Temple Youth Installation Rites Friday

Newly elected officers of Temple Emanuel youth group were installed last night in services at the temple.

Pam Gellen is president of the active group. Other officers are Stephen Goldberg, first vice president; Jon Randel, second vice president; Elizabeth London, treasurer; Nancy Motzkin, recording secretary; Rona Freeman, corresponding secretary; Norrie Kline, regional representative and Carrie Motzkin, Judaica Shop.

PEACE CORPS PARTNERS — A successful program to raise funds for the Peace Corps School Partnership program at Onteora High School is discussed by (L-R) Tom Reilly, drive chairman, Jeff Cole, president of Student Council and Raymond Donaldson, returned Peace Corps volunteer. The school project conducted over a two month period realized $1,131.45. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Miracle at Onteora Means New Peace Corps Building

"Yes, there's been a miracle at Onteora and I'm proud to say March 9. Students found local merchants cooperative in donating articles for the event and the After Six Octet and Einstein's Institution, two great fund drive, summed up the ac-

According to Reilly, the local project stemmed from a letter received at the beginning of this school year describing the program. It entailed the raising of at least $1,000 by a sponsoring U. S. school to be sent to some poor overseas village in the form of materials to build a school. The overseas partner in this project then builds a school with the materials and the aid of Peace Corps volunteers.

The Student Council at Onteora took to the idea of participating in the self-help plan. "Suddenly the poor seven-year-old Guatemalan boy was standing right in front of us, not 3,000 miles away, asking for our help," Reilly said.

The first step toward the $1,000 goal was the Reno Club on school faculty.

Next fund raising venture was a car wash held April 13 at Frasier's Gas Station, Shandaken, Sunoco Station in West Hurley and the Mobil Station in the Woodstock. Reilly commended the people who patronized the car wash and the gas station owners who cooperated.

Utilizing the computer age machinery, a dance was held at Mason's, Gray's Store in Olivebridge.

A special assembly on the Peace Corps and the Onteora drive in particular featured Raymond Donaldson, a returned Peace Corps volunteer as guest speaker. He told of his experiences in Ethiopia and showed slides. Student interest grew by leaps and bounds after this first hand account.

Faculty participation came in the form of a basketball show between grade school and high school and a battle somewhere a school will be built thanks to a group of dedicated and concerned teenagers.

Kingstonians Bound for Overseas

By JEAN F. DOLAN

High adventures and international experience are in store for four Kingston youths this summer under the famed Experiment in International Living program and all of their trips are a direct or indirect result of the Ulster County Community Ambassador project.

This year's Ulster County Community Ambassador is aptly an Ulster County Community College student—Miss Beatrice Zebree, a first year student at the Stone Ridge campus and a 1967 graduate of Kingston High School. Mexico-bound, the Kingston lass is sponsored jointly by the UCCC Association and Ulster County Committee of the Experiment in International Living, in what is termed a "town-gown" project.

Others going under the Experiment program which has sent a number of local residents abroad in recent years are Linda Krause and Anna Portz of Kingston High School under the sponsorship of Prisma, girls' service club at the high school, and Michael P. Shienbold, a student at State University College, Albany, who is following in his brother, Arnold's footsteps to foreign lands.

Last year, Michael's brother was the Ulster County Ambassador, sponsored by the county committee. Then a student at Kingston High School Arnold went to Turkey under the Experiment program and evidently the tales of his experience in a foreign land inspired his brother to follow the wanderlust this year.

The girls sponsored by Prisma also owe a part of their participation to the county committee which last year sponsored a KHS student and when a school organization picked up the ball, sought new areas to tap for potential ambassadors. Long range plans are for an extended program throughout all county schools and colleges.

Destinations for the four Kingstonians this summer are varied and exciting.

South of Border

Beatrice as has been noted is headed for Mexico. She will spend the summer in Monterey and San Francisco Soyaquilpan, Mexico, where she will live with Mexican families and will work on a landscaping and beautification project at the latter community. She will help organize a summer recreation program for village children also. She will be the guest of two families for most of her stay in Mexico and will have an informal tour of the south of the border nation terminating in Mexico City in late August. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David T. Zebree of 274 West Chestnut Street, Kingston, Miss Zebree will share her

Mexican experiences with the local community on her return as guest lecturer at civic and service club meetings.

She was chosen by a joint selection committee from the college and the community group. Chairman of the college sponsor was John America, director of instructional media, assisted by Jack Van Newkirk, occupational programs counselor; Miss Carolyn Scott, language instructor; Miss Cheryl Matthews, editor-in-chief of the college newspaper and Miss Nina Murano, coordinator of the student television production, Look In.

Heading the community committee is Mrs. Othman Abuegida of Stone Ridge assisted by Mrs. Robert Diamond and William Davenport.

The county program is financed by businesses and organizations interested in furthering international understanding through person-to-person contact. Chairman of the fund raising committee is Herbert L. Shultz, president of Kingston Coal and Oil Company.

Previous ambassadors from Ulster County have visited Japan, India and last year, Turkey.

KHS Trippers

The KHS delegates in international understanding are headed for far flung ports. Miss Krause, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey W. Krause of Lakeview Avenue, is Brazil bound while Miss Portz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Portz of 27 Orchard Street, Hurley, is destined to visit Germany.

Both active 4Hers, the girls were selected for their academic achievement, leadership qualities and on personal recommendations. Funds for the trip were obtained through the annual Prisma magazine drive which in addition to the Experiment experiences provides seven $500 scholarships to senior girls. Recipients of the foreign travel grants must have completed their junior year and be members of Prisma.

A girl with an eye on home as a career, Linda lists sewing as a favorite thing and plans to go to either Cornell for home economics or SUNY at Albany for mathematics. She is more concerned at the moment with an orientation course in Vermont which she started June 11. From Experiment headquarters in Poughkeepsie she will depart for Brazil June 28 with return date set for Aug. 28. "Overwhelmed" is her reaction to the pending international adventure. We will be anxious to hear her reactions on her return.

Anna lists her interest in the communications problem as the main reason for applying for the trip. Active in Lively Arts, Honor Society, French and German Societies at the high school, she hopes to put her language training to the test while traveling through German and French speaking areas of Europe during the summer. Her departure date is July 9 with scheduled return on Aug. 29.

College Program

Shienbold, a senior at SUNY at Albany, is going to Japan through the Student Ambassador program at the university. After an intensified language training session from June 16 to July 5, he will leave for his home stay city of Nanao, Japan. He will return Sept. 2. "Greatly influenced" by his brother's trip, Michael, a history major, is looking forward to his trip to the Orient. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shienbold of 105 Lounsbury Place, Kingston.

Since 1932, the Experiment in International Living has been engaged in world-wide educational exchange. The very special feature of the program is the really inside view of foreign countries offered by "home stays" and active participation in the life of the country visited. The results most often are glowing and lasting friendships spanning oceans and cultures.

Open House for Parents Planned by Coffee House

A parents night at the Hobbits Whole is being planned by Kingston Coffee House personnel. With the grand opening slated for June 21, the last day of school, schedule now calls for a parents night after that date. Tentatively set for July 2 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. the open house will give interested adults an opportunity to inspect the transformation at 73 Crown Street.

Young people have been working diligently to convert the former factory into a bonafide coffee house.

At a recent meeting of the steering committee it was noted that an off duty policeman will be hired to be in attendance when the coffee house is in operation. Committee members will be on hand as well. It was again stressed that there will be no alcoholic beverages permitted on the premises.

Equipment has been donated by a number of firms including Sears, Montgomery Ward, Miron Lumber, Kingston Lumber, Kingston Linoleum and others. The initial response from the community has been encouraging. Contributions may be sent to the Kingston Coffee House, CPO 655, Kingston, Triple S Blue Stamps may be contributed as well.

The 'Homework' Is Fattening

By WILLIAM HEATH

NEW YORK, N.Y. (AP) —

New York City, with an Italian population larger than many cities in Italy, finally has its own exclusive Italian cooking school. But anyone who wants to learn the secrets of Italian cuisine from chef Andrea Ferriecio Lanham, a member of the America-Italy Society and originator of the school idea, should teach the class. Dodi, who has cooked for the late President John F. Kennedy, for President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Francis Cardinal Spellman, agreed.

"The class was filled 48 hours after it was announced," Mrs. Lanham says. "I couldn't sleep one night, over and the next, scheduled to begin in the fall, already has a waiting list with 80 names on it. States for almost 20 years. "I Once a week, for six weeks, 20 thought to myself, 'This is part people—15 women and 5 men—spend two hours in a test kitchen on the 12th floor of a midtown Manhattan building, learning how to prepare dishes ranging from spaghetti to Gnocchi alla Piacentina.

"Not one has ever missed a class," says Mrs. Hedy Giusti-Lanham, a member of the America-Italy Society and originator of the school idea.

"I couldn't sleep one night, over and the next, scheduled to begin in the fall, already has a waiting list with 80 names on it. States for almost 20 years. "I Once a week, for six weeks, 20 thought to myself, 'This is part of civilization. Why not have a cooking school?"

She told wealthy financier Giorgio Uzielli, and Italian and president of the Italy-America Society, about her idea and suggested that his chef, Dodi, should teach the class.

"The class was filled 48 hours after it was announced," Mrs. Lanham says. "I couldn't sleep one night, over and the next, scheduled to begin in the fall, already has a waiting list with 80 names on it. States for almost 20 years. "I Once a week, for six weeks, 20 thought to myself, 'This is part upper middle class professional people except for two or three ladies of leisure," says Mrs. Lanham. "They pay $30 for six lessons if they are members of the Italy-America society and $40 if they are not. And believe me, we're losing our shirts," adds Mrs. Lanham.

The Society supplies all the ingredients used in the classes from anchovies to zucchini (sugar).

Expert on Cooking Mrs. Lanham, herself an expert on the art of cooking, is the U.S. delegate of the Accademia Italiana della Cucina, which she describes as the only Italian gourmet society with a U.S. branch.

The 'Homework' Is Fattening

By WILLIAM HEATH

NEW YORK, N.Y. (AP) —

New York City, with an Italian population larger than many cities in Italy, finally has its own exclusive Italian cooking school. But anyone who wants to learn the secrets of Italian cuisine must first get in line. The first session of the Scuola Italiana di Cucina is almost over and the next, scheduled to begin in the fall, already has a waiting list with 80 names on it. Once a week, for six weeks, 20 people—15 women and 5 men—spend two hours in a test kitchen on the 12th floor of a midtown Manhattan building, learning how to prepare dishes ranging from spaghetti to Gnocchi alla Piacentina.

"Not one has ever missed a class," says Mrs. Hedy Giusti, who has cooked for the late President John F. Kennedy, for President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Francis Cardinal Spellman, agreed.

"The class was filled 48 hours after it was announced," Mrs. Lanham says.

"Dodi's students are mostly upper middle class professional people except for two or three ladies of leisure," says Mrs. Lanham. "They pay $30 for six lessons if they are members of the Italy-America society and $40 if they are not. And believe me, we're losing our shirts," adds Mrs. Lanham.

The Society supplies all the ingredients used in the classes from anchovies to zucchini (sugar).

Expert on Cooking

Mrs. Lanham, herself an expert on the art of cooking, is the U.S. delegate of the Accademia Italiana della Cucina, which she describes as the only Italian gourmet society with a U.S. branch.

Each weekly lesson consists of instruction and demonstration by Dodi on how to prepare Corso, Anthony, John Kuhlmann, Warren

Wedding Bells Ring for Area Brides

Miss Barbara Anne Marie Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Williams of Williams Lake, Rosendale, became the bride of Anthony Eugene Battelle of Syracuse, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Erle Battelle of South Amboy, N. J., on Sunday, June 9, at Trinity Lutheran Church, Kingston.

The Rev. Frederick Dunn officiated at the double ring ceremony. Dr. John Park, organist, provided traditional wedding selections. The church was decorated with white gladioli, white pompons and deep blue cornflowers, and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white silk organza over tulle gown in a princess silhouette featuring a cathedral train. The bishop sleeves and waistline were re-embroidered in Belgium lace. Her pure silk cathedral veil was attached to a crown of Belgium lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white snow-drift pompons, deep blue cornflowers and ivy.

Mrs. Theodore G. Peck IV of Millers Lane, Kingston, was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a powder blue linen, floor length gown fashioned with empire waistline and adorned with Alencon lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of miniature variegated azalea, pink carnations, deep blue cornflowers, yellow roses, white snow-drift pompons and ivy.

Attendants were Miss Roberta Utensoldt of Hurley and Mrs. John Barkwill who wore powder blue gowns fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant and carried similar bouquets.

Nicholas Battelle of New York was best man for his brother. Ushers were Peter Battelle of Bedford, brother of the bridegroom, and Edward Williams, Rosendale, brother of the bride.

After the wedding a reception for 100 guests was held at Williams Lake Hotel, Rosendale.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School and Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, has been given an assistantship, Department of Zoology, at Syracuse University.

Her husband, an alumnus of Duke University where he was awarded a Bachelor of Arts degree, and Georgetown University Law Center, is an associate with Bond, Schoenck and King, Syracuse.

Mr. and Mrs. Battelle will reside at 1033 James Street, Syracuse.

Miss Linda Anne Schneider became the bride of Gregory Thomas Arndt on Saturday, June 8, at Church of the Visitation.

The Rev. James White officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Schneider.

formerly of Shokan, and had been a student at Onteora Central School. She was graduated in 1966 from Lee High School, Huntsville, Ala.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of peau de soie tiered with Chantilly lace. The bodice of lace featured long sleeves and a scalloped neckline adorned with seed pearls. Her headpiece was a fingertip illusion veil attached to a crown of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis. Miss Carol Schneider was maid of honor for her sister. Attendants were Miss Dawn Snyder and Mrs. Gordon Simms.

They wore floor length sleeveless sheath gowns, draped with lace, in turquoise and pink, respectively.

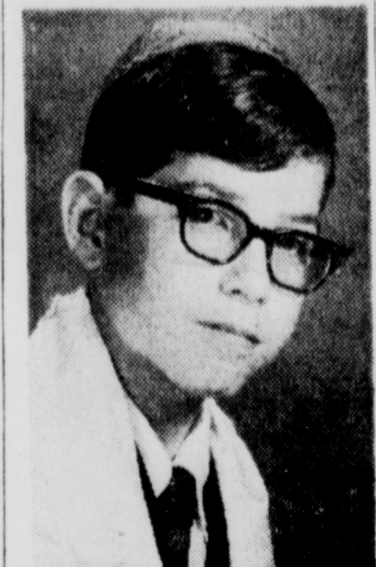

Michael Steven Arndt was best man for his brother. Ushers were Bonnie Earley and Larry Snyder.

Miss Sheila Early, flower girl, wore a full length dress of pink, trimmed with white lace, and carried a basket of snapdragons, carnations and baby's breath.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

When the couple return from their wedding trip to South Carolina, they will reside in Huntsville, Ala., where Mrs. Arndt is employed as a secretary at IBM, and her husband is employed by Control Data Corporation.

Kiwanis Club Lists Scholarship Winners

Thursday at the Kingston Kiwanis Club the annual Kingston Kiwanis Scholarships, in the amount of $3,650, were awarded to the students of the area who were completing their high school careers.

The program was in charge of Herbert Greenwald of the Scholarship Committee. Greenwald touched upon the various activities, highlighted by the annual Kiwanis Kapers, which made it possible for the scholarships to be given.

Dr. Wendell Hoover, Superintendent of Schools and a member of the Kiwanis Club, directed a few remarks to the scholarship winners. He also congratulated the Kiwanians for their interest in the furthering of the education of the young people, stating the "Kiwanians put their money where their mouths are."

Winners of $500 scholarships included Gary R. Boice, Anthony P. Argulewicz, John Carey, John Crego, Michael Farber. The $300 Morris Sampter Scholarship was awarded to John M. Holmzger, while the Ruby Appel Award went to Carolyn Valle. The $100 nursing scholarships for the Ulster County Community College went to Anne Karkowski, Kathleen Mary Fagan, and Mary Ann Nerone, while the other Ulster County Community College Scholarships were awarded to Joseph Stoutenburg, Hilda C. Bruck, Kristine Kaipfel, Charlene Heldron, and Virginia Brudniak.

Miss Linda Anne Schneider became the bride of Gregory Thomas Arndt on Saturday, June 8, at Church of the Visitation.

The Rev. James White officiated at the ceremony.

MUSICAL SOCIETY ADJOURNS—Miss Janis Johnson, at the keyboard, who will compete in the Miss New York State finals this July, was guest performer at a meeting of the Musical Society of Kingston June 12. The reigning Miss Ulster County played Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue." With Miss Johnson are (l-r) Mrs. Donald MacIsaac, incoming program chairman for the Society; and Mrs. Albert Sonnenberg, retiring president. The Society adjourns its activities for the summer after having won both State and National Federation of Music Clubs awards for outstanding programming. Meetings will be resumed in October. Mrs. Sonnenberg also announced that James Esposito of Kingston won this year's music award. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

NEW YORK (AP) — Vive la difference? That's old fashioned. At least among the avant garde this is the year of unisex.

That age-old battle of the sexes over who in the household wears the pants has come to a draw. Both do, the same style, interchangeably.

Moreover, the really togetherness couple have a common supply of shirts, jackets, jewelry, neckties and hats. They share the same hairdresser and, while party-hopping, carry their combs and cigarettes in the same handbag. A divorce would leave one or the other without a thing to wear.

Just a few days earlier designer Rudi Gernreich told buyers at his fall knitwear collection that the skirt was dead. Despite efforts of others to resuscitate the romantic midi, the Californian insisted that clothes for men and women were now converging.

"It is the only practical thing for our contemporary way of life," said Gernreich, dressed in a belted tunic and belted trousers like those on his mannikins. Still the knitted costumes spelled out the difference in girls as significantly as a shrunken sweater.

Wedding Bells Ring for Area Brides

Miss Barbara Anne Marie Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Williams of Williams Lake, Rosendale, became the bride of Anthony Eugene Battelle of Syracuse, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Erle Battelle of South Amboy, N. J., on Sunday, June 9, at Trinity Lutheran Church, Kingston.

The Rev. Frederick Dunn officiated at the double ring ceremony. Dr. John Park, organist, provided traditional wedding selections. The church was decorated with white gladioli, white pompons and deep blue cornflowers, and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white silk organza over tulle gown in a princess silhouette featuring a cathedral train. The bishop sleeves and waistline were re-embroidered in Belgium lace. Her pure silk cathedral veil was attached to a crown of Belgium lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white snowdrift pompons, deep blue cornflowers and ivy.

Mrs. Theodore G. Peck IV of Millers Lane, Kingston, was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a powder blue linen, floor length gown fashioned with empire waistline and adorned with Alencon lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of miniature variegated azalea, pink carnations, deep blue cornflowers, yellow raisies, white snowdrift pompons and ivy.

Attendants were Miss Roberta Utendvold of Hurley and Mrs. John Barkwill who wore powder blue gowns fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant and carried similar bouquets.

Nicholas Battelle of New York was best man for his brother. Ushers were Peter Battelle of Bedford, brother of the bridegroom, and Edward Williams, Rosendale, brother of the bride.

After the wedding a reception for 100 guests was held at Williams Lake Hotel, Rosendale.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School and Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, has been given an assistantship in the Department of Zoology, at Syracuse University.

Her husband, an alumnus of Duke University where he was awarded a Bachelor of Arts degree, and Georgetown University Law Center, is an associate with Bond, Schoeneck and King, Syracuse.

Mr. and Mrs. Battelle will reside at 1033 James Street, Syracuse.

Miss Linda Anne Schneider became the bride of Gregory Thomas Arndt on Saturday, June 8, at Church of the Visitation. The Rev. James White officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Schneider.

formerly of Shokan, and had been a student at Ontario Central School. She was graduated in 1966 from Lee High School, Huntsville, Ala.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of peau de soie tiered with Chantilly lace. The bodice of lace featured long sleeves and a scalloped neckline adorned with seed pearls. Her headpiece was a fingertip illusion veil attached to a crown of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis. Miss Carol Schneider was maid of honor for her sister. Attendants were Miss Dawn Snyder and Mrs. Gordon Simms.

They wore floor length sleeveless sheath gowns, draped with lace, in turquoise and pink, respectively.

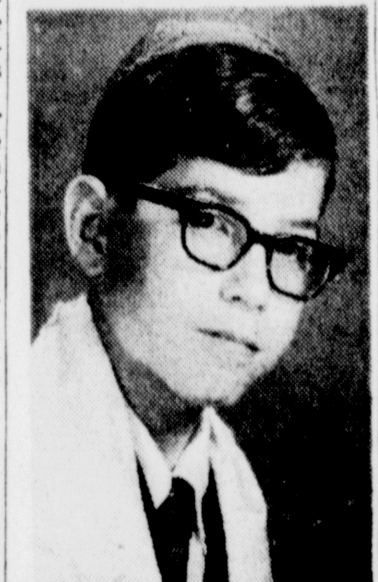

Michael Steven Arndt was best man for his brother, Ushers were Bonnie Earley and Larry Snyder.

Miss Sheila Earley, flower girl, wore a full length dress of pink, trimmed with white lace, and carried a basket of snapdragons, carnations and baby's breath.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

When the couple return from their wedding trip to South Carolina, they will reside in Huntsville, Ala., where Mrs. Arndt is employed as a secretary at IBM, and her husband is employed by Control Data Corporation.

Kiwanis Club Lists Scholarship Winners

Thursday at the Kingston Kiwanis Club the annual Kingston Kiwanis Scholarships, in the amount of $3,650, were awarded to the students of the area who were completing their high school careers.

The program was in charge of Herbert Greenwald of the Scholarship Committee. Greenwald touched upon the various activities, highlighted by the annual Kiwanis Kapers, which made it possible for the scholarships to be given.

Dr. Wendell Hoover, Superintendent of Schools and a member of the Kiwanis Club, directed a few remarks to the scholarship winners. He also congratulated the Kiwanians for their interest in the furthering of the education of the young people, stating the "Kiwanians put their money where their mouths are."

Winners of $500 scholarships included Gary R. Boice, Anthony P. Argulewicz, John Carey, John Crego, Michael Farber. The $300 Morris Sampter Scholarship was awarded to John M. Holmzer, while the Ruby Appel Award went to Carolyn Valle. The $100 nursing scholarships for the Ulster County Community College went to Anne Karkowski, Kathleen Mary Fagan, and Mary Ann Xerone, while the other Ulster County Community College Scholarships were awarded to Joseph Stoutenburg, Hilda C. Bruck, Kristine Kaipfel, Charlene Heidron, and Virginia Brudniak.

Community Chest Approves County Blood Bank Program

The Ulster County Community Chest has approved the creation of a county-wide blood bank program.

Approval for the plan came on the heels of a recommendation from the Ulster County Health Services Council, a Chest agency.

It was Richard Glazer, chairman of the council, who presented the council's idea to the Chest directors at a recent monthly meeting.

The new service will begin in September of this year with the enrollment of those seeking to become part of the program.

All County Residents

Under proposed plans, the program will be open to all Ulster County residents with an initiation fee of $1 per family and a pledged pint of blood from a family member required.

Once the program is established, it is anticipated that one pint of blood would be the maximum contribution.

Plans call for the City of Kingston Laboratory to be set up as a blood collection center. The laboratory has dealt with blood contributions for some time.

The program will continue to make blood available to members regardless of a member's location at the time an emergency arises.

What would happen is that a local out-of-town agency would supply the needed blood and the Ulster County agency would repay the cost.

According to WBAZ General Manager Len Cane, public relations chairman of the Community Chest, the program will be similar to the state-wide program used in Vermont.

"Volunteer groups serve on the (Vermont) project," cited Cane, "and whenever the supply needs to be replenished, a drive is organized and the state's communicating media puts in an effort for the cause."

Cane also declared that the Ulster County project will always have a supply of "live," fresh blood on hand.

"We will not build up a great supply of blood, but will replenish our fresh supply when it runs low," said the newsman. The Health Services Council represents all the health agencies and health oriented groups and individuals in the county.

Plans call for all members of the proposed new program to be catalogued according to blood type.

A paid staff member, well trained in clerical work, will keep a card system in order and will provide information to prospective members.

Dem Hopefuls State Views At Woodstock Candidate Night

Though the candidates night in Woodstock's Town Hall Friday was in many ways typical of the genre, it held its surprises. Sponsored by the Woodstock Democratic Town Committee, the program featured most of the Democratic candidates opposed to each other in the June 18 primary, as well as those whose nominations are unopposed and whose names will be on the November Election Day ballot.

Many in the audience, who had come to hear and cheer, also had the opportunity of meeting Mrs. Leonard Bernstein, the attractive former actress and wife of the world famous conductor-composer, who came from New York to attend the political debate in behalf of the three candidates for delegates to the national convention who are running in support of Sen. Eugene McCarthy.

Centers of Attention

At a mammoth reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Elias of Woodstock, following the program in Town Hall, Mrs. Bernstein shared the center of attention with Tobie Geertsma, one of the McCarthy-pledged delegates. Mrs. Geertsma's remarks during the debate drew the lengthiest applause of the evening.

Other speakers included Congressional candidate John Dyson, who called for "a committable America through a curbing of inflation and congressional vigilance on the federal budget."

State Senator candidate A. E. Woolley urged that "our time and talent must be directed to righting causes that are 'unjust' and suggested that "our government demand the participation of every citizen if we are not to continue in the present path, 'clubism' government."

Also speaking were Dr.

Freida Martens and James McGeorge Skau and Marshall El Cardle, newly nominated and unopposed candidates for state committeewoman and state committeeman. McCarthy-pledged delegates Democratic Party, through McCarthy, now has an opportunity to return to the ideals of Franklin D. Roosevelt. The three national convention delegates who had been formerly committed to Sen. Robert Kennedy and who now hope to go to Chicago uncommitted, if elected, also spoke. Woodstock Town Chairman John Bonilla served as moderator. A question and answer period followed.

Chamber Installation Date

The 23rd annual dinner of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce will be held on Wednesday, June 19, at the Williams Lake Hotel, Rosendale. The program will feature the installation of officers for the coming year, awards and a brief special presentation of general interest. Chamber President, S. James Matthews announced that the 7:30 dinner will be preceded by a unique cocktail party and visit to the new underground storage facility recently opened near Williams Lake. Starting at 5 p.m., a shuttle bus will take Chamber members and their guests from the Williams Lake Hotel parking lot to the former Century Cement Company mines, about one mile away. Members will be treated to a tour of a most interesting installation, recently opened by the New York Underground Storage Company. Matthews noted that those who have visited the caves have indicated surprise at the nature of the comprehensive construction which has taken place there.

Following the tours, members will be treated to a cocktail party, courtesy of Douglas Walker, manager of the facility. Between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m., the bus will continue to run between the caves and Williams Lake. At 7 p.m. the bus will begin to take the guests back to Williams Lake where a prime ribs dinner will be served.

President Matthews indicated that chamber members would be wise to make their reservations early, as the meeting is limited to the first 150 attendees. Those planning to attend may arrange for special reserved tables for four, six or eight. The tables will be allocated on the basis of earliest reservations.

Other than the installation of officers, the only business to be conducted at the meeting will be the consideration of one Williams Lake Hotel Orchestra, minor amendment to the Chamber's By-Laws. Following the dinner and meeting, Chamber members and their guests will be able to dance to the music of the Williams Lake Hotel Orchestra. Further information and reservations may be had by calling the Chamber office. The deadline for reservations is Monday, June 17.

GOOD SCRUB—Students scrub a floor in the occupied Sorbonne University in Paris after they had "sanitized" the school by ousting a band of self-styled mercenary fighters called the "Katangans." After the Katangans were kicked off the the campus, the students started to give the university a real and thorough cleaning. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Ticket Deadline Monday

Chamber Installation Date

The 23rd annual dinner of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce will be held on Wednesday, June 19, at the Williams Lake Hotel, Rosendale. The program will feature the installation of officers for the coming year, awards and a brief special presentation of general interest.

Chamber President, S. James Matthews announced that the 7:30 dinner will be preceded by a unique cocktail party and visit to the new underground storage facility recently opened near Williams Lake. Starting at 5 p.m. a shuttle bus will take Chamber members and their guests from the Williams Lake Hotel parking lot to the former Century Cement Company mines, about one mile away. Members will be treated to a tour of a most interesting installation, recently opened by the New York Underground Storage Company. Matthews noted that those who have visited the caves have indicated surprise at the nature of the comprehensive construction which has taken place there.

Following the tours, members will be treated to a cocktail party, courtesy of Douglas Walker, manager of the facility. Between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. the bus will continue to run between the caves and Williams Lake. At 7 p.m. the bus will begin to take the guests back to Williams Lake where a prime ribs dinner will be served. President Matthews indicated that chamber members would be wise to make their reservations early, as the meeting is limited to the first 150 reservations. Those planning to attend may arrange for special reserved tables for four, six or eight. The tables will be allocated on the basis of earliest reservations. Other than the installation of officers, the only business to be conducted at the meeting will be the consideration of one Williams Lake Hotel Orchestra amendment to the Further information and reservations may be had by calling the Chamber office.

The deadline for reservations and their guests will be able to call the Chamber office. The deadline for reservations is Monday, June 17.

Yancey Wary Despite Two-Shot Edge

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—Bert Yancey is halfway home in the U.S. Open but isn't jumping to any conclusions as long as that Mexican jumping bean is around.

By all rights, Yancey should be off by himself after the way he has played 36 holes here at the Oak Hill Country Club course.

He would be, too, except for one man—Lee Trevino, that popular little Mexican jumping bean from El Paso, Tex.

Playing the "best golf of my life," the 29-year-old Yancey equalled the U.S. Open record for 36 holes Friday with his two-day total of 135 following his second round two under par 68.

Yancey's fifty round shoot off all possible pursuers except the swarthy, 28-year-old Trevino, who said he "hit the tee ball bad" but still wound up with a 68 and a total of 137.

Were it not for Trevino, who makes jokes about his Mexican ancestry but is obviously proud of it, Yancey would be practically home free.

He goes into today's third round five strokes ahead of Australian Bruce Devlin, Charles Coody, Don Bies and Jerry Pittman, and the next nearest "big guns" to him are Jack Nicklaus, Julius Boros, Gay Brewer, Dave Marr and Dan Sikes, but they're all seven strokes off at 142.

Yancey knows he isn't home yet. He knows Trevino is breathing down his neck and could pass him any minute. So conceivably could Billy Casper, although he's back with three others at 143.

Recalls 1966 Open

"It wasn't so long ago I was seven strokes back with nine holes to go," said Casper referring to the 1966 U.S. Open in which he swept past a fading

Arnold Palmer, "so we have plenty on time left."

Palmer isn't exactly covering himself with glory in this one, either. He tried everything but standing on his head and still came in with a 74 which put him in a 147 group with Bob Lunn, Tom Weiskopf, Masters champion Bob Gahby, Paul Harney and Aussies Kel Nagle and Bruce Crampton among others.

Palmer said he was "experimenting" on the course. "I tried it like I didn't give a damn . . . I changed my stance, my grip and what not. It was—pure and simple—a matter of atrocious playing."

Yancey's performance, of course, was completely the opposite.

He had four birdies and two bogeys and said he played 6, 7, 8 and 9 "as good as any holes I ever played in my life."

The one-time West Point cadet not only played well but also got the breaks. A good kick saved him a par on the 15th and a good bounce on the 16th after a bad drive warped off further possible trouble on the 16th.

Yancey was doing so well, in fact, particularly with his irons, he became somewhat over-cautious.

"I went for the middle of the greens when I shouldn't have," he said. "I was playing too safe instead of swinging my natural swing. A couple of times I started thinking where I was and what I was doing instead of simply swinging naturally."

Yancey Deeked Out

Deeked out in his customary white eye-shade, lime green shirt and slacks to match the unemotional, blond Yancey played as coolly as he looked. He admitted though, his adrenaline began working when he started thinking about all the tradition built into the U.S. Open.

"Some players say this is like any other tournament," said Yancey, who started Friday's round birdie-par-birdie a never let anyone, even Trevino, get closer to him than two strokes.

"Maybe it helps them if they think that way, but they are only kidding themselves. There's a tournament every week but there's only one U.S. Open."

Trevino, who doesn't seem to know it, got his 68 with two birdies, a six-footer on the fourth and a 1-footer on the 15th. He wasn't too upset with his driving because he felt he corrected the difficulty on the 17th.

Nothing ever bothers always talking, always laughing Lee, even when people try to kid him, like one fellow did when he asked him about his diet here.

"A half grapefruit for breakfast and a steak for dinner," Trevino answered.

"Then you must be taking off weight," the fellow said.

"No," came the clincher, "I'm drinking a lotta beer in between."

Sam Snead, who doesn't go for beer, champagne or nothing, had a 71 Friday which put him with cigar-smoking Charlie Siford at 144, and Gary Player came back with a strong 69 for 145—the same as Doug Sanders, Gardner Dickinson, Bobby Nichols and Terry Dill.

Don January, the PGA titlist, George Archer, Al Geiberger and Billy Maxwell were a stroke back at 146, and Roberto de Vicenzo and Art Wall barely made the cut with 148.

Some of those who won't be around for the final two rounds which will be televised by ABC are Mason Rudolph, Ken Venturi, the 1964 U.S. Open titlist, Dutch Harrison, Marty Fleckman, Dow Finsterwald, Ted Makalena, John Fels, the tiny 33-year-old who gave everybody a first round thrill, and 16-year old Eddie Pearce.

Win Number Ten for Koosman, Mantle Powers Yank Victory

From UPI Dispatches
NEW YORK (UPI)—Don Bosch hit his first major league homer in the third inning and Jerry Buchek followed with a three run blast to hand Jerry Koosman his 10th victory Friday night as the New York Mets routed the San Francisco Giants 7-3.

Mickey Mantle's 10th inning single scored Horace Clarke from third base Friday night to give the New York Yankees a 5-4 victory over Oakland in an error-filled game.

The game was played before a crowd of 54,259, the largest to see a game in the National League this season.

Bosch's drive leading off the third cleared the 400 foot mark in center and Buchek hit his first homer of the year in the same spot after Phil Linz walked and Ed Charles singled.

Koosman's bid for a fourth shutout was stopped in the fourth when Al Weis' error on

Ron Hunt's two out grounder enabled Willie Mays to score from third. The young Met southpaw allowed seven hits as he raised his record to 10-2 and enhanced his chances for an all star berth.

Koosman gave up two more runs with two out in the ninth when pinch-hitter Jack Hiatt doubled home Jim Davenport, who singled and Ron Hunt, who walked.

The Mets scored their first run in the first on three straight hits and tallied another in the sixth without the benefit of a hit and another in the seventh on J.C. Martin's run producing single.

Error Sets It Up

Clarke opened the inning with a single and wheeled into center fielder Rick Monday bobbled the ball. A fly-out moved Clarke to third to set the stage for Mantle's hit, a linsheet to right field.

The victory went to Dooley Womack (1-5) who pitched the final three innings.

The Yankees, trailing 4-3 going into the eighth inning, tied the score when Mantle, who walked for the third time, stole second and scored when Athletics' right fielder Reggie Jackson dropped Joe Pepitone's fly ball in right field.

Oakland starter Jim Hunter had given the A's a one-run lead in the sixth inning when he bounced a bases-loaded single to left field.

Oakland combined three hits and two Yankee errors in the third to score its first three runs.

Pepitone drove in the first three New York runs on a groundout and a two-run homer, his sixth of the season. It was the 15th home run hit off Hunter this season and 12th since he pitched his perfect game May 8.

Each team committed three errors.

Pitching Problem Solved

The Pittsburgh Pirates may no longer be in the market for a starting pitcher thanks to Bob Moose, a Dutch-Indian import from Export.

Moose pitched hitless ball against the Houston Astros for 7 2/3 innings, the longest string ever achieved in the Pittsburgh park where a no-hit, no-run game is still an invention of the future. Julio Gotto broke the spell with a two-out single in the eighth. Pittsburgh won 3-0.

Cincinnati drubbed league-leading St. Louis 7-0, Chicago squeezed by Atlanta 2-1 and Los Angeles blanked Philadelphia 6-0 before losing the second game 2-1.

Reds Erupt

Five consecutive singles, including run-producing hits by Leo Cardenas, Mack Jones and Pete Rose, sparked the Reds' four-run seventh inning which snapped a scoreless tie. The fourth run scored as the Cards' Tim McCarver dropped the ball on Jones' attempted steal of home.

Doubles by Ernie Banks and Randy Hundley produced the tie-breaking run in the fifth inning for the Cubs and Rich Nye stopped the Braves on nine hits. Nye held the Braves scoreless after the first inning while Ron Reed, who allowed only four hits in seven innings, suffered his third straight defeat.

Tony Gonzales' bases-loaded single off Jim Brewer with one out in the ninth inning enabled Woody Fryman to post his ninth victory for the Phillies in the twilight of the twinning. Bill Singer pitched a seven-hit shutout, his third of the season, for the Dodgers in the opener, and also doubled and scored a run.

Unwanted Friends Help

With friends like Ken Harrelson, Alvin Dark doesn't need any enemies.

"Dark is the greatest guy I've ever known, he started making me a good hitter. He told me to forget about hitting homers. The key to hitting is concentration and Dark started me thinking on the right track," Harrelson claims.

The trouble is—from Dark's point of view—is that Harrelson played against Dark's team Friday night, and stopped forgetting about homers.

Harrelson clubbed three consecutive homers to bat in all seven runs and pace the Boston Red Sox to a 7-2 victory over Dark's Cleveland Indians.

Detroit boosted its league lead to 6 1/2 games on Don Wert's homer off Bob Priddy's first pitch in the 14th. It was Detroit's 15th win this year in its final date at bat. The Tigers have won 10 of their last 11 as they came back from a 4-0 deficit with a four-run fourth inning. Both teams then scored their fifth run in the 13th before Wert's homer decided it. Earl Wilson had a three-run homer for the Tigers.

The Bill Burke Years: Glory on the Gridiron

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

It started 38 years ago in the small, western New York city of Fonda and ends tonight in the splendid setting of the Gov. Clinton's Crystal Room.

Surrounded by a host of associates from the academic world, the coaching fraternity, former players and just plain friends, numbering 300 strong, Willard A. (Bill) Burke will be given a rousing salute by a grateful community.

Bill Burke's hand never lost its winning touch in that brilliant 38-year career, the last 22 at Kingston High. He built little Highland High into the Goliath of area high school football teams, then came northward to Kingston to establish a football dynasty unparalleled in KHS history.

Following a four-year coaching career in Fonda in baseball, basketball and soccer (1930-34), Burke moved to Highland where he served as AD and coached four sports—football, basketball, baseball and tennis. The era of specialists had not yet arrived.

Comes to Kingston

During Burke's 12-season tenure at Highland, his football teams won 80 per cent of their games, basketball 73 and baseball, 65 per cent, competing against many of the Class A and B schools in the area. Highland won seven titles in basketball and six in baseball during his regime.

Burke's great football teams tormented Kingston squads as then in the throes of a famine that had seen only seven victories in five seasons.

An enlightened Board of Education headed by Clarence S. Rowland, made an obvious decision: if we can't beat little Highland, then let's get the coach whose team embarrasses us every year.

It wasn't easy but they lured Bill Burke to Kingston High. The rest is football history.

Eight DUSO Titles

He won the DUSO League championship in his first year, with a 6 and 2 record. And the vintage years followed. His KHS teams won 90 games, lost 31, tied 12 to win or share eight DUSO football championships. There was a 25-game winning streak over the three seasons of 1956-57-58. His earlier teams had compiled a 21-3 record in the 1948-49-50 campaigns. In nine baseball seasons, he picked up a pair of championships.

Kingston High football has never been the same since he left the battlefields for the athletic director's office as successor to G. Warren Kias, who was a basketball legend in his own time.

We were still on the scholastic beat during the Burke football dynasty and, as a coach and later as athletic director, we always considered Bill a man apart.

Relationships between coaches, athletic directors and sports writers often can be touchy, tenuous and fragile. But he was always forthright, candid and honest in his dealings with our newspaper.

Bill Burke is retiring at a time when the varsity athletic program is at an all-time high. But his enduring testimonial at Kingston High will be those magnificent football teams. We may never see their likes again.

Perks, Leone Named All-DCSL Central

A pair of Saugerties High School baseball players, Bill Perks and Jeff Leone were named yesterday to first team berths on the All-DCSL Central Section diamond squad.

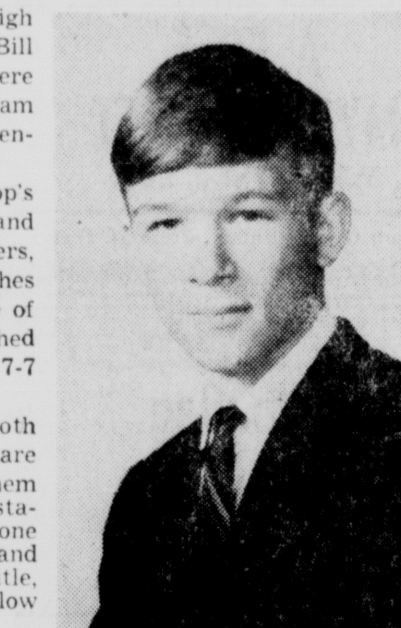

The duo, Perks the loop's number one first baseman and Leone, one of four outfielders, (team selected by DCSL coaches balloting) was the backbone of the Sawyer nine that finished fourth in the circuit with a 7-7 (.500) record.

Both boys are seniors, both are righthanded and both are 18 years old. Between them they dominated the batting statistics for the Sawyers, Leone copping the RBI crown and Perks the batting average title, hitting .345. Leone was below .300.

Perks' bat carried him to the first team berth, and Leone, a defensive stalwart because of speed, range and an accurate arm, joined Perks and a quintet of Poughkeepsie players on the 11-man first team.

The coaches chose the regular starting nine plus a fourth outfielder and second pitcher. Because of ties in the balloting, 14 players (two additional first sackers and another shortstop) were named to the second unit and eight were accorded honorable mention.

Perks also competed on the Saugerties' basketball and cross-country teams.

BILL PERKS

Hurley Notches 1-0 BRL Win

Hurley brought a run across in the bottom of the sixth to end a five-and-a-half inning scoreless pitcher's battle and defeat the American Legion 1-0 last night at Loughland field.

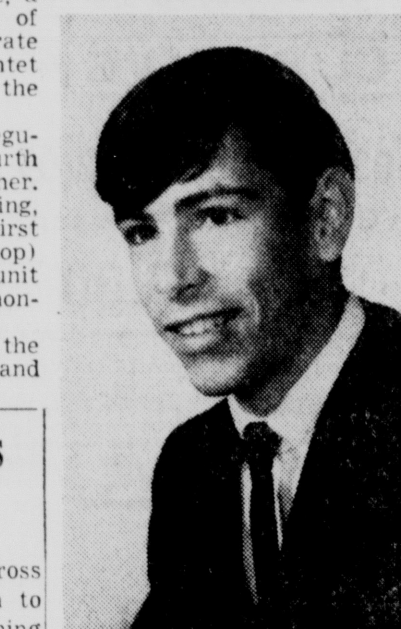

Both winner Doug Fisher and loser Ned Scott each allowed four hits. Fisher fanned nine and walked five, while Scott, only yielded one free pass and whiffed six.

Fisher started the sixth inning rally with a single. He took second on a poor throw-in from the outfield. After stealing third, he scored when Legion catcher George Stubb threw the ball into center field on a routine return from the plate.

KHS Diamond Team Paced by Janes, Rios

Senior Charlie (Jesse) Janes and Junior Greg Rios, a pair of highly touted baseball players, led the pitching and batting departments of this year's Kingston High School baseball team, according to final statistics released yesterday.

Janes, who appeared seven times for the Maroons and pitched 47 innings, wound up with the best earned run average, a sparkling 1.63, to pace the mound staff.

In addition, the blonde right hander broke the school strikeout mark with 20 whiffs in nine innings against Saugerties. He snapped the KHS standard for consecutive fans, mowing down seven-in-a-row in that same outing.

Drafted by the Philadelphia Phils in the recent major league free agent draft, Janes registered 72 outs via the strikeout route, averaging a little better than one-and-a-half whiffs per frame.

Rios, the classy fielding shortstop, who tightens any infield, pounded out 12 hits in 35 trips to the plate (in the Maroons 14 games) for a .343 batting average. In the 10 DUSO League contests, Rios had five-for-15 for a .333 mark. He also scored five times.

Rios, whose fielding has made pro scouts drool with praise, still has another year. He is a sure bet to make All DUSO this year, the third time he will have been accorded the honor.

Trailing Janes in mound statistics is Pete Helmich, another Junior with great promise. He led m.c.h. a knuckleballer, worked 30 frames, making four starts and two relief appearances. Of the starts, he completed a pair, and racked up 63 strikeouts to pace the team with a 2.1 per inning whiff average. He also paced the team in win percentage, taking five of six decisions for an .833 record and compiled a neat 2.33 era.

Janes, in comparison, had a 2-1-2 record, getting no decision on the Maroons two ties. His .667 percentage was compiled on seven trips to the hill, all starts. He shows five completions, a nine-inning stint in the 10-stanza tie against the Sawyers and was knocked out another time after three frames.

Of the remaining members on the 20-man roster, only catcher Harry Lyons, batted .300 as a starter, finishing with nine-of-30 for an even .300 against all opponents.

Tony Darwak, a seldom used performer, had one hit in two at bats (against Port Jervis) in league competition, making him the only player to reach the .300 figure. He hit .500 against league foes.

The team batting totals show a .186 overall clanking and .133 in DUSO play. Pitching marks were 7-5-2 overall and 3-2-1 in the loop.

Yancey Wary Despite Two-Shot Edge

By MILTON RICHMAN

UPI Sports Writer

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—Bert Yancey is halfway home in the U.S. Open but isn't jumping to any conclusions as long as that Mexican jumping bean is around.

By all rights, Yancey should be off by himself after the way he has played 36 holes here at the Oak Hill Country Club course.

He would be, too, except for one man—Lee Trevino, that popular little Mexican jumping bean from El Paso, Tex.

Playing the "best golf of my life," the 29-year-old Yancey equalled the U.S. Open record for 36 holes Friday with his two-day total of 135 following his second round two-under-par 68.

Yancey's fifty round shook off all possible pursuers except the swarthy, 28-year-old Trevino, who said he "hit the tee ball bad" but still wound up with a 68 and a total of 137. Were it not for Trevino, who makes jokes about his Mexican ancestry but is obviously proud of it, Yancey would be practically home free.

He goes into today's third round five strokes ahead of Australian Bruce Devlin, Charles Coody, Don Bies and Jerry Pittman, and the next nearest "big guns" to him are Jack Nicklaus, Julius Boros, Gay Brewer, Dave Marr and Dan Sikes, but they're all seven strokes off at 142.

Yancey knows he isn't home yet. He knows Trevino is playing him head-to-head today, is breathing down his neck and could pass him any minute. So conceivably could Billy Casper although he's back with three others at 143.

Recalls 1966 Open

"It wasn't so long ago I was seven strokes back with nine holes to go," said Casper referring to the 1966 U.S. Open in which he swept past a fading

Arnold Palmer, "so we have plenty on time left."

Palmer isn't exactly covering himself with glory in this one, either. He tried everything but standing on his head and still came in with a 74 which put him in a 147 group with Bob Lunn, Tom Weiskopf, Masters champion Bob Gahby, Paul Harney and Aussies Kel Nagle and Bruce Crampton among others.

Palmer said he was "experimenting" on the course. "I tried it like I didn't give a damn . . . I changed my stance, my grip and what not. It was—pure and simple—a matter of atrocious playing."

Yancey's performance, of course, was completely the opposite.

He had four birdies and two bogeys and said he played 6, 7, 8 and 9 "as good as any holes I ever played in my life."

The one-time West Point cadet not only played well but also got the breaks. A good kick saved him a par on the 15th and a good bounce on the 16th after a bad drive warded off further possible trouble on the 16th.

Yancey was doing so well, in fact, particularly with his irons, he became somewhat over-cautious.

"I went for the middle of the greens when I shouldn't have," he said. "I was playing too safe instead of swinging my natural swing. A couple of times I started thinking where I was and what I was doing instead of simply swinging naturally."

Yancey Deeked Out

Deeked out in his customary white eye-shade, lime green shirt and slacks to match, the unemotional, blond Yancey played as coolly as he looked. He admitted though, his adrenaline began working when he started thinking about all the tradition built into the U.S. Open.

"Some players say this is like any other tournament," said Yancey, who started Friday's round birdie-par-birdie an never let anyone, even Trevino, get closer to him than two strokes. "Maybe it helps them if they think that way, but they are only kidding themselves. There's a tournament every week but there's only one U.S. Open."

Trevino, who doesn't seem to know it, got his 68 with two birdies, a six-footer on the fourth and a 1-footer on the 15th. He wasn't too upset with his driving because he felt he corrected the difficulty on the 17th.

Nothing ever bothers always-talking, always-laughing Lee, even when people try to kid him. Like one fellow did when he asked him about his diet here. "A half grapefruit for breakfast and a steak for dinner," Trevino answered. "Then you must be taking off weight," the fellow said. "No," came the clincher, "I'm drinking a lotta beer in between."

Sam Snead, who doesn't go for beer, champagne or nothing, had a 71 Friday which put him with cigar-smoking Charlie Sifford at 144, and Gary Player came back with a strong 69 for 145—the same as Doug Sanders, Gardner Dickinson, Bobby Nichols and Terry Dill.

Don January, the PGA titlist, George Archer, Al Geiberger and Billy Maxwell were a stroke back at 146, and Roberto de Vicenzo and Art Wall barely made the cut with 148.

Some of those who won't be around for the final two rounds which will be televised by ABC are Mason Rudolph, Ken Venturi, the 1964 U.S. Open titlist, Dutch Harrison, Marty Fleckman, Dow Finsterwald, Ted Makalena, John Felus, the tiny 33-year-old who gave everybody a first round thrill, and 16-year-old Eddie Pearce.

Win Number Ten for Koosman, Mantle Powers Yank Victory

From UPI Dispatches

NEW YORK (UPI)—Don Bosch hit his first major league homer in the third inning and Jerry Buchek followed with a three run blast to hand Jerry Koosman his 10th victory Friday night as the New York Mets routed the San Francisco Giants 7-3.

Mickey Mantle's 10th inning single scored Horace Clarke from third base Friday night to give the New York Yankees a 5-4 victory over Oakland in an error-filled game.

The game was played before a crowd of 54,259, the largest to see a game in the National League this season.

Bosch's drive leading off the third cleared the 400-foot mark in center and Buchek hit his first homer of the year in the same spot after Phil Linz walked and Ed Charles singled.

Koosman's bid for a fourth shutout was stopped in the fourth when Al Weis' error on

Ron Hunt's two out grounder enabled Willie Mays to score from third. The young Met southpaw allowed seven hits as he raised his record to 10-2 and enhanced his chances for an all star berth.

Koosman gave up two more runs with two out in the ninth when pinch-hitter Jack Hiatt doubled home Jim Davenport, who singled and Ron Hunt, who walked.

The Mets scored their first run in the first on three straight hits and tallied another in the sixth without the benefit of a hit and another in the seventh on J.C. Martin's run producing single.

Error Sets It Up

Clarke opened the inning with a single and wheeled into second when Oakland center-fielder Rick Monday bobbled the ball. A fly-out moved Clarke to third to set the stage for Mantle's hit, a linseshot to right field.

The victory went to Dooley Womack (1-5) who pitched the final three innings.

The Yankees, trailing 4-3 going into the eighth inning, tied the score when Mantle, who walked for the third time, stole second and scored when Athletics' right fielder Reggie Jackson dropped Joe Pepitone's fly ball in right field.

Oakland starter Jim Hunter had given the A's a one-run lead in the sixth inning when he bounced a bases-loaded single to left field.

Oakland combined three hits and two Yankee errors in the third to score its first three runs.

Pepitone drove in the first three New York runs on a groundout and a two-run homer, his sixth of the season. It was the 15th home run hit off Hunter this season and 12th since he pitched his perfect game May 8.

Each team committed three errors.

Pitching Problem Solved

The Pittsburgh Pirates may no longer be in the market for a starting pitcher thanks to Bob Moose, a Dutch-Indian import from Export.

Moose pitched hitless ball against the Houston Astros for 7 2/3 innings, the longest such string ever achieved in the Pittsburgh park where a no-hit, no-run game is still an invention of the future. Julio Gotay broke the spell with a two-out single in the eighth. Pittsburgh won 3-0.

Cincinnati drubbed league-leading St. Louis 7-0, Chicago squeezed by Atlanta 2-1 and Los Angeles blanked Philadelphia 6-0 before losing the second game 2-1.

Reds Erupt

Five consecutive singles, including run-producing hits by Leo Cardenas, Mack Jones and Pete Rose, sparked the Reds' four-run seventh inning which snapped a scoreless tie. The fourth run scored as the Cards' Tim McCarver dropped the ball on Jones' attempted steal of home.

Doubles by Ernie Banks and Randy Hundley produced the tie-breaking run in the fifth inning for the Cubs and Rich Nye stopped the Braves on nine hits. Nye held the Braves scoreless after the first inning while Ron Reed, who allowed only four hits in seven innings, suffered his third straight defeat.

Tony Gonzales' bases-loaded single off Jim Brewer with one out in the ninth inning enabled Woody Fryman to post his ninth victory for the Phillies in the nightcap of the twinnbill. Bill Singer pitched a seven-hit shutout, his third of the season, for the Dodgers in the opener and also doubled and scored a

With friends like Ken Harrelson, Alvin Dark doesn't need any enemies.

"Dark is the greatest guy I've ever known, he started making me a good hitter. He told me to forget about hitting homers. The key to hitting is concentration and Dark started me thinking on the right track," Harrelson claims.

The trouble is—from Dark's point of view—is that Harrelson played against Dark's team Friday night, and stopped forgetting about homers.

Harrelson clubbed three consecutive homers to bat in all seven runs and pace the Boston Red Sox to a 7-2 victory over Dark's Cleveland Indians. Detroit boosted its league lead to 6 1/2 games on Don Wert's homer off Bob Priddy's first pitch in the 14th. It was Detroit's 15th win this year in its final time at bat. The Tigers have won 10 of their last 11 as they came back from a 4-0 deficit with a four-run fourth inning. Both teams then scored their fifth run in the 13th before Wert's homer decided it. Earl Wilson had a three-run homer for the Tigers.

The Bill Burke Years: Glory on the Gridiron

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Sports Editor

It started 38 years ago in the small, western New York city of Fondra and ends tonight in the splendid setting of the Gov. Clinton's Crystal Room.

Surrounded by a host of associates from the academic world, the coaching fraternity, former players and just plain friends, numbering 300 strong, Willard A. (Bill) Burke will be given a rousing salute by a grateful community.

Bill Burke's hand never lost its winning touch in that brilliant 38-year career, the last 22 at Kingston High. He built little Highland High into the Goliath of area high school football teams, then came northward to Kingston to establish a football dynasty unparalleled in KHS history.

Following a four-year coaching career in Fondra in baseball, basketball and soccer (1930-34), Burke moved to Highland where he served as AD and coached four sports—football, basketball, baseball and tennis. The era of specialists had not yet arrived.

Comes to Kingston

During Burke's 12-season tenure at Highland, his football teams won 80 per cent of their games, basketball 73 and baseball 65 per cent, competing against many of the Class A and B schools in the area. Highland won seven titles in basketball and six in baseball during his regime.

Burke's great football teams tormented Kingston squads then in the throes of a famine that had seen only seven victories in five seasons.

Perks, Leone Named All-DCSL Central

A pair of Saugerties High School baseball players, Bill Perks and Jeff Leone were named yesterday to first team berths on the All-DCSL Central Section diamond squad.

The duo, Perks the loop's number one first baseman and Leone, one of four outfielders, (team selected by DCSL coaches balloting) was the backbone of the Sawyer nine that finished fourth in the circuit with a 7-7 (.500) record.

Both boys are seniors, both are righthanded and both are 18 years old. Between them they dominated the batting statistics for the Sawyers, Leone copping the RBI crown and Perks the batting average title, hitting .345. Leone was below .300.

Perks' bat carried him to the first team berth, and Leone, a defensive stalwart because of speed, range and an accurate arm, joined Perks and a quintet of Poughkeepsie players on the 11-man first team.

The coaches chose the regular starting nine plus a fourth outfielder and second pitcher. Because of ties in the balloting, 14 players (two additional first sackers and another shortstop) were named to the second unit and eight were accorded honorable mention.

Perks also competed on the Saugerties basketball and cross-country teams.

Hurley Notches 1-0 BRL Win

Hurley brought a run across in the bottom of the sixth to end a five-and-a-half inning scoreless pitcher's battle and defeat the American Legion 1-0 last night at Loughlin field.

Both winner Doug Fisher and loser Ned Scott each allowed four hits. Fisher fanned nine and walked five, while Scott, only yided one free pass and whiffed six.

Fisher started the sixth inning rally with a single. He took second on a poor throw-in from the outfield. After stealing third, George Stubb threw the ball into center field on a routine return from the plate.

The Pride, driven expertly (as if a horse as great as Nevele Pride really needs a driver) by trainer-driver Stanley Dancer, another great, never really showed the fantastic amount of speed he possesses, breezing around the Mighty M's double oval in 2:03. It looked more like a work-out than a race for the three-year-old colt of Star's Pride-Thankful out of Hoot Mon, as he left from the outside four post and went out front immediately.

Dancer never laid the whip to the colt, holding the big bay back from any real attempt at a record.

The New Egypt, N. J., based reinsman piloted Nevele Pride to a 31st first quarter, opening a three-length lead over Keystone Spartan (2).

Nevele Pride increased that margin by another length as they passed the stands for the first time. He hit the half in 1:02.3, a 31.3 quarter.

Dancer, keeping steady grip on the colt, worked a 130.4 third quarter, opening the gap between himself and Yankee Town (1) to six lengths. The time at the three-fourths pole was 1:33.2.

Dancer, reserving most of Nevele Pride's energy for the final quarter mile, let him have somewhat of his head, but eased up and came the final quarter in a blazing :29.3. Remember, he was eased up.

Virginia Wade Puts British Up In Wightman

WIMBLEDON, England

UPI — Virginia Wade, putting on a powerful one-woman show, won her singles match and then took part in a doubles victory Friday to give long-suffering Britain a 2-1 lead over the United States on the first day of the Wightman Cup Tennis competition.

Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., the top-ranking women's amateur player in the U. S., provided the only point for the visitors as she beat Christine Truman Jones, 6-1, 8-5, in the opening singles.

But Miss Wade, a grass court specialist with power almost equalling that of a man, evened the count by routing Mary Ann Eisel of St. Louis, 6-0, 6-1, and she then teamed with Winnie Shaw of Scotland to defeat Misses Richey and Eisel, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3, in the doubles.

All Britain needs is a split of Saturday's four matches to capture the Wightman Cup for only the seventh time in the 40 meetings between the two countries.

Orioles Deal for Fred Valentine

MINNEAPOLIS — St. Paul (UPI)—The Baltimore Orioles, looking for outfield insurance before the major league trading deadline, announced today that they obtained veteran Washington Senator switchhitter Fred Valentine in exchange for righthander Bruce Howard.

Baltimore Personnel director Harry Dalton said the Orioles need a replacement for center-fielder Paul Blair who may be called to active military duty on June 26. The Orioles dealt for the insurance with less than 24 hours to go before the deadline at 12 midnight tonight.

Angels' Schaal Is "Improved"

BOSTON (UPI) — California Angels' third baseman Paul Schaal, hit by a pitch at Fenway Park Thursday, was reported "improved" late Friday at Santa Maria Hospital in Cambridge.

Schaal suffered a hairline fracture of the skull when struck by a pitch thrown by Boston Red Sox pitcher Jose Santiago.

Dr. Thomas Tierney, Red Sox team physician, said Schaal is "going to be a sick boy for a couple of days."

Fights Last Night

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Jose Nieves, 135, Puerto Rico, stopped Jimmy Lee, 136, Miami, 4; Dorman Crawford, 146, Costa Rica, outpointed Juan Ramos, 148, Puerto Rico, 8.

SAO PAULO, Brazil — Joao Henrique, Brazil, outpointed Maurice Cullen, Britain, 10, welterweights.

The Pride took home 55 per cent of the purse, taking the winner's share of 50 per cent, the five per cent for fifth (only four were entered). It was worth $8,109.75.

For the Pride, owned by the Nevele Acres Stable and Lou Resnick, all of Ellenville, it marked two wins in two out this year and 28 triumphs in 31 starts over a two-year campaign.

He is staked throughout the country, and potentially can be the greatest money winner of all time, besides possibly becoming the greatest trotter to ever race.

The colt seemed to just walk through the mile, not even working up a lather. Just clipping along easily, it seemed as though the colt's legs weren't even touching the lightning-fast Mighty M racing strip.

The crowd that came out just to watch Nevele Pride was slightly disappointed that Dancer did not shoot for a world or track record. However, the fans applied his easy effort, realizing that Dan risk burning rather than win with risk burning the fantastic trotter out.

It was obvious that the Pride had been pushed or even asked to come on strong by Dancer, could have sizzled over the track faster than any trotter had done before. The patrons, however, were satisfied just to see him jog.

any way the Gerry was sliced, it was still all Nevele Pride.

Earlier, Speedy Wende made it two free-for-all wins in a row at MR. putting on a tremendous home-stretch drive to overtake leading Angelic Hanover and win the $5,000 weekly featured trot in a quick 2:04.3.

Bobby Camper reined Speedy Wende from the outside six slot, keeping back off the pace until the finish when the five-year-old brown mare swept by the field to win by a length-and-a-half.

A daughter of Speedster and Bonnie M. Lynn out of Lusty Song, Speedy Wende chalked up her second win in three starts. Her first victory came two weeks ago, the last time she raced, and it too, was at the Mighty M.

Peerless Yankee, the 4-5 odds on favorite, catch driven by Stanley Dancer, broke just at the start of the race and was out of contention immediately. The Going off at 6-1, Speedy Wende paid $15.00, 7.20 and 3.40, she raced, and it too, was at the Mighty M.

For the daily double, Tran-

made Pris the second. The combination of 7-6 paid $170.20.

Dear Abby

Penalty for Wife-Beating?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Beth and I have been married about 10 years and have a very good marriage and two adorable children.

I have been traveling quite a bit lately in my business and it has created a slight problem. Yesterday when I came off the road, after having driven from 7 a.m. until 6 p.m. Beth says, "It's a lovely evening, let's go for a little ride."

When I am out of town I eat in restaurants all the time, which gets pretty tiresome, so when I come home I look forward to a good, home-cooked meal. Well, she greets me at the door with, "I've been cooped up in the house all week, let's eat out."

Tell me, Dear Abby, what is the penalty for wife beating in the state of Nebraska? RON

DEAR RON: I don't know, but I would guess that you'd be ahead to "take a little ride" and eat out occasionally.

DEAR ABBY: The other day a letter came addressed to my husband. Thinking it was an advertisement, I opened it and found several pictures of nude women with a letter saying, "If you want more, send money."

I suppose I am naive, but I was shocked. I don't know whether my husband sent for these pictures or not. If he didn't, shouldn't these people be reported for sending this kind of stuff through the mails?

My problem is this: I'm afraid if I show this stuff to my husband and question him, he'll start having all his mail sent to his office and I won't see any of it. He is sometimes a little careless with money, and charges things he doesn't want me to know about. I recently quit working, and now I see all the mail before he does.

Bridge

Brilliant Play Saves the Day

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Today's hand was played in a rubber bridge game at New York's Cavendish Club. Barbara Kashmar, who sat South, was rather disappointed when she saw the dummy. It represented just about the worst possible raise, and she noted there were problems in each of the four suits.

There was an automatic correct spade play and Barbara made it by playing dummy's nine. When East won with the king, one hurdle appeared to have been taken care of. It looked as if she could finesse the spade jack later on and get rid of one of her minor suit losers on the ace.

East returned the three of hearts and a lot of players would have gone wrong at this point in the proceedings by playing the eight, but Barbara played the queen. West won with the king and led a trump back. Barbara won in her hand with an honor so as to retain the nine as an entry to dummy.

She cashed her ace and king of clubs next and let a spade to dummy's jack. If East had produced the queen, Barbara would have been down at least two tricks, but the jack held. Now Barbara was able to discard her three of clubs on the ace of spades. Then she led a club from dummy and ruffed high.

And I like it this way. What do you suggest?

DEAR ABBY: Your biggest problem, as I see it, is the obvious lack of communication and mutual trust between you two.

For openers, ask him how he came to be recipient of the girlie gallery. (He may be innocent.) Then present the material (in its original envelope) to your postmaster, who will add it to his bulging file on pornographic abuse of the United States mails. If your husband sent for the stuff, you have still another problem. You are married to a "little boy" who still likes to look at dirty pictures.

DEAR ABBY: I am a maiden lady, 70 years of age. I retired 10 years ago and am making my home with my sister, 74, and her husband, 76.

My brother-in-law is a kind man and a good Christian. We have had a happy home together because we all like to do the same things.

Of course, at our age, any one of us might pass away at any time, which raises this question: If my sister should go first, her husband would be utterly helpless to cook and keep house for himself, so since it is "my" house, too, I know my sister would want me to stay on and look after him. But how would this look to other people?

My brother-in-law has no other relatives. Your advice, please?

NAMELESS
DEAR NAMELESS: The last thing I would worry about is how it would "look" to other people. Why not wait until the problem presents itself before worrying about how to solve it?

CONFIDENTIAL TO D. WOOD: What "old Chinese proverb"? The size of one's ears has absolutely no bearing on the length of one's life. Quit worrying!

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and en-

Horoscope By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny... astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 16, 1968

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Day to quietly consult with one who can aid you in spiritual sense. Collect facts. Apply knowledge. Utilize mature approach. Avoid sensationalism. Say no to eccentric scheme.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Gentle hint from friend could provide incentive for real progress. Maintain open mind. Don't be fixed in views, attitudes. Social affairs prove satisfying—could lead to ultimate profit.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Settle within yourself key goals. Outline details—take notes. Impress upon yourself what it is you want to attain. Fine for entertaining those in authority. Be confident about abilities.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Investigate—obtain answers to questions. Find out the why of events. Today is fine for dispatching letters, making key calls. People at a distance could play significant role.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Check with authority concerning legacy, other people's money, possible investment. You are called upon to handle valuables. Could be connected with church-social affair.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Accent on how you handle changing conditions. Find out what people are thinking, how they react. Key is to put aside personal feelings, opinions. Get at the facts. Then progress occurs.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Attention centers on basic job, service, essential chores. Be strong. Set examples. If you concentrate you can accomplish important mission. Know this and reject foolish notions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Finish project with burst of creative energy. You cannot do things halfway today. Apply yourself. Attention centers around children, creative endeavors. Keynote is change.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your sense of security can be enhanced. Stress originality. Bring forth creative resources. Ask questions—insist on satisfactory answers. Loved one requires reassurance. Give it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Organize information, facts. There is so much superfluous activity today it is essential for you to have some solid idea of goal. Know this and apply self-discipline.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Don't be blocked in by imaginary restrictions. You get what you go after today. The only obstacle is yourself. Accent on income potential. Think, analyze—find out what you really need.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Cycle is high: take initiative. There are details which may have been overlooked. Today get busy and obtain facts. Follow routine procedure but do so with verve. Means make people aware.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are on a new cycle: your tendency to be introspective will be subject to revision. Means you make more personal assertions, appearances than in past. Be positive and definite.

parvenu (PAR-ve-new)

a person who suddenly attains wealth but lacks the sophistication of the upper class.

At the private club the established members would snicker whenever the name of the local parvenu was mentioned.

After watching the middle-aged investor step on the toes of his dancing partner, the banker realized why he was referred to as a parvenu.

Even though he had inherited a great deal of money from his grandfather's estate, the town butcher was so crude about his spending habits that it was easy to see why he was called a parvenu.

My brother-in-law is a kind man and a good Christian. We have had a happy home together because we all like to do the same things.

Of course, at our age, any one of us might pass away at any time, which raises this question: If my sister should go, her husband would be utterly helpless to cook and keep house for himself, so since it is "my" house, too, I know my sister would want me to stay on and look after him. But how would this look to other people? My brother-in-law has no other relatives. Your advice, please?

NAMELESS: DEAR NAMELESS: The last thing I would worry about is how it would "look" to other people. Why not wait until the problem presents itself before worrying about how to solve it?

CONFIDENTIAL TO D. WOO: What "old Chinese proverb"? The size of one's ears, close a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Horoscope By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny... astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 16, 1968

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Day to quietly consult with one who can aid you in spiritual sense. Collect facts. Apply knowledge. Utilize mature approach. Avoid sensationalism. Say no to eccentric scheme.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Gentle hint from friend could provide incentive for real progress. Maintain open mind. Don't be fixed in views, attitude. Social affairs prove satisfying—could lead to ultimate profit.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Settle within yourself key goals. Outline details—take notes. Impress upon yourself what it is you want to attain. Fine for entertaining those in authority. Be confident about abilities.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Investigate—obtain answers to questions. Find out the why of events. Today is fine for dispatching letters, making key calls. People at a distance could play significant role.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Check with authority concerning legacy, other people's money, possible investment. You are called upon to handle valuables. Could be connected with church-social affair.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Accent on how you handle changing conditions. Find out what people are thinking, how they react. Key is to put aside personal feelings, opinions. Get at the facts. Then progress occurs.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Attention centers on basic job, service, essential chores. Be strong. Set examples. If you concentrate you can accomplish important mission. Know this and reject foolish notions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Finish project with burst of creative energy. You cannot do things halfway today. Apply yourself. Attention centers around children, creative endeavors. Keynote is change.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your sense of security can be enhanced. Stress originality. Bring forth creative resources. Ask questions—insist on satisfactory answers. Loved one requires reassurance. Give it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Organize information, facts. There is so much superfluous activity today it is essential for you to have some solid idea of goal. Know this and apply self-discipline.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Don't be blocked in by imaginary restrictions. You get what you go after today. The only obstacle is yourself. Accent on income potential. Think, analyze—find out what you really need.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Cycle is high: fake initiative. There are details which may have been overlooked. Today get busy and obtain facts. Follow routine procedure but do so with verve. Means make people aware.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: you are on a new cycle: your tendency to be introspective will be subject to revision. Means you make more personal assertions, appearances than in past. Be positive and definite.

parvenu (PAR-ve-nu) a person who suddenly attains wealth but lacks the sophistication of the upper class. At the private club the established members would snicker whenever the name of the local parvenu was mentioned. After watching the middle-aged investor step on the toes of his dancing partner, the banker realized why he was referred to as a parvenu. Even though he had inherited a great deal of money from his grandfather's estate, the town butcher was so crude about his spending habits that it was easy to see why he was called a parvenu.

Blockbuster for the Fall

At the American Broadcasting Co. they must have laughed when Marvin Marx sat down and proposed they do an original musical comedy series next fall. It's hard enough to do one on Broadway let alone on television where imitation is the sincerest form.

They may have started off laughing at him but they wound up laughing with him because NBC is going to put on a weekly one-hour series entitled That's Life.

Unlike musical variety shows, That's Life will follow the every day situations of a young couple. Unlike a situation comedy, That's Life will tell part of its story in song and dance.

That's Life isn't, the next problem will be to pigeonhole the series. Marvin Marx has to be categorized. Marx is no help in this regard but knowing Marx brings the concept into clearer focus.

He was the head writer for the funniest situation comedy series ever on television—The Honeymooner episodes on the Jackie Gleason show, which in the past two years have been set to music.

Gleason will concentrate on variety shows next season, thus freeing some of his Honeymooner creative talent, like Marx. (Gleason has held back three Honeymooner segments for broadcast next year.)

Marvin Marx is a veteran of the airwaves. He worked on Fred Allen's radio show, Sid Caesar's TV specials and Joey Bishop's situation comedy in 1961-62.

That's Life has been on his mind for 10 years, he said in a telephone interview from New York. "I've always believed that a musical comedy could be done on TV except you can't expect to come up with 'Brigadoon' or 'Kiss Me, Kate' every week."

He emphasizes it won't be a situation comedy set to music. "The show will revolve around a young couple and each week we'll take a segment of their life. It won't be a contrived situation. We'll do sketches that have a continuity and show their problems."

Big name guest stars will appear as characters within the show but Morse and Miss X will be the only regular characters.

In the first show, for example, the couple meet in a park and begin a romance. A comic such as George Burns will sort of introduce the couple to the audience and set the stage for the series.

In the second show, Morse will play a character who's a bachelor in the neighborhood while she pulls on the other end. He loses and they get married in the third program. (This is going to be a fast series.)

Blockbuster for the Fall

At the American Broadcasting Co. they must have laughed when Marvin Marx sat down and proposed they do an original musical comedy series next fall. It's hard enough to do one on Broadway let alone on television where imitation is the sincerest form. They may have started off laughing at him but they wound up laughing with him because ABC is going to put on a weekly one-hour series entitled That's Life. Unlike musical variety shows, That's Life will follow the every day situations of a young couple. Unlike a situation comedy, That's Life will tell part of its story in song and dance and with guest stars in char-	That's Life isn't, the next problem will be to pigeonhole the show. Every TV show has to be categorized. That's Life is no help in this regard but knowing Marx brings the concept into clearer focus. He was the head writer for the funniest situation comedy series ever on television—The Honeymooner episodes on the Jackie Gleason show, which in the past two years have been set to music. Gleason will concentrate on variety shows next season, thus freeing some of his Honeymooner creative talent, like Marx. (Gleason has held back three Honeymooner segments for broadcast next year.)	Marvin Marx is a veteran of the airwaves. He worked on Fred Allen's radio show, Sid Caesar's TV specials and Joey Bishop's situation comedy in 1961-62. That's Life has been on his mind for 10 years, he said in a telephone interview from New York. "I've always believed that a musical comedy could be done on TV except you can't expect to come up with 'Brigadoon' or 'Kiss Me, Kate' every week." He emphasizes it won't be a situation comedy set to music. "The show will revolve around a young couple and each week we'll take a segment of their life. It won't be a contrived situation. We'll do sketches that	have a continuity and show their problems." Big name guest stars will appear as characters within the plot but Morse and Miss will be the only regular characters. In the first show, for example, the couple meet in a park and begin a romance comic such as George Burns will sort of introduce the couple to the audience and set the stage for the series. In the second show, Morse tries to hang on to his bachelorhood while she pulls on the other end. He loses and they get married in the third program. (This is going to be fast series.)

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

THE FIREMEN'S dispute with the city has gone to the courts leaving in its wake a number of unanswered questions.

We're still not convinced that every effort was made, by both sides, to settle this dispute in Kingston instead of throwing it into the lap of outsiders.

For one thing, the press releases the firemen put out don't jive with the legal papers their attorney, S. James Matthews, served on city officials.

A press release under Robert Gollnick's signature early this week makes mention of the firemen "agreeing to cut their negotiated contract in half."

The only negotiated contract we know of is between the firemen and the commissioners calling for $1,100 for the chief, $1,000 for the deputies and $400 for the firemen.

MAYOR GARRAGHAN has gone on record a number of times as saying he would give the chief a $500 raise, deputies $450 and firemen $400.

Assuming the firemen made an offer to cut their negotiated contract in half, their offer should have been $550 for the chief, $500 for the deputies and $375 for the firemen. They would have accepted Garraghan's $400 offer for the firemen so all the two sides were arguing about was $50 for the chief and deputies.

We can't see anyone going to court over $50 per year—less than a dollar a week. Add the fact that Jim Matthews is no longer donating his services and the firemen's court action doesn't make economic sense.

There may be just the possibility that the firemen aren't worried about the economic aspects of the case. This may be a test of the Taylor law which states that the city has the last word on appropriations.

IF KINGSTON loses this case it could open the floodgates for every municipal employee union to take their contracts to court if they're not satisfied. If the city wins, the opposite effect could set in. Municipalities, confident that their word is binding might offer final contracts that no union in good conscience could accept.

The Taylor Law, as they say on Laugh-in, is "very interesting."

PRIMARY DAY in the Fifth and Sixth Wards is fast approaching and we have to give the edge to the seasoned performers, Bob Schantz in the Sixth and Lou Smith in the Fifth. Of the two, Smith probably has a better chance since, being retired, he has more time to campaign.

Both Brendon Alexander and Burton Davis are making the rounds for the first time and each will have to contact (or try to contact) more than 400 registered Republicans.

It's not easy working all day and then going door to door for half the night, especially when you're new at it. It's even more difficult for Alexander who's looking forward to another addition to his family around the 18th.

Hallmarks—Noticed a typographical error in the brief the firemen presented to the city. In listing the salaries of various firemen someone dropped a zero from Chief Brett's salary and he's now being paid $1,600 a year instead of (we assume) $10,600. Maybe Garraghan will take the extra $9,000 and split it up among the rest of the department.

Poor People Get Week's Extension

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Poor People's Campaign has been given an additional week to remain in its shantytown near the Lincoln Memorial. But a campaign leader says the demonstration will continue until demands are met.

The FBI office in Los Angeles said Friday it has no knowledge of published reports that a composite portrait has been prepared of the girl seen standing by Sirhan shortly before the Kennedy shooting. It referred all inquiries to the FBI headquarters in Washington.

She was seen standing next to Sirhan by Vincent Thomas di Piero, a part time waiter at the hotel, who told police another waiter with him also saw the girl, with a "lousy" dress and unkempt hair.

Booker Griffin, head of the Los Angeles chapter of the Negro Industrial and Economic Union also reported seeing her. He described the girl as a "weird cat."

Bell Answers Back, Clarifies Proposals

After a review of news reports of a press conference held yesterday by Peter J. Savago, his opponent, H. Clark Bell, claimed that the "shotgun full of charges, leveled by Savago, do not deserve the dignity of a response."

"They come at the eleventh hour on the eve of an election and should be considered in that light, by the 30,500 enrolled Republicans in Ulster County," Bell said.

Savago and Bell face each other in a contest for the GOP assembly nomination next Tuesday.

Bell said there are two areas in which he would like to direct the attention to the public. They are in the fields of financing education and financing welfare.

"I feel that real estate can no longer bear the burden of increased taxation to finance our educational system. I favor increasing state aid to the point where maintenance and operational costs of our school system are paid entirely out of state revenues such as personal income taxes, sales tax, corporate tax, gasoline tax, cigarette and alcohol tax, gambling and lottery revenues, etc. Real estate can no longer bear the burden, upon the good judgment and fairness of the 30,000 enrolled Republicans of Ulster County to do what they think best based upon certified facts.

I also favor retention of local autonomy over our school boards. Any representations to the contrary are erroneous. We must relieve the real estate property owner and we must guarantee superior educational opportunities. My proposals in this field can accomplish both.

In the field of welfare, I favor increased financial aid from the Federal government. Localities should not be forced to pay the increasing welfare bill. The federal government, in large measure, has created the welfare problems as a result of inequitable programs. I feel more federal funds should be left in localities to help relieve welfare costs created by the federal government. We, in the local community, must have more of our federal dollars remain in our localities to solve our own problems. Any representations to the contrary are erroneous.

My record at the Constitutional Convention is on file for any fair observer to review. As I stated before, I shall not dignify unprincipled rumors and accusa-

More and More, the Old Crafts Are Revived

AT WOODSTOCK'S FREEWHEEL POTTERY, just opened this month, Phillip Bresler creates handcrafted stoneware of unusual beauty. At right, Bresler forms wet clay into well formed vase on the potter's wheel, working by hand in age-old tradition of artisans. At left, he fires smaller pottery piece on electric kiln. Bresler and his wife, Iris, operate pottery at their studio on Larson Lane in the art colony. Hundreds of individualistic pieces are displayed for perusal of buyers on outdoor exhibition tables and indoors on attractive sunporch. The Breslers, well known for their creative work in pottery, will give instruction this summer in pottery and ceramics at their studio under auspices of the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen. Only private classes have been offered by the talented couple in the past. Now both beginners and advanced students will have the opportunity of working with them two afternoons a week — on Wednesday and Thursday from 1:30 to 4:30, beginning June 26. The Breslers studied their unique art at Greenwich House in New York City, the University of Toledo, Alfred University and the University of Michigan. Their work has been exhibited in America House, New York City, the Pasco Gallery in Connecticut, International Art Institute in Detroit, and in other galleries and shops in the mid-west and east. Further information on the upcoming classes is available through the Guild of Craftsmen and registrations will be accepted by telephone at the Guild number. (Freeman photos by Haines).

Reliability Tour Coming Our Way

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

The high-powered Duesenbergs, Mercedes, Packards, Pierce-Arrows, Bugattis, Rolls-Royces and other stunning classics will roll through the Hudson River Valley tomorrow.

And, as each sparkling, new-looking old car moves by in review on the way from New York to Albany, those who watch their passage will take a fast trip back to yesterday.

For many, the touring automobiles will mark a return to the nostalgic era when the nation was excitedly beginning to take to the open road. And, whether you're a sophisticated old car buff . . . or would simply like to be . . . the tour these antique, vintage and classic autos will make through this valley Sunday will offer a sentimental peek into the past.

For June 16 marks the start of the 1968 Transcontinental Reliability Tour, commemorating the 60th anniversary of the New York to Paris Race of 1908. It will leave New York City's Times Square

Sunday morning (the starting point of the original 1908 New York to Paris race) for Albany, a distance of some 170 miles. Before the tour, which will closely duplicate that portion of the 1908 race that was made in the continental United States, is completed, a long line of 1914 or earlier vintage automobiles will have checked in at checkpoints across the country from here to San Francisco. Their route will take them from New York to Albany to Syracuse to Buffalo, and on to Cleveland, Chicago, Des Moines, Omaha, Hastings, Denver, Salt Lake City, Reno, and into San Francisco. The tour is expected to be completed by July 13 and your guess is as good as anyone's as to how many of the restored classics will make it all the way.

Main Attraction

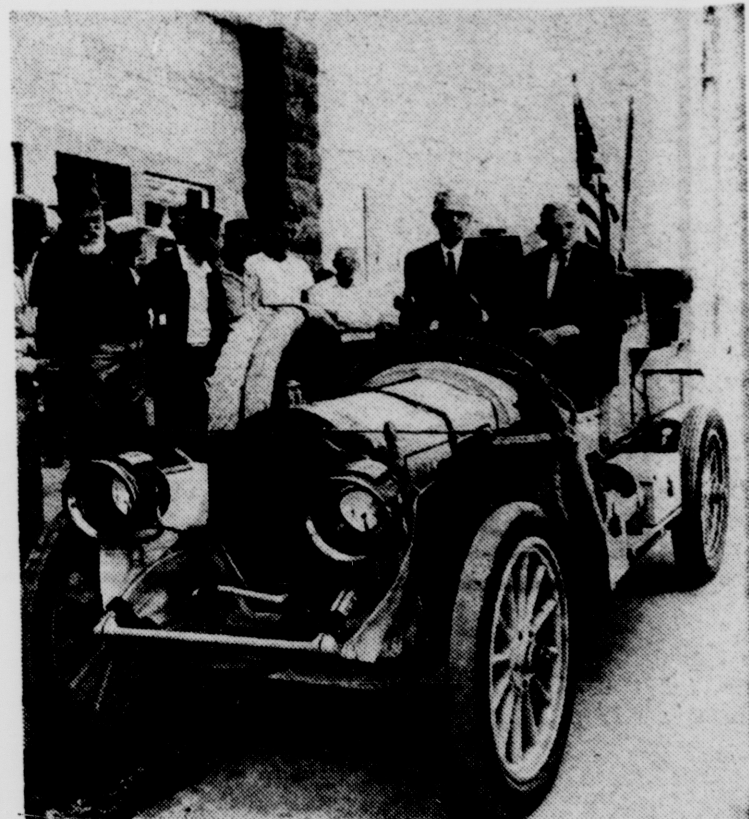

As the tour banners flutter across the country, the main attraction of the cross-continent motorcade will be George Schuster, 96 years young, who'll be participating in the 1908 Tour. The uniqueness of this, aside from his age, is the fact that he is the only living member of the Thomas Flyer crew and — for those too young to remember — the 1907 Flyer was the hands-down winner in that long ago, longest race in history.

It was, in retrospect, a race that stirred the imagination and attention of the world. Here was a contest of man and machine (Continued on Page 2)

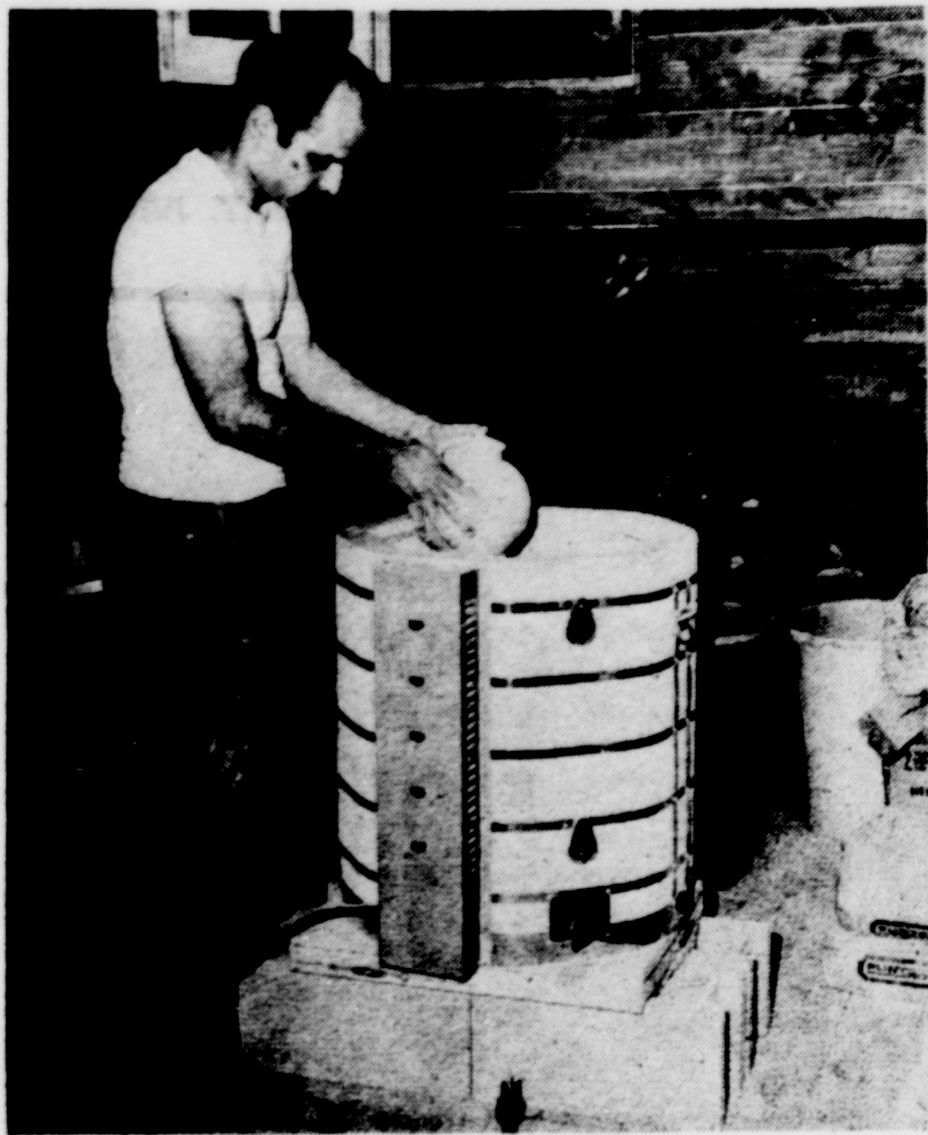

THE LONGEST AUTOMOBILE RACE in history, from New York to Paris in 1908, stirred the imagination and attention of the world. Here was a contest of man and machine in a supreme test of physical and mechanical endurance and — pictured in this old photograph — is the start of the race as it began in New York City's Times Square on Feb. 12, 1908.

RESTORED TO ITS EXACT CONDITION as it appeared the day it arrived in Paris at the end of the longest auto race in history, the Thomas Flyer, in June, 1964, returned to Tonopah, Nevada, to exact location where car stopped overnight during 1908 race. In the driver's seat, William Harrah, antique automobile collector, and — with him — George Schuster, chief pilot during the 1908 race and still living today at 96.

An Indonesian Gastronomic Happening

19-KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN, JUNE 15, 1968

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

If you were an American tourist in Indonesia and wanted to treat yourself to the most scrumptious luncheon that exotic country had to offer, you would do yourself a favor by sitting down to the Rijsttafel. Only if one worries about his waistline should he beware of ordering Rijsttafel (rice table), the famous specialty of Indonesia.

At the Hotel des Indes in Batavia in Indonesia, tourists and natives alike sit under the gaily striped awning of the verandah and watch with trepidation the advance of the "rijsttafel army." In this army almost two dozen boys, who serve up as many as 40 different dishes at one setting. And they take pride in their work... for the coveted places in the line of serving boys are handed down from father to son.

The number one boy brings a capacious bowl heaped with fluffy white rice. Another serves a curried soup containing little meat balls. Still another presents a chicken loaf. On and on they come in a steady procession, offering tempting dishes, boasting a variety of meats, fish, fowl and game, sometimes including wild boar. Spicy sauces are served along with the fare and a wonderful array of condiments appears. Also offered for nibbling are bamboo roots, nuts and shredded coconut.

In Silver Bowls

The solid silver bowls are heavy and laden with delicious menu items including dried fish. In saronged native country, perfect service and cuisine — well prepared and of wide selection — receive the homage deserved.

Something similar to this scene will be in the offing locally next weekend. A Rijsttafel is being held here for the benefit of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic on Saturday, June 22, and plans for the Rijsttafel menu to be as authentic as possible.

The idea for the local feast-benefit originated with a small Rijsttafel offered by Harry Matzen recently for friends. Matzen invited Philharmonic officers and directors to his own version of that wonderful gastronomic happening, and they enjoyed it to the fullest—as had visitors to Indonesia and patrons of the finest restaurants in Amsterdam and New York before them. Matzen's Rijsttafel was hailed as a real experience—a rare and unique titillation of the taste buds—and, altogether, a delightful evening.

Why not have a larger one to help fill the coffers of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Fund Drive? Not sooner said than done... and now the HVP Rijsttafel is planned for June 22 at the Governor Clinton Hotel. This larger scale affair, to which HVP subscribers and friends in general are invited, will rely on Matzen, a HVP Council member and authority on Indonesia, its customs and food, as advisor on authenticity. Born in Indonesia, he knows well the menus and traditions of that fascinating land and he promises that the Rijsttafel (Kingston version) will be fun.

Who Would Not?

And why not? Who would not enjoy dining on the exotic Indonesian delicacies, being entertained by the Indonesian music that will be provided, and being a part of the Oriental flavor of the soiree... as well as helping the Hudson Valley Philharmonic?

If TEMPO sounds like it's beating the drums for the Rijsttafel, it is! The fete in the Garden Lounge of the Governor Clinton next Saturday at 7:30 p. m. intrigues. The condiments alone are worth the price of admission. Foregoing their native names such as kroepoek and seroendeng, we pass along the information that they will include: deep-fried shrimp puffs, coconut and nut condiment, rice-field fish condiment, chutney, pickled cucumber salad and red hot pepper. Main courses are even yummier; listed are: Javanese chicken and lamb curries, lobster curry fried banana, egg dishes and rice. Dessert will consist of exotic fruits, along with coffee. And it's all being served in a setting with Indonesian overtones and to a background of Dutch East Indian music.

So come and clink a drink and sample a shrimp puff. You can pay at the door or make reservations through Mrs. C. L. Christensen, of Hurley. She's serving as chairman of the committee for this good fun, good fund raiser affair—an event that will allow you to eat to your heart's content and support the Maintenance Fund Drive of the award winning and highly honored Hudson Valley Philharmonic.

THE WAY THEY DO IT in Indonesia is illustrated in this National Geographic Magazine photograph. What they're doing is serving up Rijsttafel (Dutch or Indonesian for "rice table") and, to titillate the hungry taste buds of diners, a small army of 21 boys advances in march time at Batavia's Hotel des Indes in Indonesia. Marching to the table with 40 different dishes for this famous Asian dining rite, they illustrate to a degree what's in store for those who attend the Rijsttafel of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society at the Gov. Clinton Hotel here on June 22.

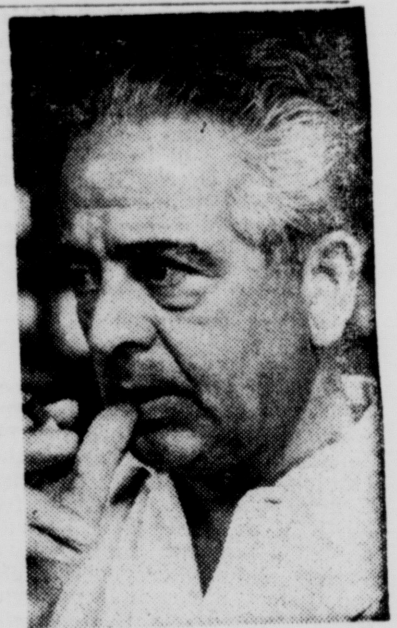

Around the World, Students And Teachers Use His Book

A revised second edition of manufacturing glass and ceramic Mosaic Art Today by Larry Argiro, art professor at State University College, New Paltz, was released by International Textbook Company, yesterday.

The first edition, published in 1961, was based on many years of experimentation and teaching by the New Paltz artist. The author frequently receives letters from art students and teachers around the world who commend his book. One art student writing from Australia recently asked about attending a mosaic class at New Paltz. A month ago, a Notre Dame art professor wrote asking for advice on mosaic techniques. A few days before, a former student at New Paltz, now living in India, had written to ask for guidance on

One reader in Israel, who said he had learned nearly everything he knew from the Argiro textbook, had become a professional mosaicist, with a large mural in the B'nai B'rith Building in Tel Aviv to his credit.

Argiro has recently been named a member of a State-wide Advisory committee for the development of a new syllabus in art for junior high schools. The appointment was made by the Curriculum Development Center of the State Education Department in Albany. The committee held its first meeting Friday, June 7 to begin devising ways to improve the junior high teaching of art.

Young Author To Be Feted at Reception Today

NANCY E. KLINE

A young author, Nancy E. Kline, will autograph copies of her newly-published first novel, "The Faithful," at a reception this afternoon, June 15, at the Catskill Book Shop, Woodstock.

Miss Kline, in private life Mrs. Michael J. Piore, is the latest of a number of Woodstock writers who have appeared at the invitation of the Book Shop's owners, Donald and Elise Twine.

The new novelist, 26, looks back to summers spent here since she was four years old, and although a New Yorker, thinks of Woodstock as the nearest thing to a hometown she has.

Her publishers, William Morrow & Co., called "The Faithful" a "superb short novel," with which "a young American author immediately establishes herself as one of the foremost imaginative writers of her generation."

A Book Unstained

Critic Irving Howe, reviewing it in the May issue of Harpers, said the book was "unstained by the fingerprints of the Zeitgeist and in its grave and gawky way, a lovely piece of work."

The book's protagonist, as Howe describes her, is "the dewy, eighteen-year-old Hildie, a literary grandmother of rare skill and beauty, even in James's Daisy Miller, (who) visits a convent in France, to meet, adore, and struggle with an aging nun, La Reverende Mere Marie des Agnes. Hildie is innocent and brash; she has read Sartre and bought a diaphragm; she is corroded with skepticism yet filled with a touching and ignorant yearning for some sort of transcendence."

In the "entanglement of affection" which develops between the girl and the nun, "the injustice built into all human relationships appears as a clash in modes of eagerness... 'The Faithful' is composed with lucidity, control and intelligence, virtues notable at any time but in this age of noisy exhibitionism, virtues to be cherished."

More Comments

Other reviewers commented: The "impasse (between the girl and the nun) becomes the basis for an intriguing dialogue."—New York Times Book Review, May 5.

The novel "skillfully depicts the meeting of these two women, with their differences in age, education, nationality and religion."—Times Picayune, New Orleans, May 5.

A "subtle picture of the struggle for the soul of two women... The author uses words with a literary grandmother of rare skill and beauty, even in the stark reality of battle. It is a little book had to forget." Chicago Tribune, May 8.

Nancy Kline's first love was the theater, and patrons of the Woodstock Playhouse who can remember that far back may recall her as a nine-year-old actress in Jean Giraudoux' "The Enchanted" in the 1951 season. Years later, in the summer of 1960, she reappeared as the theater janitor and, on stage, as an angel in "Sholem Aleichem."

Phi Beta Kappa

She was educated at the University of Wisconsin, the Sorbonne, and at Barnard College, from which she was graduated Phi Beta Kappa and with honors in 1964. On a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship, she continued her study of French at Columbia University and obtained a Master's Degree; her thesis was a study of the fiction of Guillaume Apollinaire.

She lives in Cambridge, Mass., with her husband, an assistant professor of economics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Her parents, owners of a summer home on the West Saugerties Road, Woodstock, are Sidney Kline, writer for the WABC-TV network evening news report, and Polly Kline, a staff writer for the New York Daily News.

Television

Even with all the re-runs, homescreen viewers will be able to find much that is new and timely on TV during the week ahead.

Timely indeed is the topic of heart transplants and the severe moral and medical problems which surround them will be discussed by pioneers in the field tonight. At 10 p. m. this evening, Channel 17 will present "The Surgeons Assess Organ Transplants," and on tap for the special 90-minute show will be Dr. Christian Barnard, Dr. Norman Shumway, and Dr. Dwight E. Harken. The program will be a condensed broadcast of the highlights of the first annual John F. Kennedy Symposium on Recent Significant developments in Medicine and Surgery. A panel discussion, it'll focus on a debate between liberal and conservative doctors over the science and ethics of heart transplants.

Still another timely and pressing subject is "This Question of Violence," which will be the topic of inquiry on a program by that name on Channel 17 this Sunday, June 16, at 5 p. m. A delving into the nature and history of violence in this country, the show was being prepared for a fall airing, but is being presented now because it has specific significance in the aftermath of Senator Robert F. Kennedy's assassination.

Probes the Roots

As a feature of NET JOURNAL, the program will probe the roots of violence in American life, seeking a cultural and historical basis to answer the question: Is this a violent society? There will be a segment filmed at a Detroit hospital for violent children and one containing portions of a seminar filmed June 1 and 2 in Los Angeles, just prior to Sen. Kennedy's shooting, at which the subject of violence was discussed by authoritative anthropologists, psychologists and psychiatrists.

Respite from the pressures and problems of the modern world are also in store for TV fans this week. There's the coming production of the Miss College Queen Pageant, set for NBC-TV on June 17. Billed as a true pageant and not a variety show where contestants must sing, dance and perform other assorted acts, this one will accent the theory that the contest is the thing that first sold these shows. College Queen will be set up so that the 10 finalists will be selected in the first 10 minutes of the show, affording an opportunity for viewers to see how the contest builds with the few who are left and who can be identified by everyone in the TV audience.

Also coming up is a musical landmark described as "a special no music lover should miss." That would be the recording of Wagner's musical drama, "Die Goetterdaemmerung," which brought together some of the greatest opera stars of our time. It'll be documented on "The Golden Ring" Wednesday, June 19 on Channel 17. A Viennese ballroom was converted into a studio; and for eight days NET FESTIVAL cameras moved in and out of the hall televising the rehearsals, playbacks, and recording sessions of this mammoth event.

Recalls the '30s

Strictly for entertainment will be The Goldiggers, the 10-week summer replacement series for Dean Martin, based on tunes and events of the 1930's and debuting on NBC-TV June 20. Comedy actor Paul Lynde (he of the shark-like grin) will be the one who holds the show together, makes things run smoother, and serves as a sort of "glue man." Barbara Heller will play Mae West throughout the series. Also featured will be Joey Heatherton and Frank Sinatra Jr. What it all adds up to is a variety series about the '30s with the psychedelic look of the '60s and, along the way, salutes to Charlie Chan, Jack Armstrong, Mr. Anthony and This is Your FBI.

REFLECTIONS We have heard many say this week that whenever there is a national emergency, as with our most recent piece of lunatic violence, TV wins back—or should—all the friends it loses with its faults. One would have to agree that the immediacy of the medium can't be denied. Nor can the honesty of men like David Brinkley, who said at one time, "There's no point in fooling anyone. We're just filling the air until we have some more news." But we also heard many others say the coverage was done to such excess that it often seemed more like a Sol Hurok production than anything else, and that the endlessness of the cameras following the route of the funeral train became almost unbearable as did many of the long day's journeys into night that filled the screen for the better portion of a week . . .

David Frost proved himself an especially adept interviewer when he talked to the eight presidential candidates. His questions were intelligent and demanded revealing answers. He also listened to the answers and reacted to them, the sign of a good interviewer. So excellent were the interviews, they will be published as a book shortly. Most of them were cut because of time . . . Anyone who has watched Treasure Isle on ABC-TV has to admit it's one of TV's most unusual shows. What other show has leased expensive Florida land to create a stage that is actually a lagoon holding two million tons of water, a miniature waterfall, a whirlpool and a sunken Spanish galleon?

What was it like on TV last week: First off, we found the Laugh-In summer replacement titled The Champions was about as far-out a dramatic presentation as the Laugh-In variety show. Its trio of stars are all super sleuths and this super is literal . . . Then there was a repeat of an old Carol Burnett Show but, happily, it was the one with a very funny skit taking off on "Look Who's Coming to Dinner." Carol and Art Carney were perfect in the Tracy-Hepburn roles . . . The two new summer variety series debuting Tuesday night left us cold. Showcase '68 can best be described as a professional "amateur hour" for the young set, and Showtime's premise is to have an American host preside over an hour special shot in London and featuring an all-European cast. It will only be by accident that we tune either one of them in again . . . And, as for the repeat of "Laura," the Truman Capote Bouvier, it had a practical rerun value only in terms of additional revenue for the ABC network.

Finally, "Black Journal," the first in a series of programs to be broadcast over the summer, seemed to be a step in the right direction of bridging the gap between America's Negroes and whites . . . and "The Art Game" with Edwin Newman making notes brought a fascinating subject, the world of art, into focus by exposing its commercial aspects, in its many forms from aesthetics to forgery.

TEMPO TV LISTINGS for the week ahead would have to include the following as the pick of the programs:

Sunday, June 16

FACE THE NATION (CBS, 12:30 p. m.). California's Gov. Ronald Reagan is interviewed from Tulsa, Okla., where he's attending the Republican Governors Conference.

MEET THE PRESS (NBC, 12:30 p. m.). Presenting four GOP Governors: George Romney of Michigan, Raymond Shafer of Pennsylvania, Spiro Agnew of Maryland and Dewey Barrett of Oklahoma.

ISSUES AND ANSWERS (ABC, 1:30 p. m.). Alabama's former governor George Wallace is interviewed.

ANIMAL KINGDOM (NBC, 6:30 p. m.). Premiere of a new wildlife adventure series with a look at the mass migration of the varied animals which inhabit East Africa's Serengeti Plain.

Monday, June 17

MEN WHO TEACH (Channel 17, 8 p. m.). University of Michigan philosophy professor Abraham Kaplan is the subject of this program which is presenting a series on the nation's most distinguished college professors.

Tuesday, June 18

CBS REPORTS (CBS, 10 p. m.). "The Business of Religion." CBS correspondent Charles Kuralt reports on the wealth of American churches enhanced by real estate holdings valued at $79.5 billion and by income from such varied sources as restaurants and a girdle factory. Religious leaders comment on the controversy about whether these holdings should be subject to disclosure and taxation.

Wednesday, June 19

BILLY GRAHAM CRUSADE (Channel 9, 7:30 p. m.). The evangelist speaks on "The Devil and You" at the final rally of his Pacific Northwest Crusade from Portland, Ore. Special music by the Crusade Choir and other singers.

GILBERT BECAUD (Channel 9 and 13, 8:30 p. m.) Beaud, French singer-songwriter known as "Mr. 100,000 Volts," headlines an international session of song from Germany. Not well known in this country as yet, he's the current toast of the continent; has written 100 songs, including "What Now, My Love?"

Thursday, June 20

GOLDDIGGERS (Channel 2 and 3, 10 p. m.). The comedy, costumes and songs of the 1930's provide the theme for this new summer variety series. Joey Heatherton, Frank Sinatra Jr. and Paul Lynde salute Bonnie and Clyde, Clark Kent and Shirley Temple on the premiere program.

Friday, June 21

MOVIE (Channels 5, 7 and 10, 9 p. m.). Melina Mercouri and Peter Ustinov, along with Maximilian Schell and Robert Morley, star in "Topkapi," all about a fabulous jewel caper pulled off by an odd assortment of thieves.

THE NEW AMERICAN CATHOLIC (Channels 3 & 5, 10 p. m.). A news special by NBC exploring changes in the American Catholic Church since its updating by the Second Vatican Council. Emphasis is on parish structure and the roles of nuns and priests.

VICKI LAWRENCE AND CAROL BURNETT are the im-pish sisters on Carol's CBS-TV show. Eighteen-year-old Vicki was picked to be Miss Burnett's sister because of her amazing resemblance, and she has since acquired many of Carol's mannerisms. She got the job by writing a fan letter, with picture enclosed, after she watched the show and realized she looked enough like the star to be related.

Brought It Back

Dear Editor:
Thank you for your colorful and interesting historical articles in TEMPO.

The one about small boys leading the tow path horses along the old canal and sometimes being tangled in the reins still gives me nightmares. It was so true of life in those days. You brought it back as if it were yesterday.

Also enjoyed your story about the Green Kill Inn. Was that located on the bluffs up over Wilber?

I am not a native of this area but I am very interested in the local history.

Is it true the early Dutch were sometimes captured by Indians, and were they made slaves or did they intermarry?

Your articles are so fascinating I can't put the paper down until I finish reading them. We hope to hear more from you.

Sincerely

(MRS.) BETTY M. HIGGINS

Saugerties, N. Y.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Our research shows that the Green Kill Inn was not on the Wilber bluffs. It was located in Eddyville which means that instead of crossing the Eddyville bridge, one drove some three miles beyond there up the Canal Road. The early Dutch were indeed unfortunate enough to be both captured and scalped by the Indians. TEMPO plans articles on those trials and tribulations in the future; begs off on answering the slavery and intermarriage questions until then, so as not to reveal any surprise endings these stories might have in store.)

Dictionary Commission

Dr. David Z. Kushner, professor of music at Virginia's Radford College, has received a commission from the E. P. Dutton Publishing Company for world publishing rights on his article about Ernest Bloch, Swiss-American composer. The article is slated to appear in Dutton's "Dictionary of 20th Century Music."

Dr. Kushner, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Kushner of Ellenville, is an advisor to The Ernest Bloch Society and a recognized authority on the famed composer and his music.

Television

Even with all the re-runs, homescreen viewers will be able to find much that is new and timely on TV during the week ahead.

Timely indeed is the topic of heart transplants and the severe moral and medical problems which surround them will be discussed by pioneers in the field tonight. At 10 p. m. this evening, Channel 17 will present "The Surgeons Assess Organ Transplants," and on tap for the special 90-minute show will be Dr. Christian Barnard, Dr. Norman Shumway, and Dr. Dwight E. Harken. The program will be a condensed broadcast of the highlights of the first annual John F. Kennedy Symposium on Recent Significant Developments in Medicine and Surgery. A panel discussion, it'll focus on a debate between liberal and conservative doctors over the science and ethics of heart transplants.

Still another timely and pressing subject is "This Question of Violence," which will be the topic of inquiry on a program by that name on Channel 17 this Sunday, June 16, at 5 p. m. A delving into the nature and history of violence in this country, the show was being prepared for a fall airing, but is being presented now because it has specific significance in the aftermath of Senator Robert F. Kennedy's assassination.

Probes the Roots

As a feature of NET JOURNAL, the program will probe the roots of violence in American life, seeking a cultural and historical basis to answer the question: Is this a violent society? There will be a segment filmed at a Detroit hospital for violent children and one containing portions of a seminar filmed June 1 and 2 in Los Angeles, just prior to Sen. Kennedy's shooting, at which the subject of violence was discussed by authoritative anthropologists, psychologists and psychiatrists.

Respite from the pressures and problems of the modern world are also in store for TV fans this week. There's the coming production of the Miss College Queen Pageant, set for NBC-TV on June 17. Billed as a true pageant and not a variety show where contestants must sing, dance and perform other assorted acts, this one will accent the theory that the contest is the thing that first sold these shows. College Queen will be set up so that the 10 finalists will be selected in the first 10 minutes of the show, affording an opportunity for viewers to see how the contest builds with the few who are left and who can be identified by everyone in the TV audience.

Also coming up is a musical landmark described as "a special no music lover should miss." That would be the recording of Wagner's musical drama, "Die Goetterdaemmerung," which brought together some of the greatest opera stars of our time. It'll be documented on "The Golden Ring" Wednesday, June 19 on Channel 17. A Viennese ballroom was converted into a studio; and for eight days NET FESTIVAL cameras moved in and out of the hall televising the rehearsals, playbacks, and recording sessions of this mammoth event.

Recalls the '30s

Strictly for entertainment will be The Goldiggers, the 10-week summer replacement series for Dean Martin, based on tunes and events of the 1930's and debuting on NBC-TV June 20. Comedy actor Paul Lynde (he of the shark-like grin) will be the one who holds the show together, makes things run smoother, and serves as a sort of "glue man." Barbara Heller will play Mae West throughout the series. Also featured will be Joey Heatherton and Frank Sinatra Jr. What it all adds up to is a variety series about the '30s with the psychedelic look of the '60s and, along the way, salutes to Charlie Chan, Jack Armstrong, Mr. Anthony and This is Your FBI.

REFLECTIONS We have heard many say this week that whenever there is a national emergency, as with our most recent piece of lunatic violence, TV wins back—or should—all the friends it loses with its faults. One would have to agree that the immediacy of the medium can't be denied. . . . Nor can the honesty of men like David Brinkley, who said at one time, "There's no point in fooling anyone. We're just filling the air until we have some more news." But we also heard many others say the coverage was done to such excess that it often seemed more like a Sol Hurok production than anything else, and that the endlessness of the cameras following the route of the funeral train became almost unbearable as did many of the long day's journeys into night that filled the screen for the better portion of a week. . . .

David Frost proved himself an especially adept interviewer when he talked to the eight presidential candidates. His questions were intelligent and demanded revealing answers. He also listened to the answers and reacted to them, the sign of a good interviewer. So excellent were the interviews, they will be published as a book shortly. Most of them were cut because of time. . . . Anyone who has watched Treasure Isle on ABC-TV has to admit it's one of TV's most unusual shows. GLEN CAMPBELL, shown with Tom and Dick Smothers, calls the tunes for "The Summer Brothers Smothers Show," CBS summer series seen in the Sunday night time period usually occupied by the ebullient Smothers brothers. ("The Summer Brothers Smothers Show" is, perhaps, the most confusing, tongue-twisting bit since Sally sold sea shells on that old sea shore, and you better believe it was so designed by the brothers Summers . . . ooops . . . Smothers.)

Apostle of 'Soul'

Ray Charles, known by admirers as "The Genius," will appear for one night only at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center, on June 26 at 8:30 p. m.

Charles will bring his piano, his own Ray Charles Orchestra and featured singing group, The Raeletts, to the SPAC amphitheater in the second of six pre-season special events sponsored by the Performing Arts Center.

The singer-pianist has played to over eight million people in 21 countries all over the world, earning himself a reputation as the apostle of "soul." His fans are of all ages: devotees of jazz, pop music, rhythm and blues, and country and western music.

Charles was honored in 1963 with a "Grammy" Award for his rhythm and blues record, "Busted," and has received a total of six Grammys for recordings. Special awards have been created for him by the French government, by trade publications and magazines.

Among his best-selling recordings are "Crying Time," "That Lucky Old Sun," "Georgia On My Mind," and "I Can't Stop Loving You." Recent hits are "Yesterday," and "Portrait of Ray."

Although Charles plays and sings songs in all these categories, more than 90 per cent of the numbers he records and plays before live audiences are his own compositions and arrangements. He records only what he likes and feels is suited to him. Charles must feel a song. If he does not, he will not sing it and he will not record it.

Born in Albany, Georgia, in 1932, he was blinded by a childhood disease at the age of six, and grew up in a home for blind children in St. Augustine, Florida. Orphaned at the age of 15, he formed his own musical trio at that time, and has since added constantly to his creative achievements. He recently starred in his first motion picture, "Ballad in Blue," and co-authored its theme song, "Light Out of Darkness."

Apostle of 'Soul'

Ray Charles, known by admirers as "The Genius," will appear for one night only at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center, on June 26 at 8:30 p. m.

Charles will bring his piano, his own Ray Charles Orchestra and featured singing group, The Raeletts, to the SPAC amphitheater in the second of six pre-season special events sponsored by the Performing Arts Center.

The singer-pianist has played to over eight million people in 21 countries all over the world, earning himself a reputation as the apostle of "soul." His fans are of all ages: devotees of jazz, pop music, rhythm and blues, and country and western music.

Charles was honored in 1963 with a "Grammy" Award for his rhythm and blues record, "Busted," and has received a total of six Grammys for recordings. Special awards have been created for him by the French government, by trade publications and magazines. Among his best-selling recordings are "Crying Time," "That Lucky Old Sun," "Georgia On My Mind," and "I Can't Stop Loving You." Recent hits are "Yesterday," and "Portrait of Ray."

Although Charles plays and sings songs in all these categories, more than 90 per cent of the numbers he records and plays before live audiences are his own compositions and arrangements. He records only what he likes and feels is suited to him. Charles must feel a song. If he does not, he will not sing it and he will not record it.

Born in Albany, Georgia, in 1932, he was blinded by a childhood disease at the age of six, and grew up in a home for blind children in St. Augustine, Florida. Orphaned at the age of 15, he formed his own musical trio at that time, and has since added constantly to his creative achievements. He recently starred in his first motion picture, "Ballad in Blue," and co-authored its theme song, "Light Out of Darkness."

That 'Catch-22' Man

Jason Robards' next stage effort will be in Joseph Heller's "We Bombed in New Haven," scheduled to make its Broadway bow in October. Diana Sands will co-star.

This is an anti-war drama, and not, as its show-slanted title might indicate, the disastrous tryout of a new play in New Haven, where many a Broadway production has gotten its start. Actually, the Yale Drama School gave the Heller work its first staging several months ago. Heller, new to the theater, is the author of the highly popular off-beat novel of several years ago, "Catch-22."

That 'Catch-22' Man

Jason Robards' next stage effort will be in Joseph Heller's "We Bombed in New Haven," scheduled to make its Broadway bow in October. Diana Sands will co-star.

This is an anti-war drama, and not, as its show-slanted title might indicate, the disastrous tryout of a new play in New Haven, where many a Broadway production has gotten its start. Actually, the Yale Drama School gave the Heller work its first staging several months ago. Heller, new to the theater, is the author of the highly popular off-beat novel of several years ago, "Catch-22."

THE FOX. Sandy Dennis whose widdershins acting style impressed us not at all in "Sweet November," is excellent in this film, though the movie goes sour anyway.

D. H. Lawrence was an author who insisted on writing in terms of explicit sex back in those days when the world was still impressed by moralistic censors. Now his novella "The Fox" has been brushed off and fluffed up for 1968 movie audiences. For this reviewer, who has read everything ever written by Lawrence, the movie puts in too much sex that was never there in the first place.

To make his film provocative, daring and controversial, director Mark Rydell creates a bizarre love-triangle; heats up the screen with three gratuitous physical set-tos: girl and man in, of all places, a hunting cabin (shades of Lady Chatterley's Lover); girl and girl between the coverlets; and a girl alone with her bathroom mirror.

It's all very daring, we suppose, in that we see the latent Lesbian relationship between two young women living on an isolated, ramshackle chicken farm in desolate, snowbound Canada, shattered by the arrival of an attractive, virile man.

Sandy Dennis excels dramatically as Jill, a fidgety fuss-budget with a wiggly mouth and a shattered psyche. Anne Heywood is cool and competent in the role of the stronger girl who mends fences and shoots it out with the fox that marauds the henhouse. Keir Dullea plays Paul, a merchant seaman on leave and the symbolic fox who disturbs and destroys the female household.

As far as we're concerned, you can keep the ending, but we have to admit that the scenes of passion are explicit, the performances excellent, and the photography poetic. And, although the subtle moodiness of the film has been praised by some critics, the DAR went on record as objecting to the nude sequence. It's at the Mayfair here for the present.

FOR A FEW DOLLARS MORE. Out at the 9-W Drive-In we have the sensational Clint Eastwood who, as the poncho-wearing, cigar-smoking "Man With No Name," captivated world audiences in the phenomenally successful "A Fistful of Dollars." He's back in his second screen adventure and he brings along a saddle-mate quite worthy of him in "For a Few Dollars More."

The saddle-mate is "The Man in Black," no mean threat himself, and the two of them go about the business of bringing in killers for a price in a wholly competent and fascinating (?) fashion.

It's a new formula for violence and its success at the box office cannot be argued. The story may not be much but it's been pulling crowds into theatres everywhere. All it's got is two men riding out of a western town to get a deranged killer who has just broken jail.

They are, of course, the cool, deadly, accurate with a six-gun Eastwood, who's The Man With No Name, and Lee Van Cleef, who plays Col. Mortimer, who wants revenge because the criminal was responsible for the tragic death of his sister.

From there on in, there's a hodgepode of bank robberies, the laying of elaborate traps, escapes from jail, double-crosses, growing mistrust between the two bounty hunters, fierce battles, and just about anything and everything else you can think of.

Ironically, this brutal, Italian-made western with American stars is paired with YOURS, MINE AND OURS on the double bill at the 9-W. That one was reviewed here recently; will be remembered as an overweight comedy with Henry Fonda as a Navy officer who gets transferred to shore duty in San Francisco to enable him to take care of his 10 motherless children. It also has Lucille Ball as a widow and mother of eight, who bumps into Fonda at a supermarket, marries him, and takes on the job of running a household for 20 people in a rambling Victorian mansion where beds are assigned, clothing and lines organized tightly in Navy style, and food fed in quantities by the ton. It's all very light-heartedly ridiculous and made even more so by the contrast to the flip side of the double feature.

DR. ZHIVAGO. Everything that could be said has already been said about this spectacular movie, filmed on locations in Spain, Finland and the Canadian Rockies. Back again as a re-release, it needs little advertising since everyone knows it is the film version of Boris Pasternak's celebrated novel and won six Academy Awards.

It's worth seeing again, of course, and — if you have never seen it — it's a virtual must. Five thousand costumes were used in the film, it boasts a stellar cast, and it vividly recreates Moscow in the early '20s. Pasternak's fascinating characters are brought to life in a love story set in turbulent times . . . and brilliantly so by such actors as Omar Sharif, Julie Christie, Geraldine Chaplin, Rod Steiger, Alec Guinness, Tomy Courtenay, Siobhan McKenna, Ralph Richardson and Rita Tushingham.

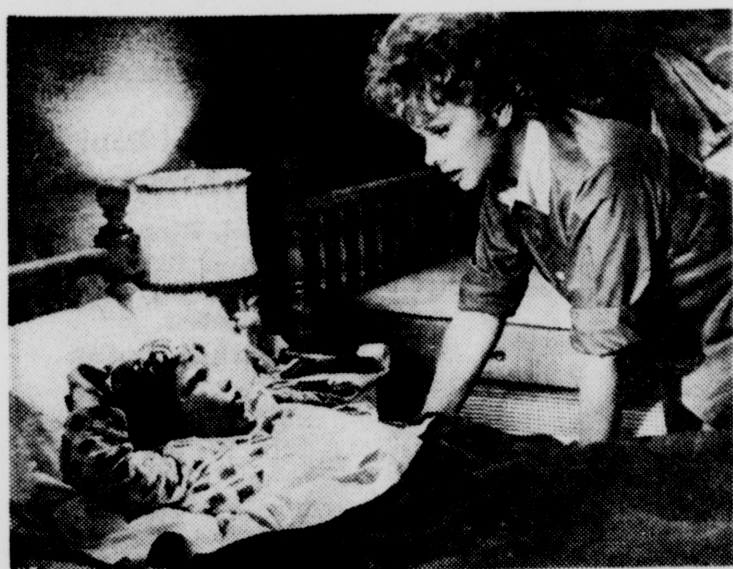

As it spectacularly appears on the screen of the Community Theatre here currently, the dramatic story of "Doctor Zhivago" evokes the whole experience of Russia in the past 50 years and is presented through many characters whose destinies are interwoven.

It's a unique motion picture and the full potential of the novel has been realized on the screen in the depiction of intimate human relations against a vast background of sweeping events.

IN COLD BLOOD. If you missed the screen version of Truman Capote's "nonfiction novel" during its earlier appearances in this area, it's now playing at Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema. This film renders up reality in all its painstaking minutiae and harrowingly anatomizes a multiple murder. Based on the real life crime that took the lives of four members of the prosperous Clutter family of Holcomb, Kansas, it focuses on their killers, Perry Smith and Dick Hickock, who were executed in 1956. Powerful and fascinating, the film follows Capote's story with remarkable fidelity. Scott Wilson and Robert Blake soar to stardom in the roles of the ex-con and stunted-legged killer whose twisted minds accomplished one of the nation's vilest crimes. — TOBIE GEERTSEMA.

YURI ZHIVAGO (Omar Sharif) and Lara (Julie Christie) find their early friendship is culminating in an impassioned love affair in David Lean's film of Boris Pasternak's "Doctor Zhivago." The MGM picture, in Panavision and color, which won six Academy Awards, is now in re-release and running at Kingston's Community Theatre. Movie centers on revolutionary Russia and also stars Geraldine Chaplain, Tom Courtenay, Alec Guinness, Siobhan McKenna, Ralph Richardson, Rod Steiger and Rita Tushingham.

LUCILLE BALL handles a bedtime chore in the comedy-drama, "Yours, Mine and Ours," the film in which a widow and a widower meet, court and marry. She comes to the marriage with eight children of her own . . . and he has 10. Film is modelled on the famous northern California Beardsley family that actually lived it; is now on the outdoor screen at the 9W Drive-in here on a double bill with "For a Few Dollars More," the second of the sensational new Clint Eastwood starrers.

One That Survived

Theatre, someone has said, is the cat with a thousand lives rather than the legendary nine. For it has been known to struggle, thrive, die and be reborn again. And—within each cycle—little theatres, unknown actors, little known plays are lost for ever from sight while others live on, reappear or take their places in history.

Then, too, there are the small theatres that survive unnoticed but seem to be endowed with that very special touch of something that refuses to allow them to give up. Forestburgh Summer Theatre at nearby Monticello has been very definitely had that tough quality. The Catskill Mountains there have seen the coming and going of uncounted numbers of theatres and actors, of large ambitions and noble efforts and unpaid bills left behind. But, somehow, Forestburgh alone has managed to survive.

Scott Dellheim, who is connected with Forestburgh Summer Theatre (it begins its 21st life this season), feels this little showhouse has survived because of all the young people who came to work there over the years—young people who came out of the Air Corps and other branches of the service, up from Macy's basement, off the streets of Greenwich Village, and out of wealthy suburban homes.

They came to hammer endless pounds of nails, wash towers of dirty dishes, and learn thousands of lines. And they were helped by those who supplied transportation, fixed worn tires, sold hardware along with wisdom, made sure the actors had something to eat, supported the theatre by their attendance, praised the work in newspapers, forgave mistakes, and shared the trials, tribulations and love of those at Forestburgh as the theatre shared what it had to offer with the residents of the Catskills.

Says Dellheim: "Forestburgh new begins its 21st life . . . but we know there will be many more lives to go for our little summer theatre."

Film is modelled on the famous northern California Beardsley family that actually lived it; is now on the outdoor screen at the 9W Drive-in here on a double bill with "For a Few Dollars More," the second of the sensational new Clint Eastwood starrers.

One That Survived

Theatre, someone has said, is the cat with a thousand lives rather than the legendary nine. For it has been known to struggle, thrive, die and be reborn again. And—within each cycle—little theatres, unknown actors, little known plays are lost for ever from sight while others live on, reappear or take their places in history.

Then, too, there are the small theatres that survive unnoticed but seem to be endowed with that very special touch of something that refuses to allow them to give up. Forestburgh Summer Theatre at nearby Monticello has been very definitely had that tough quality. The Catskill Mountains there have seen the coming and going of uncounted numbers of theatres and actors, of large ambitions and noble efforts and unpaid bills left behind. But, somehow, Forestburgh alone has managed to survive.

Scott Dellheim, who is connected with Forestburgh Summer Theatre (it begins its 21st life this season), feels this little showhouse has survived because of all the young people who came to work there over the years—young people who came out of the Air Corps and other branches of the service, up from Macy's basement, off the streets of Greenwich Village, and out of wealthy suburban homes.

They came to hammer endless pounds of nails, wash towers of dirty dishes, and learn thousands of lines. And they were helped by those who supplied transportation, fixed worn tires, sold hardware along with wisdom, made sure the actors had something to eat, supported the theatre by their attendance, praised the work in newspapers, forgave mistakes, and shared the trials, tribulations and love of those at Forestburgh as the theatre shared what it had to offer with the residents of the Catskills.

Says Dellheim: "Forestburgh new begins its 21st life . . . but we know there will be many more lives to go for our little summer theatre."

Champagne Toast to 'Girl' Tonight

Tonight's the night the lights go up again at the Woodstock Playhouse. And this is the night, too, when the Playhouse opens its 31st summer season with the glittering comedy "Star Spangled Girl," one of Neil Simon's most recent Broadway successes. Playwright Simon's list of hits also includes "The Odd Couple" and "Barefoot in the Park."

This evening's opening at the art colony's durable theatre once again offers the traditional champagne punch reception for the public. And such a reception, of course, can be counted on to add more sparkle to what is already shaping up as a gala premiere.

For "Star Spangled Girl" is a thoroughly modern and totally engaging show. The plot centers around two young men in San Francisco who are involved in publishing a small magazine of rebellious content. This little literary enterprise is called Fall-out and one of the men, Norman, writes it in its entirety under a host of pseudonyms. The other young man, Andy, handles the editing and marketing. Alas, however, Fall-out is not a money maker.

Andy to the Rescue

To prolong the necessity of paying the rent, poor Andy must entertain the landlady and keeping her busy at flying, skiing, surfing and other pleasures nearly makes an invalid of Andy, who ends up in a state of nervous and physical exhaustion.

Back home in the apartment, Norman continues to slave over his typewriter, all the time wishing for a girl far different from the landlady—a girl who would be young, blonde and beautiful.

As if in answer to his dreams, just such an angel moves into the apartment next door. Moreover, she's not just ANY young, beautiful blonde, she's the "star spangled girl" of them all, former U. S. Olympic swimmer, Sophie Rauschmeyer, from the deep South. And the comedy really gets moving when Norman begins to haunt her and Andy tries to keep the magazine and himself alive.

Campbell Returns

Gary Campbell returns to the Playhouse to play editor-escort Andy Hobart. This will be Campbell's third season at the Playhouse. Last summer he appeared in "The Devil's Disciple" and as the poignant young Irish lad Gar in "Philadelphia

Here I Come." Gene Nye is featured as Andy's roommate, the love-smitten writer Norman. Nye was a member of the Hudson Valley Repertory company and will be remembered for his marvellously funny Diggory in "She Stoops to Conquer." The Woodstock Playhouse's Star Spangled Girl will be Margaret Cathell, who was also a member of the HuvRep acting company and appeared as the eloping young lady in "She Stoops to Conquer."

The play will be directed by the Playhouse's resident director, Harold Balridge, and designed by Harry Moss, with lighting by Jerry Richland.

Tickets are available for this and all performances and the box office is open daily, and reservations can be made by calling there.

"Star Spangled Girl" will play through June 23rd with performances Wednesday through Saturday at 8:40 p. m. and Sunday at 7:30. Coming later in the season: "The Lion in Winter," "Black Comedy," "The Odd Couple," "The Homecoming," "The Apple Tree," "Guys and Dolls," "Marat/Sade," and "Staircase."

GARY CAMPBELL

in a supreme test of physical and mechanical endurance.

At 10 a. m. on February 12, 1908, six automobiles representing France, Italy, Germany and the United States lined up at Times Square as some 250,000 persons witnessed the start of the 22,000 mile trek (13,341 land miles) across the United States, Japan, Siberia, Manchuria, Russia, Germany and France.

The lone American entry was a four cylinder, 70 horsepower 1907 Thomas Flyer manufactured and entered by the E.R. Thomas Company of Buffalo, N.Y., a stock model selected six days prior to the start of the race.

After 42 days of battling blizzards, snow drifts, mud and freezing temperatures, the Thomas Flyer arrived in San Francisco 11 days ahead of its nearest rival in the race.

The official route designated by race officials called for all contestants to travel by ship to Valdez, Alaska, from Valdez through Fairbanks, Tanana, Unalakleet and Nome, from Nome to East Cape Siberia by boat 150 miles. However when this route was declared impractical the Thomas Flyer returned from Valdez to Seattle where it was placed aboard an ocean liner and shipped to Yokohama and later to Kobe. The Thomas continued 350 miles on land across Japan, then by ship from Tsuruga to Vladivostok, Siberia, and by way to Harbin, Tschita, Irkutsk, Omsk, Tomsk, Tiumen, Ekaterinburg, Nijni Novgorod, Moscow, St. Petersburg, Berlin and to Paris.

The 8,280 miles from Vladivostok to Paris took 72 days. It was reported by the crew that the privations were awful, the food was poor, drinking water scarce, and only five nights were spent in bed during the entire trip across trackless Siberia, where roads were too narrow for the tread so the car was never in the track.

The Thomas Flyer triumphantly entered Paris at 8 p. m. on July 30, exactly 170 days out of Times Square, escorted by a cavalcade of automobiles and thousands of cheering Frenchmen.

Perhaps in years to come when space travel is commonplace, the New York-To-Paris Race will be looked upon as a primitive adventure, but in 1908 no one could deny this experience as proof of man's continuous ability, daring and ingenuity to overcome physical obstacles blocking the path of progress.

The record of the Thomas Flyer reads like a chapter out of a rough-and-tumble novel of peril, hardship and deprivation:

22,000 miles in 170 days with a total running time of 88 days, a daily average of 152 miles per day, and the longest day's run exactly 420 miles.

The only car that compiled with the rules and went the official route for a total of 5,031 miles more than its nearest competitor.

3,836 miles traveled across the U. S. in the worst season of the year with zero temperatures, roads covered with deep snow for miles or gumbo mud further West, snow-packed mountains to climb, streams to ford, sandy deserts to traverse.

350 miles across Japan where roads were so narrow on mountains that only a few inches were left between the wheels and the precipices and ravines and the car had to be lifted around the curves at times.

8,280 miles from Vladivostok to Paris in 49 days despite the fact that at Vladivostok one of the competitors cornered all the gasoline, detaining the Thomas for three days after the sportsmanship of the crew was illustrated when they pulled the Protos car out of the mud and lost valuable time.

450 miles from Vladivostok to Harbin on crossties where wheels ran the risk of locking between the ties on the outside of each rail and made for a most fearful bumping and jolting test to men and machine.

72 days in Trackless Siberia, carrying two barrels of oil along with the more than 800 pound load over too narrow roads with bad food available, no water, and little sleep.

But the Thomas Flyer made it all the way and, somewhere in this valley, there still may be someone who remembers that day in 1908 when the Sizaire-Naudin car was unable to proceed, decided not to continue as a contestant and dropped out and quit the race at Red Hook.

And for some, perhaps, almost equal to the excitement generated by the New York-to-Paris Race in 1908 was the restoration of the Thomas Flyer by Harrah's Automobile Collection, Reno, Nevada, shortly after this world famous car was acquired by casino owner, William Harrah.

The car was restored not to its original factory specifications but rather to the condition that it was when it arrived in Paris at the end of the race in 1918. The restoration, one of the most enthusiastic and enterprising attempted by Harrah's craftsmen, was completed in about six weeks involving more than 40 restoration experts.

From 1912 when the Thomas Flyer was sold during the E.R. Thomas Company bankruptcy sale, this world champion car remained in storage deteriorating throughout the passing years and was in very poor condition when it arrived in Reno in 1964.

As noted above, George Schuster, who drove the Thomas Flyer into Paris in 1908, is still living today, and in 1964 when Harrah's Automobile Collection started to restore the car, Schuster, then 92 years old, was invited to come to Reno to lend his first hand experience and knowledge of the car which proved invaluable during the restoration.

Sixty years ago this Thomas Flyer made history. Today the car once again occupies a place of distinction at Harrah's Automobile Collection where it reposes on a red carpet platform several inches above the showroom floor.

And, for those residents of the Hudson Valley who happen to be in the right spot at the right time tomorrow, a treat is in store for faded jet-age eyes as George Schuster and the Thomas Flyer, leaving the display room red carpet behind, pass our way as they did more than half a century ago.

Maverick Concerts Begin 53rd Year This Month

TEMPO hails the series of concerts just announced by the Maverick Concerts Committee for its 53rd year as an impressive and musically rewarding season. Music lovers in the country at large and in Woodstock in particular look with pride upon the Maverick where, for more than five decades, chamber music of the highest order has been offered year after year.

And the established tradition will continue this season when all the great works of the repertoire will be presented, along with a list of novelties for a little spice. Among ensembles slated to play at the Maverick this summer are: The Garvanas Trio with violinist Alice Smiley; The Continental Piano group with soprano Ruth Conway as soloist in a Memorial Concert to the late Woodstock composer, Hannus Schimmerling; the Festival Winds with Melvin Kaplan on oboe; the highly acclaimed and much admired Philadelphia Trio featuring local resident musicians, Charles Libove and his wife; and the Curtis String Quartet.

Other programs will feature violinist William Kroll, pianist Ilse Sass, The New York Chamber Trio with Joseph Wolman at the piano, and, as a special treat, the renowned Beaux Arts Quartet, winner of the Naumburg Prize. Appearing as guest artist with this group will be pianist Nina Lugovoy. Near season's end, audiences will have the opportunity of hearing the New York Chamber Soloists and the Pacific String Trio.

Outstanding Season

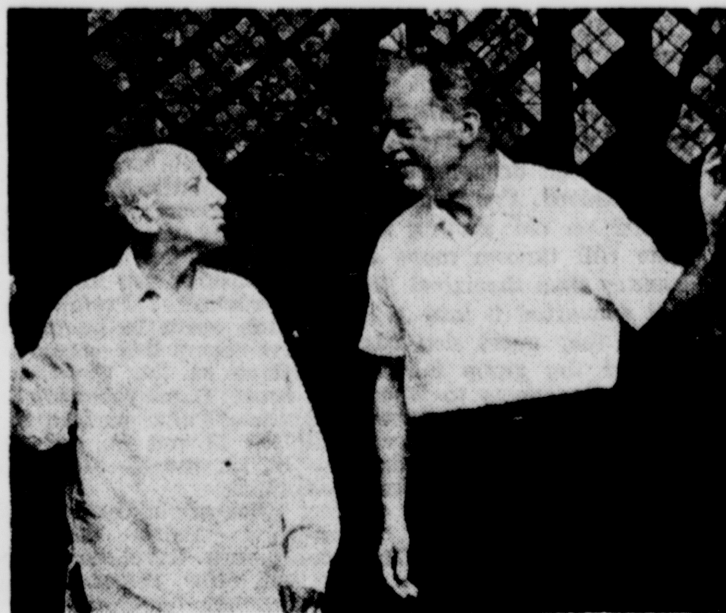

The Maverick Concerts Committee is justifiably proud to have been able to arrange a season featuring such celebrated musicians and outstanding ensembles, all of whom command high fees elsewhere. Their faith in the local organization and their love of this area brings them to the rustic old Maverick Hall regardless of the financial returns.

And the hall's location is one of the loveliest in the United States. Its sylvan setting does not diminish the extraordinarily good acoustics and, this summer—as every summer—the Maverick Concerts on the outskirts of Woodstock are expected to attract the usual capacity audiences. Most of the credit for lining up this season's high quality performers must go to Alexander Semmler, musical director of the concerts.

It is the belief of Semmler and the committee that no other form of music generates such intimate and intense pleasure as chamber music. Small wonder when the greatest masters have written some of their noblest works for this medium and when chamber music is considered the highest musical expression.

The committee is convinced that this summer at the Maverick will again assure a highly satisfactory and rewarding experience to those patrons who will make up the audience.

WELL-KNOWN COMPOSERS — Alexander Semmler (R) and the late Henry Cowell posed for relaxed portrait as the Maverick Concerts opened for still another season several years ago. Today, the Maverick series holds the distinction of being the oldest continuing program of chamber music concerts in the United States. After more than five decades, the outdoor musical presentations in the woods-surrounded Maverick Hall still attract SRO crowds on Sunday afternoons during the summer season.

Fine Arts, Crafts and Photo Exhibit for Fair

Early registration is the byword for those intending to enter exhibits in the Fine Arts and Crafts and Photography Department at this year's Orange County Fair.

Fair planners for the Middletown event have stressed the early registration. "Last year we had 1,502 entries and could have had a lot more," they point out, "if the deadline had been met."

As it was, a good number of late entries were turned down. "These (Arts and Crafts) exhibitors always seem to be slow in registering," the committee said. "If all these people will register a little earlier this year, we would not have any trouble bettering last year's total of 1,502 entries."

The Fine Arts and Crafts and Photography Department will award over $1,700 in premiums this year to more than 500 exhibitors.

List Restrictions

Entries in this department are restricted to residents of Orange County and adjoining counties

in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. The entry must be the composition of the exhibitor.

Anyone interested in entering the Fine Arts and Crafts and Photography competition should call or write the Orange County Fair, 239 Wisner Avenue, Middletown, N.Y., 10940 for an entry book.

This year's Fair will run from Friday, July 26th through Sunday, August 4th.

Entries in the Fine Arts division will be divided into two classes — amateurs and professionals. In addition, a special "Grandma Moses" category will be featured for those age 65 or over.

Section 2 will be a High School Poster Contest for children in grades nine through 12, and junior fine arts, crafts and hobbies categories. Children of pre-school age will also be able to exhibit in a special pre-school crafts section.

Other Classes

Other classes are Adult Crafts, Handicapped, Hobbies and Antiques. The photography division will also be broken down into separate classes for amateurs and professionals, with both competing together in a special class for colored slides.

Entries cannot be accepted if they have taken a first prize in this department before, and an entry can compete in one class only.

It should also be pointed out that no commission will be charged on articles or paintings sold at the Fair that are on exhibit. Such articles are to be tagged "For Sale," with the price stated thereon.

SONIA AT PHILADELPHIA FOLK FESTIVAL

New TV Series Set

Sonia Malkine, Woodstock's popular French folksinger with the beautiful, quiet voice will be taping a second all new TV series this summer for educational television.

Her first series of 10 weekly shows was televised this year in New York State from Rochester, Syracuse, and nearby Schenectady. Nationwide the programs have been viewed within the triangular area bounded by the cities of Chicago, Boston, and Washington D.C.

Sonia's regular one hour radio program is broadcast from New York City by WBAI, 99.5 on your FM dial, Tuesday 11-12

p.m. and Wednesday afternoons 3-4 p.m. Her last guest was Sam Eskin, Woodstock's famous folklorist, on June 11 and 12 and Pete Seegar is scheduled for June 25 and 26.

Her two LP record albums of French Folksongs, which include French words, English translations, and background material are available from Folkmusic, Box 496, Woodstock, N.Y.

Sonia has been invited to represent the French ethnic group of this country and sing at the 31st annual National Folk Festival in July. The meeting will be an important part of the Milwaukee World's Summer Festival in Wisconsin.

Pop Jazz Explosion at Newport

The hit record charts will be well represented at this year's Newport Jazz Festival, July 4-7 at Festival Field, Newport, Rhode Island. In an era which finds rock and roll, folk-rock, and soul music dominating the record industry, jazz artists are more than holding their own in the quest for popular acceptance. In fact the success of jazz on the popular market has generated a new term "The Pop-Jazz Explosion."

Dionne Warwick, who will appear for the first time at the jazz festival on Saturday, July 6, has dominated the record charts all year. Her "Valley of the Dolls" sold well over a million records and her latest hit "Do You Know the Way to San Jose" is fast reaching that magic number. Ray Charles who consistently has been a leading record seller for many years, has a new hit album "Portrait of Ray" which he will feature on his special Sunday afternoon (July 7) appearance. Nina Simone (Thursday, July 4) has just released a beautiful and moving song dedicated to the late Martin Luther King entitled "Why? The King of Love is Dead."

Cannonball Adderley's "Mercy Mercy" and Ramsey Lewis' "The In Crowd" were two of the most successful tunes ever recorded by jazz artists. Lewis will perform Sunday, July 7 which Cannonball who has a new hit "74 Miles Away" will appear on opening night, July 4.

Wes Montgomery (Sunday, July 6) has sold more records than any other jazz artist this year. He has had three hit albums including "A Day in the Life" and his single of "Going

Out of My Head" is now a classic.

New artist Hugh Masekela record artist, comedian Flip Wilson who we predict will be the popular discovery of this year's festival has a successful album entitled "Alive and Well at the Whiskey." He will star with Miss Warwick and Duke Ellington on Saturday, July 6.

The festival's Sunday night program boasts one other hit record artist, comedian Flip Wilson. Wilson's album "Cowboys and Colored People" has had such success that it has made him one of the fastest rising young performers in America. His new album "You Devil You" is also a best seller.

Busy Spring For Pianist

Pianist Isabelle Byman, who summers in Woodstock, spends the remainder of the year on the piano faculty of New York's Juilliard School of Music, is currently involved in a busy schedule of concertizing, lecturing, teaching and adjudicating.

Miss Byman recently appeared as guest artist with the Kohon String Quartet at Manhattan's Town Hall in the Hadley Quintet and the Liszt Sonata for piano and violin. At York, Pennsylvania, she spent a week as adjudicator for the National Guild of Piano Teachers.

She has also received news that Arlene Ripkin, a Byman

Fine Arts, Crafts and Photo Exhibit for Fair

Early registration is the byword for those intending to enter exhibits in the Fine Arts and Crafts and Photography Department at this year's Orange County Fair.

Fair planners for the Middletown event have stressed the early registration. "Last year we had 1,502 entries and could have had a lot more," they point out, "if the deadline had been met."

As it was, a good number of late entries were turned down. "These (Arts and Crafts) exhibitors always seem to be slow in registering," the committee said. "If all these people will register a little earlier this year, we would not have any trouble bettering last year's total of 1,502 entries."

The Fine Arts and Crafts and Photography Department will award over $1,700 in premiums this year to more than 300 exhibitors.

List Restrictions

Entries in this department are restricted to residents of Orange County and adjoining counties in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. The entry must be the composition of the exhibitor.

Anyone interested in entering the Fine Arts and Crafts and Photography competition should call or write the Orange County Fair, 239 Wisner Avenue, Middletown, N.Y., 10940 for an entry book.

This year's Fair will run from Friday, July 26th through Sunday, August 4th.

Entries in the Fine Arts division will be divided into two classes — amateurs and professionals. In addition, a special "Grandma Moses" category will be featured for those age 65 or over.

Section 2 will be a High School Poster Contest for children in grades nine through 12, and junior fine arts, crafts and hobbies categories. Children of pre-school age will also be able to exhibit in a special pre-school crafts section.

Other Classes

Other classes are Adult Crafts, Handicapped, Hobbies and Antiques.

The photography division will also be broken down into separate classes for amateurs and professionals, with both competing together in a special class for colored slides.

Entries cannot be accepted if they have taken a first prize in this department before, and an entry can compete in one class only.

It should also be pointed out that no commission will be charged on articles or paintings sold at the Fair that are on exhibit. Such articles are to be tagged "For Sale," with the price stated thereon.

SONIA AT PHILADELPHIA FOLK FESTIVAL

New TV Series Set

Sonia Malkine, Woodstock's popular French folksinger with the beautiful, quiet voice will be taping a second all new TV series this summer for educational television.

Her first series of 10 weekly shows was televised this year in New York State from Rochester, Syracuse, and nearby Schenectady. Nationwide the programs have been viewed within the triangular area bounded by the cities of Chicago, Boston, and Washington D.C.

Sonia's regular one hour radio program is broadcast from New York City by WBAI, 99.5 on your FM dial, Tuesday 11-12

p.m. and Wednesday afternoons 3-4 p.m. Her last guest was Sam Eskin, Woodstock's famous folklorist, on June 11 and 12 and Pete Seegar is scheduled for June 25 and 26.

Her two LP record albums of French Folksongs, which include French words, English translations, and background material are available from Folkmusic, Box 496, Woodstock, N.Y.

Sonia has been invited to represent the French ethnic group of this country and sing at the 31st annual National Folk Festival in July. The meeting will be an important part of the Milwaukee World's Summer Festival in Wisconsin.

Pop Jazz Explosion at Newport

The hit record charts will be well represented at this year's Newport Jazz Festival, July 4-7 at Festival Field, Newport, Rhode Island. In an era which finds rock and roll, folk-rock, and soul music dominating the record industry, jazz artists are more than holding their own in the quest for popular acceptance. In fact the success of jazz on the popular market has generated a new term "The Pop-Jazz Explosion."

Dionne Warwick, who will appear for the first time at the jazz festival on Saturday, July 6, has dominated the record charts all year. Her "Valley of the Dolls" sold well over a million records and her latest hit "Do You Know the Way to San Jose" is fast reaching that magic number. Ray Charles who consistently has been a leading record seller for many years, has a new hit album "Portrait of Ray" which he will feature on his special Sunday afternoon (July 7) appearance. Nina Simone (Thursday, July 4) has just released a beautiful and moving song dedicated to the late Martin Luther King entitled "Why? The King of Love is Dead."

Cannonball Adderley's "Mercy Mercy" and Ramsey Lewis' "The In Crowd" were two of the most successful tunes ever recorded by jazz artists. Lewis will perform Sunday, July 7 which Cannonball who has a new hit "74 Miles Away" will appear on opening night, July 4.

Wes Montgomery (Sunday, July 6) has sold more records than any other jazz artist this year. He has had three hit albums including "A Day in the Life" and his single of "Going

Out of My Head" is now a classic.

New artist Hugh Masekela, who we predict will be the popular discovery of this year's festival has a successful album entitled "Alive and Well at the Whiskey." He will star with Miss Warwick and Duke Ellington on Saturday, July 6.

The festival's Sunday night program boasts one other hit record artist, comedian Flip Wilson. Wilson's album "Cowboys and Colored People" has had such success that it has made him one of the fastest rising young performers in America. His new album "You Devil You" is also a best seller.

Busy Spring For Pianist

Pianist Isabelle Byman, who summers in Woodstock, spends the remainder of the year on the piano faculty of New York's Juilliard School of Music, is currently involved in a busy schedule of concertizing, lecturing, teaching and adjudicating.

Miss Byman recently appeared as guest artist with the Kohon String Quartet at Manhattan's Town Hall in the Hadley Quintet and the Liszt Sonata for piano and violin. At York, Pennsylvania, she spent a week as adjudicator for the National Guild of Piano Teachers.

She has also received news that Arlene Ripkin, a Byman student, received a $1,700 scholarship at Oberlin College of Music, and that two of her youngest students, nine-year-old Wanyong Lai and his 10-year-old brother, Eseng, won out in auditions that assured them spots as featured soloists in the recent DuPont Fashion Show in DuPont Auditorium in New York's Empire State Building.

New Ties to New Paltz . . . Old Claims in Woodstock

More than a dozen years have passed since a small nucleus of talented singers—all students of operatic stage director Josef Turnau, began producing opera as they had dreamed it should be produced. For starters, they picked an old skating rink in Pine Hill (known more as ski country than theatrical ground) and converted it into a place where they could sing onstage.

Later the group moved further down county to Woodstock and there the singers remained summer after summer...until this year. While the artistic atmosphere of the art colony was conducive to the plans of the Turnau Opera Players, financial problems were often encountered at the box office, mostly due to the fact that the charmingly rustic theatre in which they performed was tiny by any standards.

Once a mere fledgling of the Woodstock art colony, Turnau grew over the years until it held recognized status as a permanent, highly respected company. Summertime seasons in Woodstock led to winters in Sarasota, Florida, tours to college campuses everywhere, and national publicity and acclaim.

Home in 1968

The excellence of Turnau productions also led to a designation as a non-profit organization and support in part by the New York State Council of the Arts. All this combined to help Turnau outgrow its crowded environs in Woodstock's Byrdcliffe Theater (which had originally been the library of the first art colony in the early 1900's) and now Turnau has shifted permanent homes. While Turnau flowered in Woodstock, it hopes to attract a wider audience by moving to New Paltz this summer. The company will be in residence at the State University College there from July 19 to Aug. 26. But old ties bind and the Players will journey back to Woodstock for six performances this season.

The move to New Paltz meant abandoning the modest, rustic Byrdcliffe Theatre, located in a mountain site three miles outside Woodstock and seating only 200 persons, for far larger performing space on the campus. Nor will the six time return to Woodstock see Turnau back at Byrdcliffe. Performances of each opera to be given in the art colony this season will take place at the Woodstock Playhouse. Dates listed for these outside-of-Paltz performances are July 22 and 29, and August 5, 12, 19, and 26—all Monday evenings.

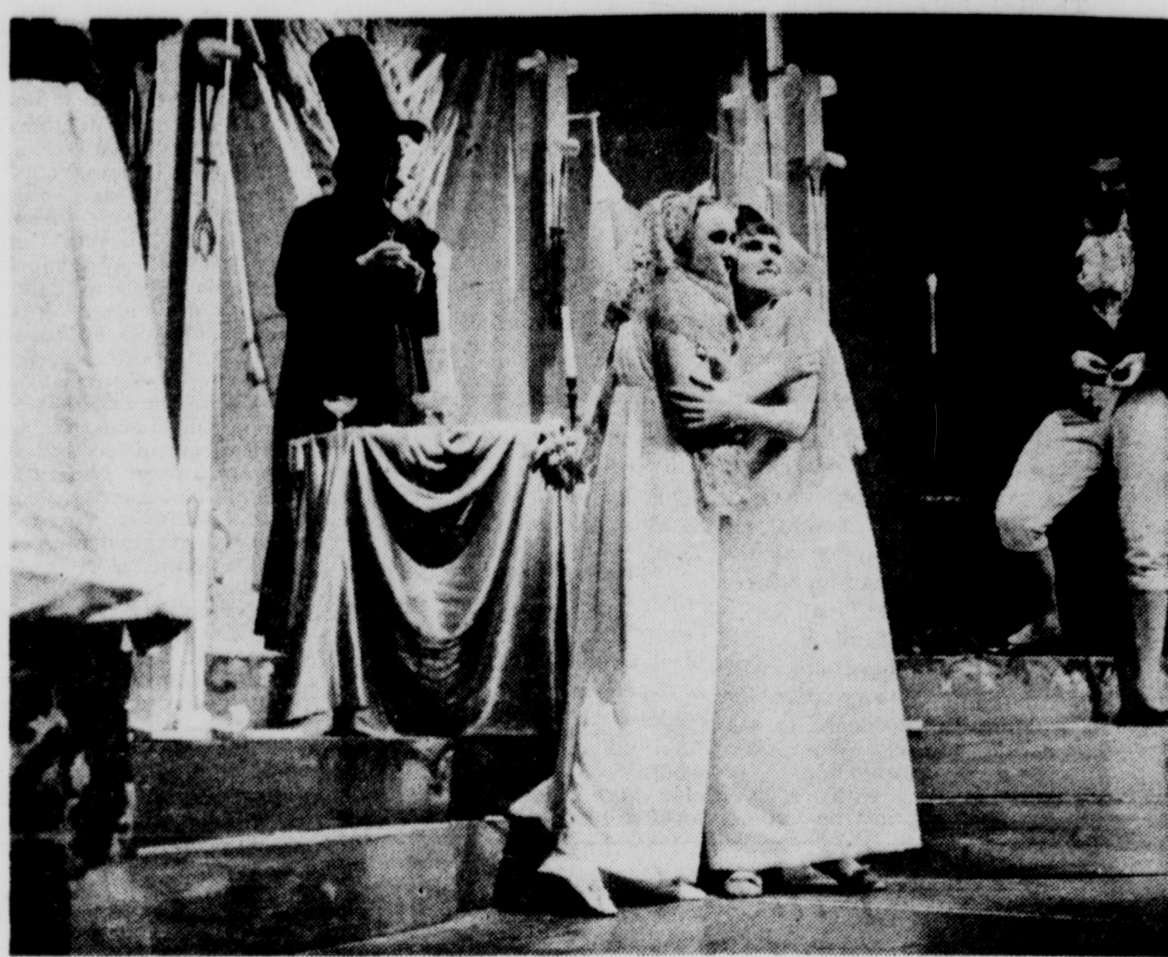

Meanwhile, back at the new New Paltz base, Turnau Players have announced they will offer discount rates this summer for theater parties in their new location in the Main Auditorium of the college where all performances will be given at 8:30 p.m. on the dates of production.

Under the discount plan (which applies to New Paltz performances only), it is hoped the company will find wider introduction, to the Mid-Hudson region as a professional troupe. The plan allows any group of 10 or more to purchase tickets at a substantial reduction from the face value for any performance during the season.

Varied Program

And the season is shaping up as a visual, dramatic and musical experience. At Paltz, the Players will present La Boheme July 19 and 20; Fledermaus, July 26 and 27; Abduction from the Seraglio, Aug. 2 and 3; Scenes from Ballo in Maschera, Rosenkavalier, and Faust, Aug. 9 and 10; L'Enfant Prodigue and The Scarf, Aug. 16 and 17; and Don Pasquale, Aug. 23 and 24.

Organizations interested in using the discount plan or groups may write to Turnau Opera Players, State University College, New Paltz, N.Y. 12561. Tickets for Woodstock productions may be obtained at the Playhouse box office.

All Turnau operas (with few exceptions) are performed in English and operas chosen for production are those from all periods which can be well produced under the working conditions of this most gifted troupe of singers. Turnau has produced some 45 works over the years and many of its performers have moved on to the Metropolitan, City Center, Sante Fe and European opera houses.

Tanglewood's Music

The Boston Symphony Orchestra's Berkshire Music Center opens its 1968 session at Tanglewood on Sunday June 30 a few days prior to the Orchestra's first Berkshire Festival concert. The Music Center again will be under the direction of the Boston Symphony's Music Director Erich Leinsdorf, and it will continue this summer with two distinct programs formulated several years ago by Leinsdorf.

In the Fellowship Program are 150 pre-professional instrumentalists, singers, conductors, and composers studying and performing chamber and orchestra music. Each of the Fellows enrolled in this program receives a stipend for his summer's work at Tanglewood.

The Tanglewood Institute held under the auspices of the Music Center, given by Boston University and the New England Conservatory of Music. The University offers music courses for advanced high school instrumentalists and other courses in drama, art, and the dance. The Conservatory gives two programs for music educators. All Tanglewood Institute courses will offer the option of college credit.

Louis Speyer serves as assistant director of the Berkshire Music Center with Joseph Silverstein as chairman of the faculty. Gunther Schuller is head of Contemporary Music Activities and Charles Wilson is head of the Vocal Department. Many of the faculty are principles of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Members of the Fellowship Program will give 12 concerts of chamber music and there will be seven concerts by the Berkshire Music Center Orchestra conducted by Leinsdorf, Aaron Copland, and Schuller, Silverstein, and Wilson. A large number of chamber music and choral programs are also scheduled for performance by the Tanglewood Fellows.

The Festival of Contemporary American Music, held in cooperation with the Fromm Music Foundation of Chicago, will be held from August 4 through 10. A special feature of this summer's Contemporary Festival will be the Berkshire Music Center Orchestra's performance of Arnold Schoenberg's Die Gluckliche Hand conducted by Erich Leinsdorf. Four composers, Mark Devoto, William McKinley, Stanley Silverman, and Richard Trythall, have been commissioned to write new music to be premiered during the Contemporary Festival. Schuller will direct two Composers Forums featuring works by the Music Center's composition Fellows.

Tanglewood on-Parade, the annual benefit program by the Boston Symphony Orchestra for the Music Center, is scheduled for August 21.
